Foreword

Souvenir of another year to remain golden in the memory, may every suggestion in picture and print bring sweet thoughts to the "Jewell" who, bald and fifty, takes up this volume to aid him in pleasant reminiscences. That it may prove an adequate history of the year of achievement it records, and worthy to take its place with the annals which have preceded it, is the desire of the Tatler of '23.

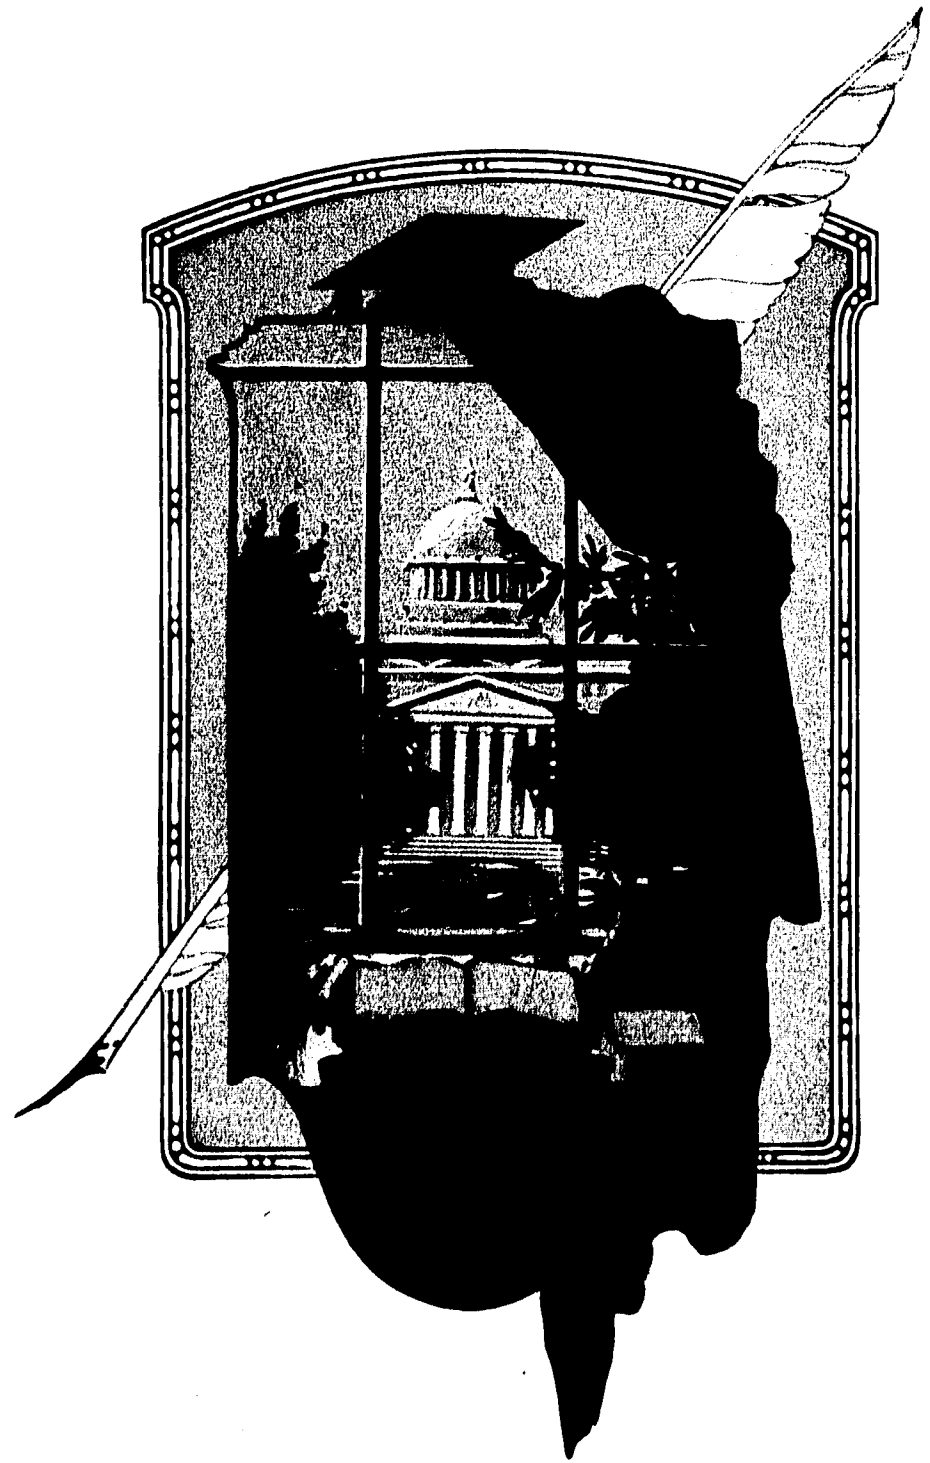

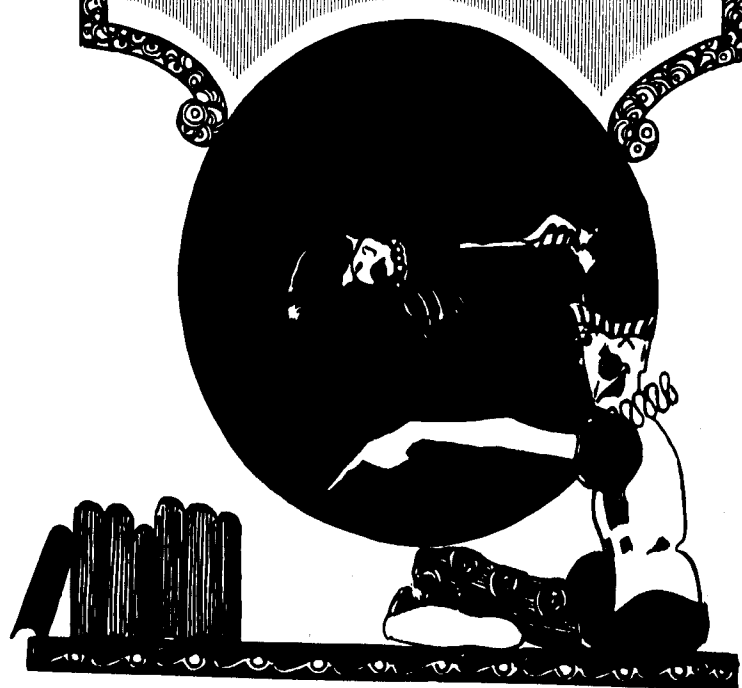

Dedication

To one whose merits are above praise, whose untiring interest in the welfare of William Jewell, fidelity to his work and inspiration to his students has won the deepest respect and the highest esteem of all, to Dr. R. H. COON the Class of 1924 most affectionately dedicates this volume.

The Friend You've Been

You've been the sort of friend to me
That I have sought for long,
You've ever been steadfast and true,
The one among the throng;
You've ever had a pleasing smile
And always have been kind,
A friend of so much worth to me,
Indeed is hard to find.

