A brick facade pointing towards
A faith strong in God
Rich in tradition
Historically monumental

White pillars of the community Representing Tradition
Achievement

Overall, a true sense of doing? fellowship?
The equal opportunity to be involved?

The highest standard of Education Excellence Cannot sharpen those it must deal with

A representation of all?
the will
To reflect back on that which depends on Reflection?

A reminder of what Tradition
Achievement
Stand for is not enough

Faith in ourselves
willingness to act
The spirit to achieve must be our Standard.

Pinball, Pool, And Relaxation

"Whose quarter's up for the next game?" asked many people who were trying to hustle a game of pool or pinball in the CAGE. If no reply came, they upped a quarter then sought somebody to match their talents against. Pool and pinball were not, however, the only reasons people found themselves congregating. A cooling coke during the humid month of September or a warming cup of hot chocolate during the biting month of January brought others as well. Evenings were often quiet and a solitary student could be found studying anything from theology to microbiology in the snack bar. The CAGE was also the scene of the French Cabaret, CSU concerts and displays, as well as a lot of conversations.

Thurber And Dinner Both Successful

Jan Glover and her students and Dean Nay and his staff successfully produced A Thurber Carnival dinner theater.
Many students were involved in short Thurber comedy sketches and likewise, many enjoyed the show.

The image features a white line graph on a black background. The graph consists of several connected line segments: a steep upward slope, a shorter upward slope, a downward slope, a longer upward slope, and a final downward slope. The text "TO BE" is written in white, uppercase letters along the final downward slope of the graph.

Thank You 1980 Tatler Staff

The 1978-1979 Tatler yearbook has suffered many set-backs in the last year, but it is finally finished and ready for print. Credit for having completed the book must be extended to the 1979-1980 Tatler staff who took on the task in addition to the 1980 Tatler. It is therefore my duty and my privilege to thank the staff.

Although many errors and problems will be found the staff did the best possible job that they could in the time frame allotted to complete the book. The year is covered in pictures more than words in this yearbook; but, nevertheless, it is covered.

Once again many thanks are extended to the staff of the 1980 Tatler yearbook for having completed the book.

Jim Thomas
1980 Tatler Editor