In days when I have lonely been,
And when the skies were gray,
When I have had to think the thot
"My home's so far away"
When in my heart a void arose,
And all seemed like midnight,
You came in view, a friend so true,
And changed that void to light.

Those days of doubt which always come
To all both soon or late,
Did spare not me but bold and tame
Came knocking at my gate.
And doubt which all men loath to have,
That man your sex can't trust,
You've drove as far away from me,
And now to trust, I must.

And so in life, as day by day
Draws closer to the end,
I'm counting now that I can say,
"You're evermore my friend";
And now if I should write anew
A title for this score,
I'd write not now "The friend you've been,"
But "my friend for evermore."

—Anonymous.

ATHLETICS

FOOTBALL

"Dad" Bowles

Robert E. Bowles, the much heralded Cardinal mentor needs no longer to have recounted on the printed page his ever recurring victories and his ever lengthening list of athletic achievements.

Never were victories alone paramount to him. His work is on a higher plane, his is a far more worthy task. He chooses rather to be a discoverer and a builder. His material is Jewell's young manhood, plastic, capable of recasting, often teeming with potentialities that only his knowledge of human nature can foresee and his miraculous power can transform.

From the depths of a princely character he brings to all his boys a ringing challenge for cleanliness of mind and body and from his sympathetic heart he gives encouragement to those who would meet his challenge.

His methods are simple; earnest and persistent effort, coupled with the ability to think clearly and a determination to live right.

His workshop is the gym and his laboratory Jewell Field.

With no other equipment save these he sets about his building task with whatever material comes to hand.

Gradually under the work of his master hand his material takes shape. Each day he casts into the mould a part of himself until the crystal of character is deeply embedded in his product. At last his work nears completion and his product walks forth, Jewell's most treasured creation, a man foursquare. In recognition of him who helped to build them and voicing their approval of his work his boys turn and call him "Dad".

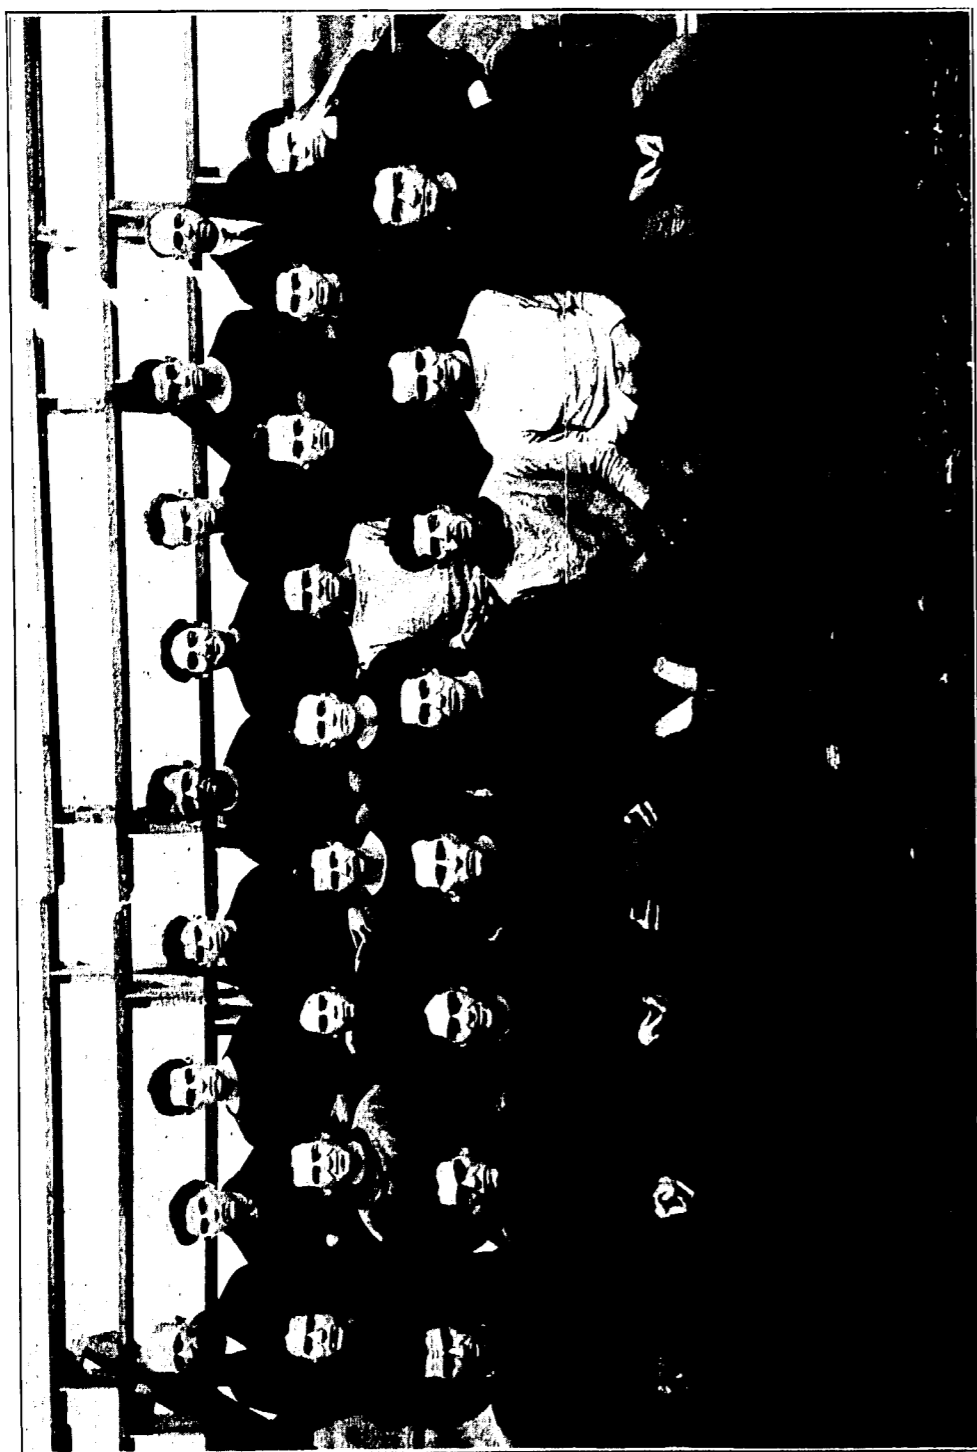

Hence his craftsmanship has created a product all his own which bears his characteristic stamp, "Dads Jewells", and William Jewell sons.

WOOD—CAPTAIN

Wood—captain, age 20, weighs 175, end and halfback. For three years "Hoot" was placed on the all state at an end position. Ranked as the best punter in the conference, he could dropkick, lug the ball or work on either end of a forward pass. One of Jewell's greatest wing men and versatile stars.

Football Season

The football season of '22 opened with one of the most promising squads of men which ever greeted Coach Bowles appearing in the initial work outs. The squad, captained by the versatile "Hoot" Wood, was composed of eleven letter men as well as a wealth of raw recruits which gladdened the heart of "Dad" because he lost by graduation four of his best men.

The initial game with the Baker Methodists at Baldwin proved disastrous to the unconditioned Cardinals and they lost by the score 0 to 25.

"Dad's" bitter disappointment was followed by a heavy training period of two weeks after which the "Big Red Team" rode rough shod over the Tarkio eleven on their home field claiming a 28 to 0 victory.

Two well disciplined elevens met the following week when the Cardinals invaded the stronghold of the Drury Panthers.

Wood's attempt to score a dropkick method was futile and the game ended in a scoreless tie.

The scream of the Central Eagle was the next challenge to the Cardinals and a bloody grid battle ensued. Malcolm, Eagle back, raced 40 yards to a touchdown on an intercepted pass.

The heavy Jewell line battered down their defense enabling the backs to roll up a score of 26 points as against their opponents 7.

The Warrensburg Mules followed in the wake of the Eagles and failing in their forward passing campaign lost to the Cardinals 28 to 0.

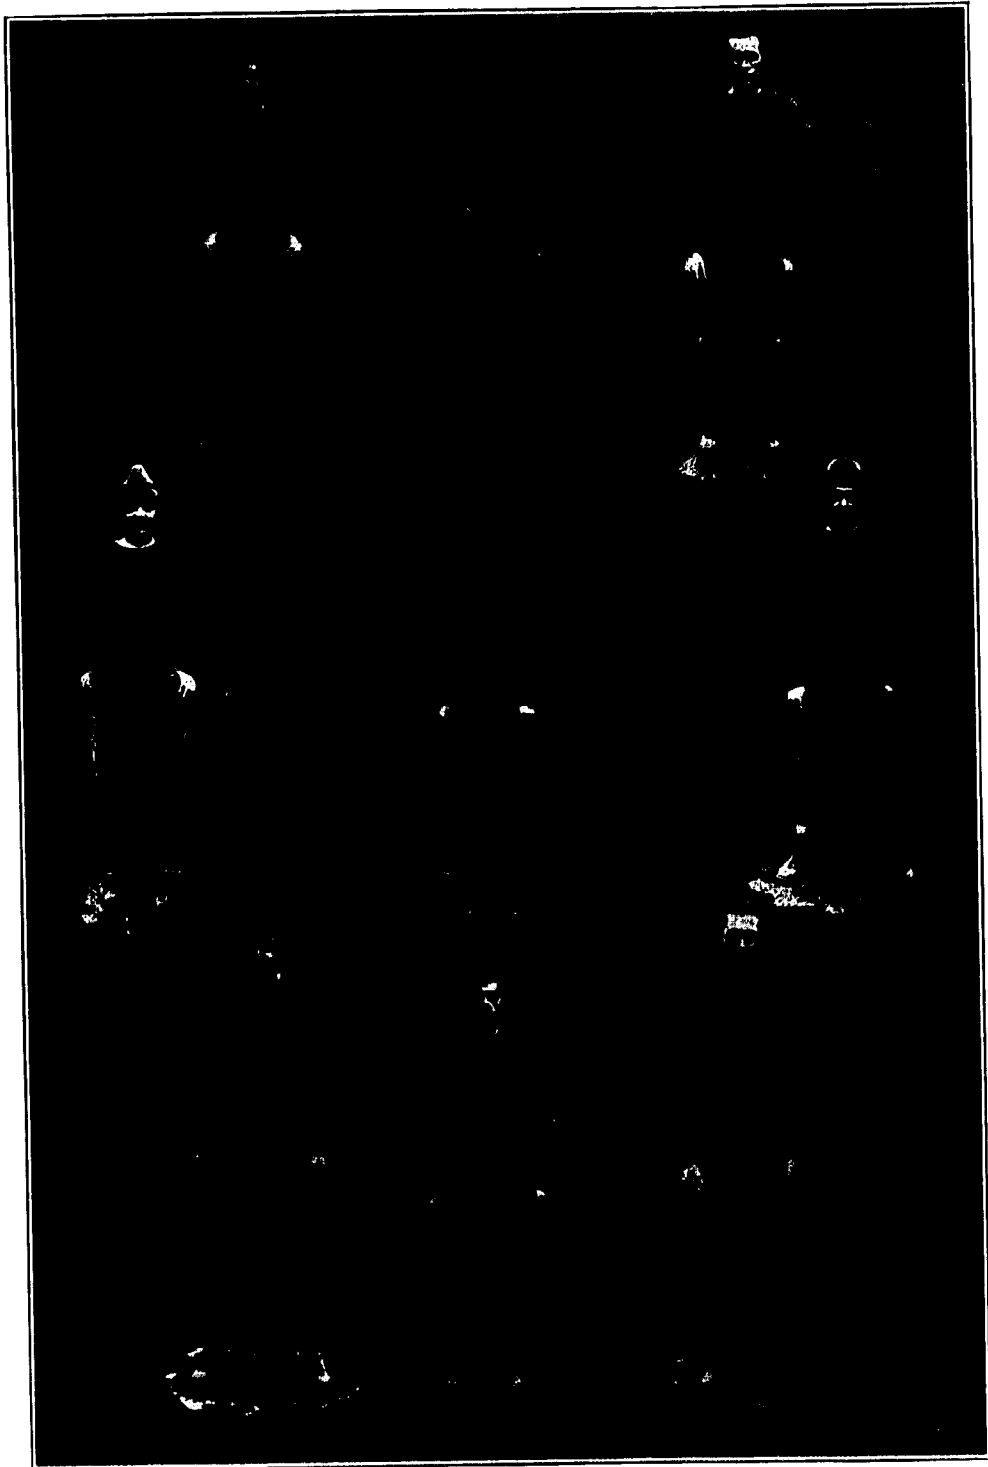

The much heralded Missouri Valley Vikings, Captained by the famous linesman "Moose" Durret, were plunging headlong for the M. I. A. A. championship when they attempted to defeat the Cardinals by an aerial attack. "Jabo" Elliott foiled their repeated attempts to score by the air route while Wood crashed through the Viking line for a touchdown and latter rounded out the score of 10 points by a placekick. McCutcheon was the outstanding Viking star.

With the Viking victory tucked under his belt the Jewell mentor concentrated his efforts on the game with Kirksville to be played at Association Park in K. C. By reason of the visit of J. Pluvius the game was converted into an aquatic meet which did not show the true caliber of either team and ended a scoreless tie.

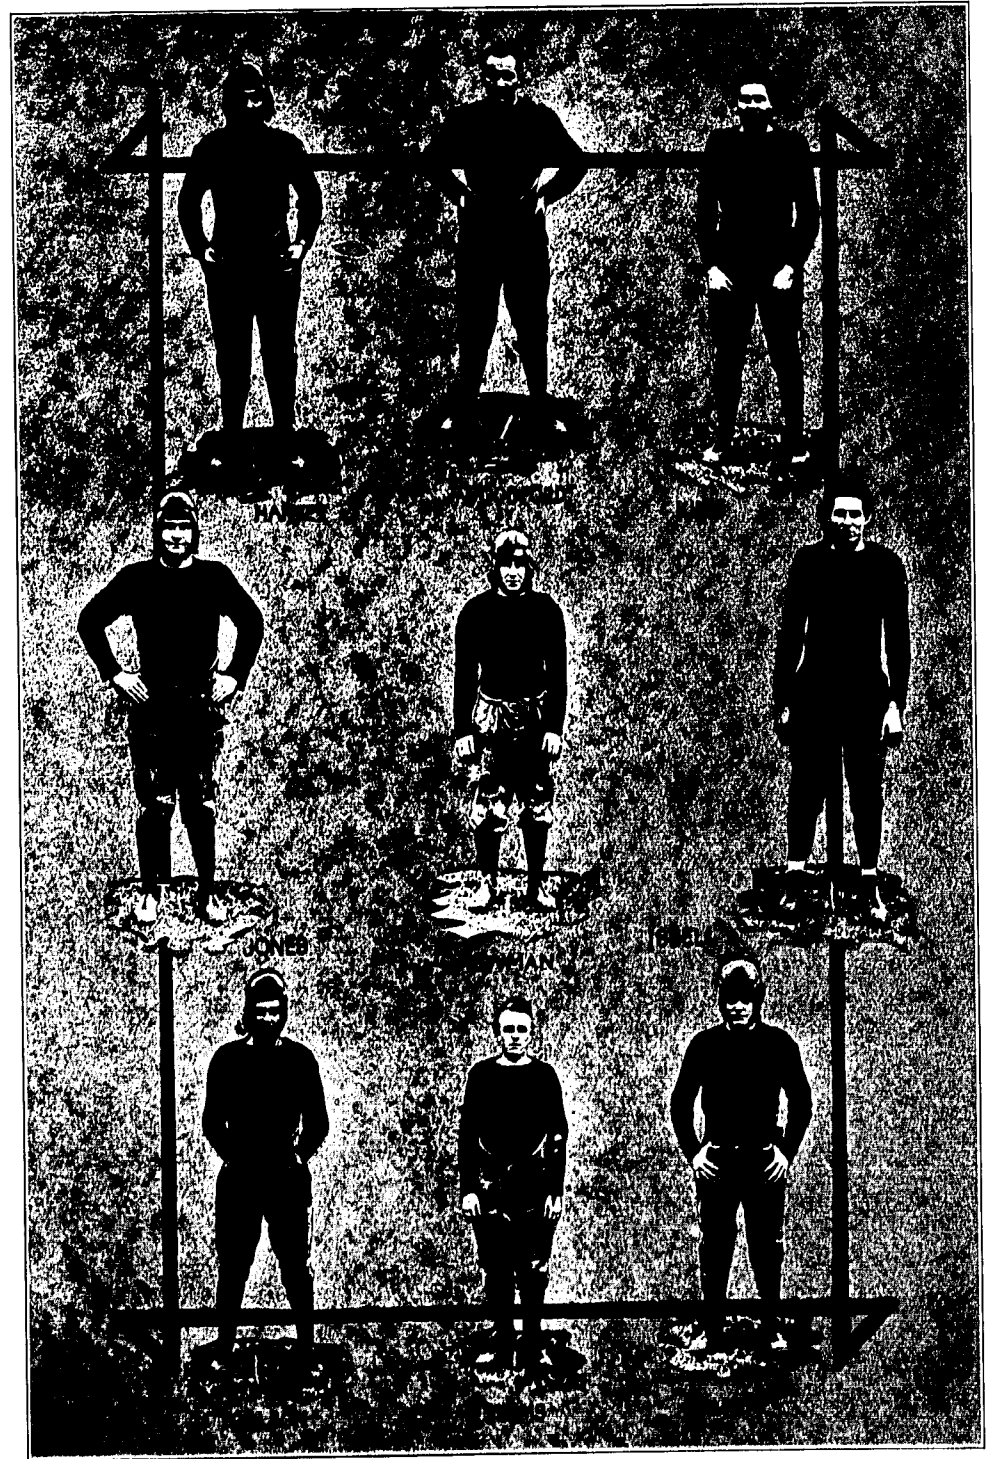

Thus far the Cardinals did not have a Conference defeat but they had yet to meet the proteges of the crafty Davis of Cameron. Before a record crowd on Thanksgiving Day the Jewells defeated their ancient rivals by a 15 to 0 score which enabled them to retain their perfect percentage and claim a share in the Championship of the M. I. A. A.

The brilliant work of Shoemaker, both in his generalship and his carrying the ball, thrilled the hearts of all who witnessed this classic gridiron event.

Letter Men

Justus—captain-elect, age 19, weighs 165, end. "Ernie", upon finishing his second year of service as a Cardinal, received honorable mention and was elected to pilot the Cardinals the ensuing year. He is a strong defensive player and is especially good at receiving passes.

Shoemaker—age 23, weighs 160, quarterback. Captain of the Cardinals and also of the all-state team in '21. All-state quarter in '22. Aggressive and consistent "Shoe" ranks with the greatest Jewell backs of all time. With the Thanksgiving game he donned for the last time his Cardinal uniform having seen four years of service.

Jones—age 24, weighs 205, guard and tackle. Jewell loses with Beef's graduation, one of her great linesman, and all-state guard in '22 and for four years a bulwark of strength in the Cardinal forward wall. Holds a record on blocked punts.

Isbell—age 22, weighs 170, center and tackle. Another Jewell son who graduates with four years service and who was on the honor roll. Strong on defense and an accurate snapper back man.

Barton—age 21, weighs 175, end and tackle. Began his gridiron career at end and won honorable mention. Went to tackle and again won the same distinction. During the season of '22 he won a berth on the second all-state at guard. A man of merit either on offense or defense.

Newman—age 23, weighs 145, end and halfback. "Toddy's" name came to be synonymous with versatility and consistency. He featured as Jewell's best safety and won a place at end on the 3rd all-state. Sorry to lose him by graduation Will coach Liberty High. Watch him.

Southard—age 23, weighs 225, guard. After resting for a time from the labor of making an all-state tackle, "Tubby" came back and placed on the third all-state at guard. Powerful on defense and could not be stopped on offense.

Toalson—age 19, weighs 190, fullback and guard. Received honorable mention in his second year of gridiron warfare. A tackling demon, "Bed" was a man of exceptionable worth in the line.

Elliott—age 19, weighs 165, halfback. "Jabo" finishes his second year of football. He is good for short gains thru the line, works well in interference and is majoring in the defeat of the air game.

Woodford—age 18 weighs 170, fullback. In his first year of college football he showed up well in every department of play. His line smashing and interference, won him a place on the honor roll.

Crouch—age 18, weighs 165, halfback. Although a first year man he was one of the hardest hitting backs on the team. Low and stocky he made a speciality of plowing the line.

Simms—age 18, weighs 140, halfback and quarter. A speed maniac, shifty effective at the passing game he won honorable mention.

Mueller—age 19, weighs 170, halfback and fullback. Tackling and interference was his stock in trade. His line plunging was always good for short gains.

King—age 19, weighs 145, center and halfback. "Dud" was fast and shifty with no end of fight. Good in interference and played the air game with credit.

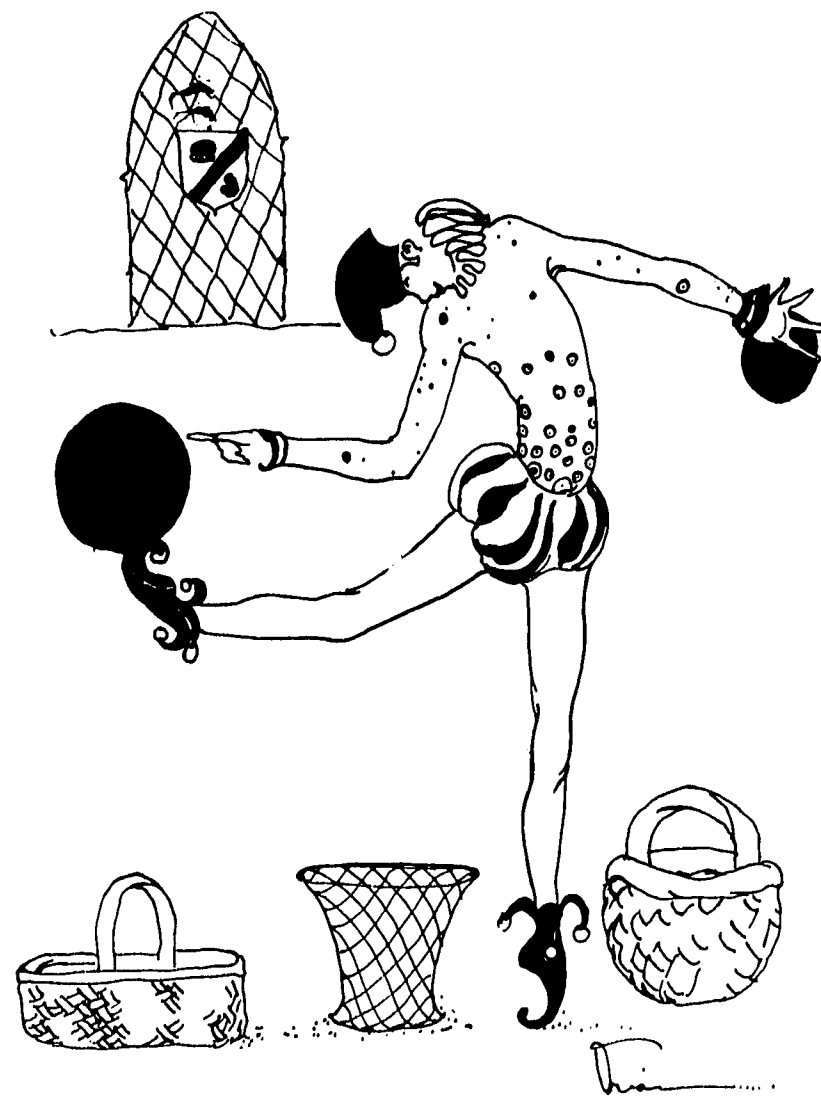

Risk—age 21, weighs 130, end. "Whitey" was known as the midget end. They could'nt get him out of the way. In the Turkey Day game he filled the shoes of Justus who suffered a broken leg and felled the Cameron fullback for a safety.

I sigh for the life that I would lead,
A life that thrills with noble deed.
But ever there comes to interfere
A world proasie with stand thou there
Aside for a moment or move thou on
To where those others before thee have gone
And mingle amidst the angry strife,
To be hounded there and robbed of thy life.

BASKETBALL

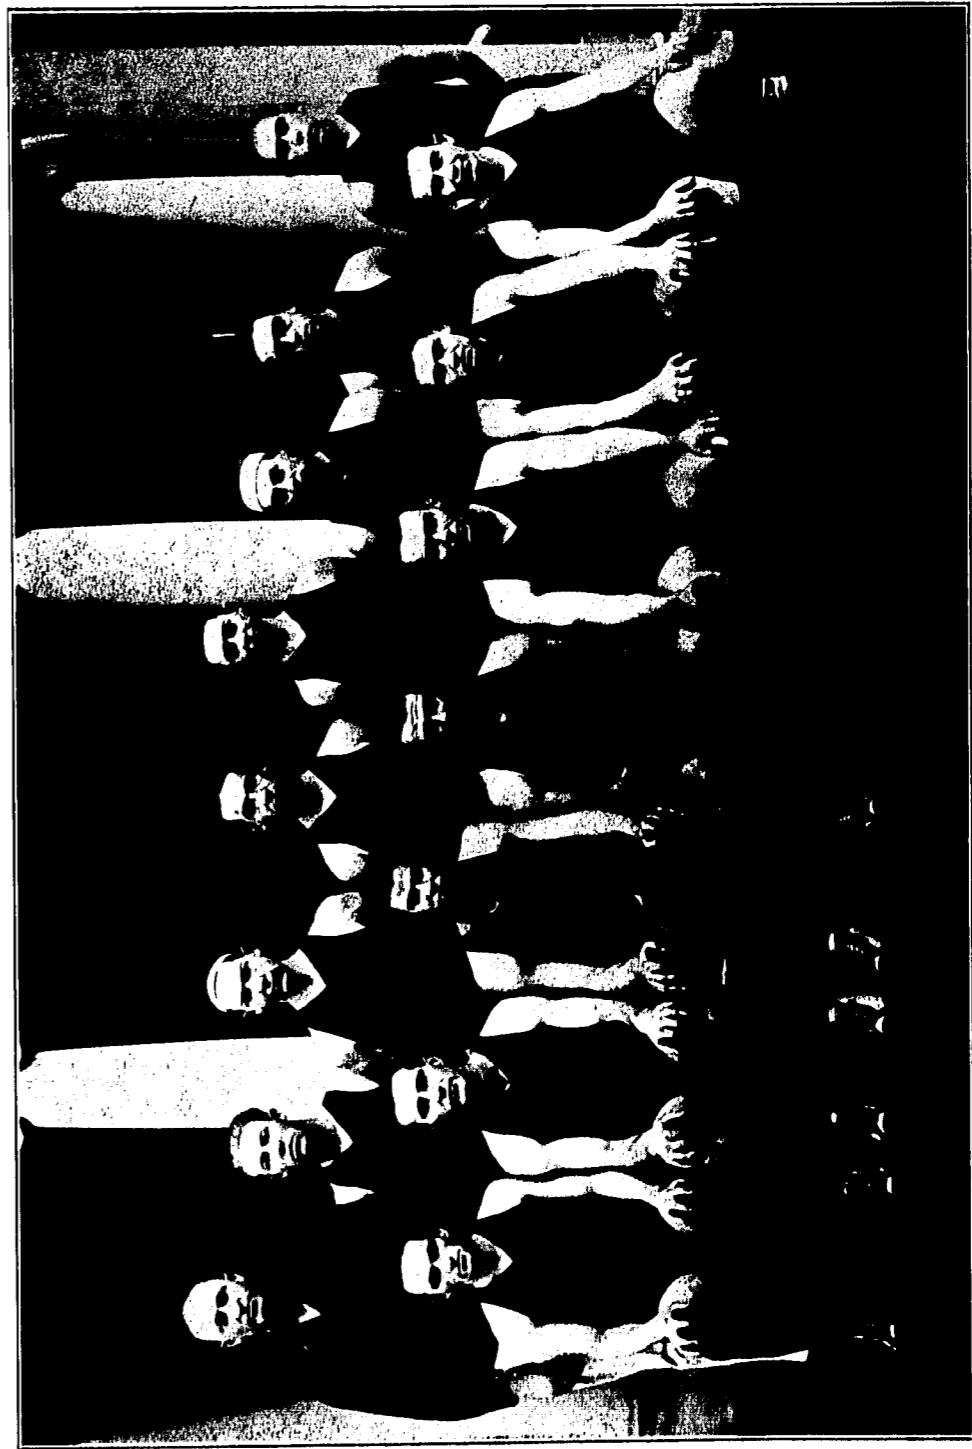

TOALSON—CAPTAIN

This year Jewell was exceedingly fortunate to have a man like Ben for captain. He's a natural born player, unselfish and always employs sportsmanlike tactics. Time and again he would allow his teammate to score even tho the ball was his and his chance was equally as good. This is Ben's second year at Jewell. Last year he won 4 letters which made him one of the best first year men Dad ever had.

His official position is center, weighs 180 lbs., is 5 feet 11 1-2 inches tall and 19 years of age.

Basket Ball Season

When the call for basketeers was issued, 4 letter men responded, Wood, Newman, Hall and Toalson as well as a wealth of new material. Captain-elect, Creed Joyce, failing to return, the mighty Ben Toalson was chosen to fill his place. This year Dad was confronted with the rather difficult problem of selecting an effective combination from what was almost entirely a list of guards. Finally after the Xmas holidays Dad selected 15 worthy recruits for his squad.

The initial game was played with the fast Maryville Teachers on Jewell's court which resulted in a 33 to 27 score in Jewell's favor. Next the Cardinals took on the speedy Junior College quintet of Kansas City and were turned back by a score 31 to 5. This did not subdue the boys' hopes for a winning team for they believed the old Jewell team would eventually find itself and hit its old stride. However something seemed lacking and a losing streak pursued them for a number of games, loosing 3 to Warrensburg, 2 to Mo. Wesleyan, 1 each to Central Wesleyan, Kirksville, and Central College but winning 1 game each from Mo. Valley and Westminster.

After the season had passed half by Dad succeeded in affecting a lineup which proved to be effective in winning a number of games while loosing others only by narrow margins. Toalson was shifted to center, Griffin to guard and Wood to forward. Games were won from Kirksville, 2 from Mo. Valley, 1 from Westminster, 1 from Junior College of St. Joe, while others were lost to Junior College of Kansas City, Drury and Tarkio by narrow margins.

The Jewell team was not lacking in team work, and although inaccurate at times at shooting baskets, made a credible showing as the final score will indicate.

Next year prospects for a winning team are indeed very bright. Considering the old men that will return and the new that is inevitable to show up any Jewell quintet ought to be a formidable aggregation. However we regret to loose one dependable, consistent and accurate player Toddy Newman, by reason of graduation.

Class Basket Ball

In accordance with a Jewell precedent the schedule for the Inter-class Basket Ball League was completed and practice begun.

Morgan was placed in charge of the Seniors, Wood became the Junior mentor, Toalson assumed charge of the Sophs while Cogswell became the Freshman pilot. McKissick was chosen to tutor the High School representatives.

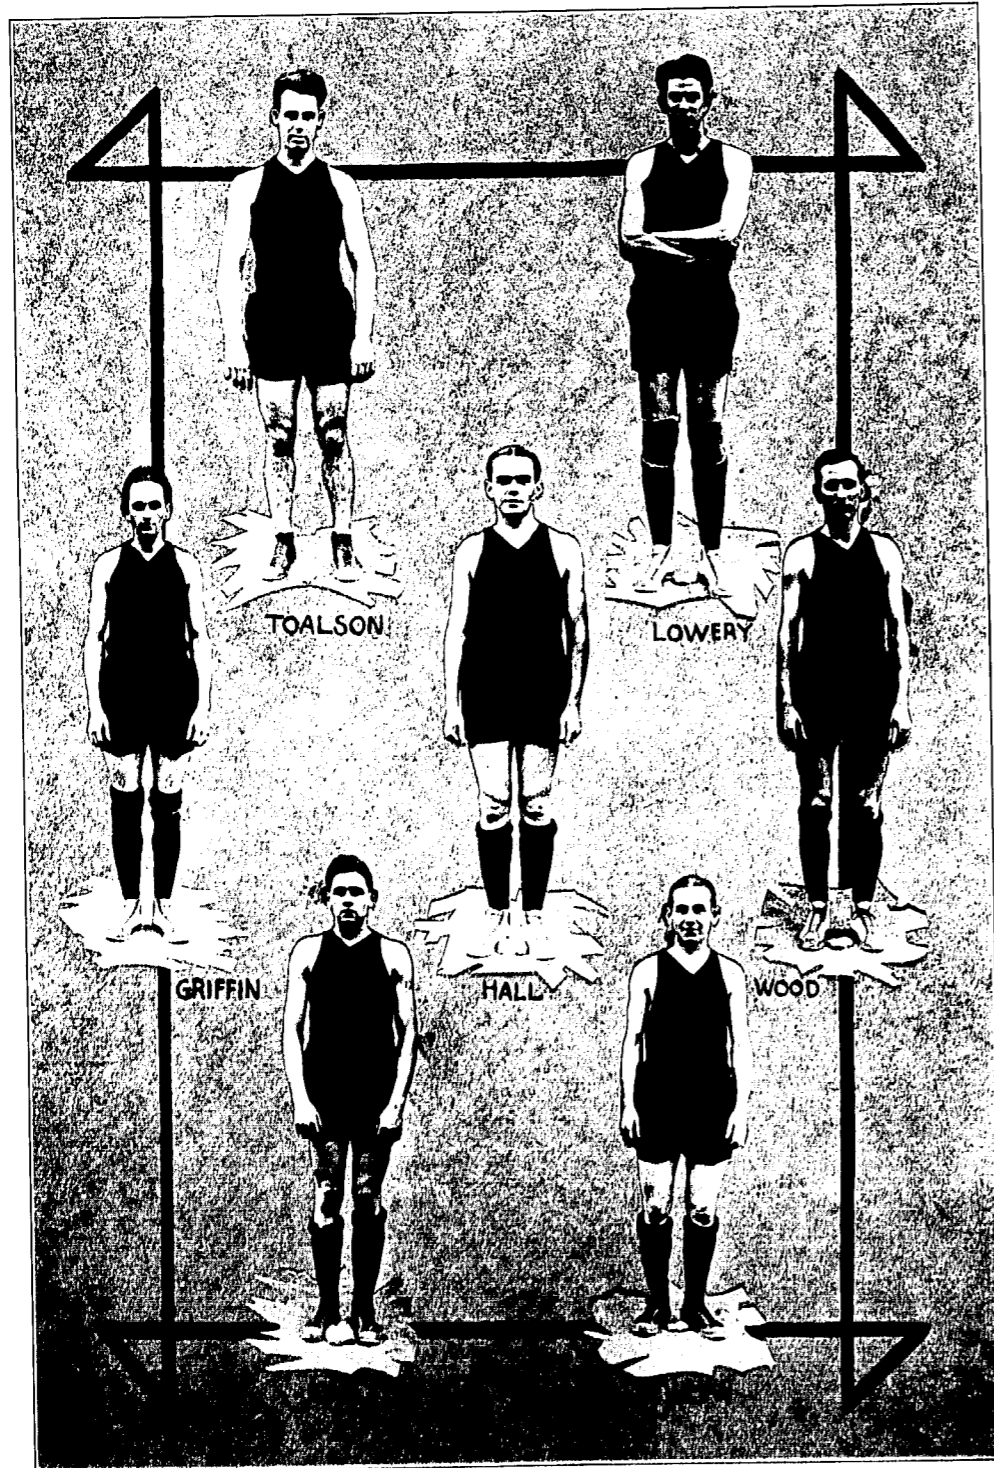

In the opening game the Juniors romped to a 54 to-3 victory over McKissick's lads after which the Freshmen took the measure of the Derbyites by a count 24-11.

The high five were then swamped by the former champion Sophomore team 36-1. Next the proteges of Cogswell won from the Juniors 28-14 but still being unsatisfied trimmed the Sophs 28-13.

Seemingly maddened by this result the Sophs ousted the Juniors from their place as runners-up by virtue of a 23-6 victory. The Seniors, not wanting to be outdone, plucked the High quintet 34-4 but allowed the Sophs to chalk up a 34-7 victory over them.

As if to make sure of the championship the Freshmen again wolloped the dishevelled Highs and were proclaimed winners of the honor.

Letter Men

Griffin—Weight 143 lbs., age 20, height 5 feet 10 inches. Griffin plays a stellar game as guard. He's fast, good at long shots and one of the very best dribblers in the conference.

Newman—weight 150 lbs., age 21, height 5 feet 6 inches. Toddy plays guard, is a steady consistent player and will be greatly missed next year. He held Williams of Warrensburg to 5 goals in three games which is an enviable record considering Williams made 9 in the K. C. A. C. game.

Wood—weight 180 lbs., age 20, height 5 feet 10 inches. Forward. This is "Hoots" second year on the varsity. He's high point man, dependable, plays hard and is a fine team man. "C. C." didn't play any while in high school.

King—weight 155, age 19, height 5 feet 10 inches. "Dud" is captain-elect. He's a guard by profession and can be depended upon to do the unexpected, making the hard shots, loosing the easy. He's also a good man to take the tip-off.

Hirni—weight 150, age 18, height 5 feet 10 inches. This is Hirni's first year at Jewell and every indication promises "Dad" a valuable man in the next 3 yrs. He's good on tips and under the goal.

Hall—weight 175, age 19, height 5 feet 11 inches. Guard. Roger is a valuable man against tall forwards. He's big fast and has lots of pep and scrap.

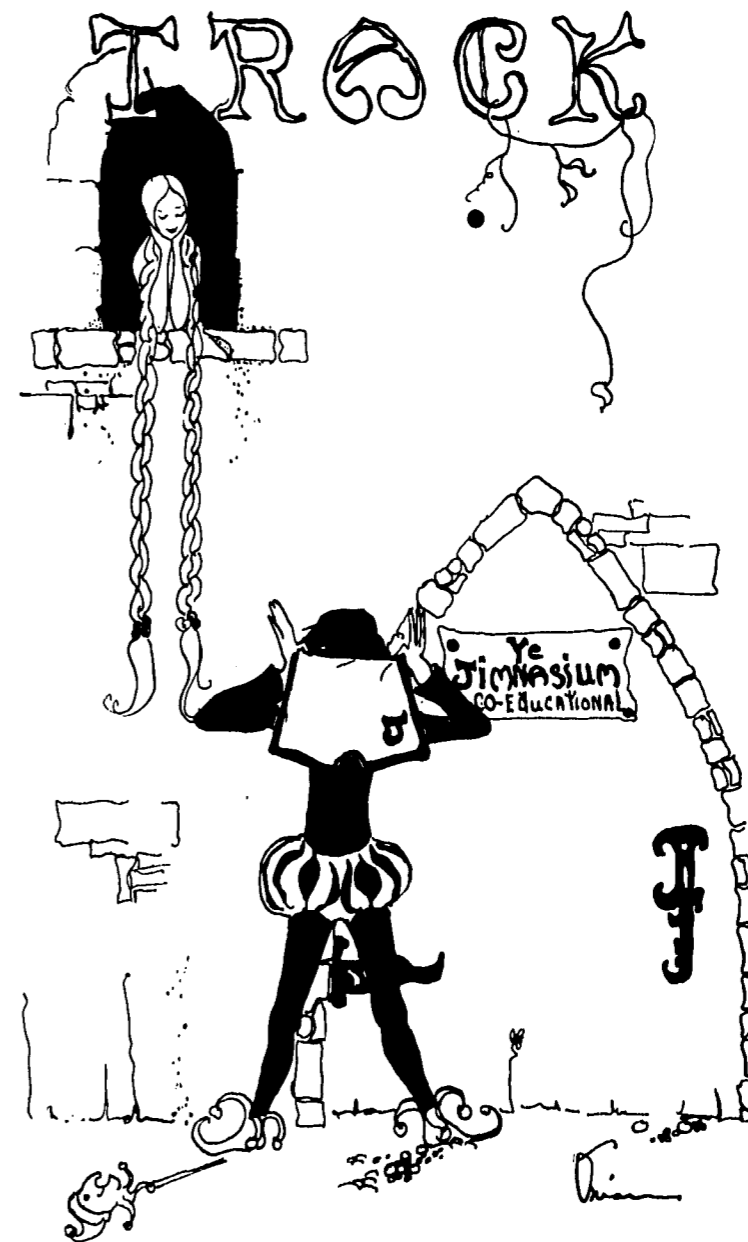

Lowry—weight 165, age 19 height 6 feet. Center. Doc's a good man on both the offensive and defensive. Good shot and hard to guard. He'll no doubt be a valuable man next year.

I've striven and I've struggled
With a purpose and intent,
But Pegasus refuses
And his will cannot be bent.

I spur with all my energy
And flog with all my might:
Still Pegasus refuses.
Then where shall I write?

JONES—CAPTAIN

Beef put the shot a distance of 38 ft. 7.5 in. thereby breaking the college record. He is a faithful and consistent player as well as a hard trainer. One of the most popular fellows on the "Hill."

Track Season

This year only 4 letter men showed up for track. Captain-Elect Dow, graduating the second term did not return. Beef Jones, weight man, however, was chosen to fill the vacancy.

Among the new recruits contending for positions on the team were Vollmer, Enloe, Love, Stuart, J. R. Hall, Burch, Justus and Cogswell. From these Dad picked a bunch that showed up well in the M. I. A. A. Meet. Enloe won first in the discus, Vollmer tied with Wood for first in pole vault, Justus third in 120 yd. hurdles, Toalson third in javelin.

Four dual meets were scheduled this year, Junior College, Mo. Wesleyan, Baker, and Haskell. Wood was high point man for Jewell.

The first dual meet was with Mo. Wesleyan, at Jewell. Jewell weak in the distance events lost by a score of 68 1-2 to 53 1-2. Medley of Mo. Wesleyan was high point man while Wood of Jewell and Slayton of Wesleyan tied for second.

April 29th the Junior College dual meet was held at Liberty. This meet ended in a romp for Jewell, the score being 95 to 16. Wood was high point man, Enloe second. Enloe broke an old Jewell record by hurling the discus 121 feet.

The next meet was held with the Haskell Indians at Lawrence. The final score was 63 to 49 in Haskell's favor. The main features of this meet were Auge of Haskell hurling the discus 133 feet and Franklin of Jewell clipping off Farrars 1-2 mile record by 1-5 of a second. Wood was high point man, Osage of Haskell second.

The last dual meet of the season was held at Baldwin with Baker. Jewell won 64 1-2 to 52 1-2. Porter of Baker was high point man making 23 points.

Annual M. I. A. A. Track and Field Meet

The state meet was held at Warrenton this year. Owing to a newly constructed track only one record was broken and few were equalled. Springfield won the meet. Jewell, sending a bunch of mostly inexperienced men won fourth place. Jones of Drury was high point man.

The M. I. A. A. Score:

DAVIS—CAPTAIN

For the sixth consecutive time Jewell has won the M. I. A. A. championship in Tennis. Wornall beat his man in the singles and assisted by Davis won the doubles from Cape Girardeau.

However in the other games Jewell wasn't so fortunate. In the match with Baker both the singles and doubles were lost to the Methodists. In the next game with Junior College Jewell won the singles but lost the doubles.

FRATERNITIES

Fraternities

In the minds of many there does not seem to be a very clear idea of the College Fraternity, what it is and its reason for existence. There are two kinds of fraternities—professional and general fraternities and the difference between them is very marked.

The young man entering college is confronted with a great many problems which his father before him did not have to solve, and one of these is the fraternity question; for though the college fraternity was in existence forty years ago it, did not to any extent, dominate college life and control the direct undergraduate activities. Its influence was then confined largely to a limited number of small colleges; its membership was not large and its members not closely associated or organized.

The College Fraternity first came into existence almost one hundred years ago when college attendance and the conditions surrounding college life were very different from what they now are. In those days colleges were small, and the undergraduates were kept in dormitories or scattered about the town and fed at boarding houses. There was perhaps, no thought in the minds of the men who founded the first Greek letter fraternities of developing a home and home life for its members. The main purpose was to strengthen character, to encourage and develop scholarship, and to emphasize certain qualities of friendship. Often there was literary purpose. The men who founded the first fraternities were possessed of strong religious convictions, and who believed sincerely in the principles of life and conduct as expounded by the founders of the Christian Church.

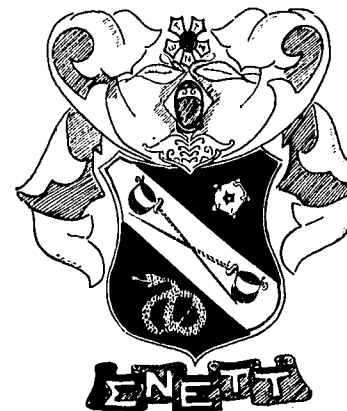

Fraternity rituals to-day still emphasize these principles and constantly hold up to the members the highest standards of daily living. The teachings of fraternities are distinctly religious, and the secret work to which some of the objectors to fraternities look upon with disfavor, has nothing sinister or vicious in it, but is really of the most harmless and innocent character.

It was not until within recent years, when college attendance began to increase and the condition of undergraduate living began to change materially, that the fraternity developed for the undergraduate in college a normal and healthy home life. Because of this it has expanded and is one of the recognized divisions of the college to-day.

At present the national Greek letter fraternity, of which there are perhaps fifty, is the organized force in college activities. It takes the place that was once occupied by the college literary society which taught men to speak, which interested them in politics of the college, and which in general controlled and directed what went on in the undergraduate affairs outside of the classroom. But the fraternity does still more than this it has its own homes and encourages the best type of home life.

In speaking of the College Fraternity do not confuse the words fraternity and "frat". They are not the same. "Frats" have existed along side of fraternities almost from the start and have been classed by the uninformed with fraternities. The "frat" develops snobbishness, extravagance and social excesses which have been harmful to the general morals of the schools. It has many of the evils of the fraternity without any of its advantages and the product it turns out becomes a social parasite. "Frats" have existed so long by the side of fraternities that certain chapters of our national fraternities are more "frat" than fraternity.

The Pan Hellenic Council

THE PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL of William Jewell was founded to govern and to promote the best interests of fraternities in William Jewell. Not only does it at the present time accomplish the above functions, but also serves to bring the men of the fraternities in the Pan-Hellenic together in meetings of good-fellowship and thereby cements a bond of brotherhood between them. Through the efforts of the council the selfish interests of each respective fraternity are subordinated for the good of the whole; and co-operation, loyalty to each other and good sportsmanship are developed and are demanded of the fraternities holding membership in the Pan-Hellenic.

A LOVER OF PI

I espied me a smiling-eyed damsell
Getting out of a Cadillac car.
She was muffled in fur,
And I asked if she were
Going in to the social bazar.

I left her without further query;
But I could not so easily leave
The desire that was rife
To acquire me a wife—
Then I felt some one pluck at my sleeve.

We visited tables together,
Tasting the cakes and ice cream,
And before the last booth;
She had proven, forsooth,
An expense which I had not foreseen.

'Twas a dark little girl that accosted.
I recalled having seen her before.
For hers was the stall
That was best of them all,
Where my erst-while had rolled up the score.

But since I had made the investment,
I thought I had best go ahead
So I took her aside,
And repeatedly tried
To pronounce a proposal to wed.

"I have one more patty to sell, sir,"
She said, with a business like air.
"Who made it?" said I;
"I did," the reply.
Then I patted her patty for fair.

I found myself asking her questions—
"You have eaten confections galore;
"Could you make them?" I said,
"Or, if you were to wed,
Would you order them all from the store?"

I saw on the patty initials,
The three letters, A, M, and B.
"Now win you I must,"
So I scratched on the crust
The three letters, L, M, and P.

Her wide-eyed amazement sufficed me.
She didn't know what I could mean.
That she never could bake
A Dame Baltimore cake
On the surface was plain to be seen.

She smiled as I searched through my pockets
To find the proverbial ring.
"I blush to confess,"
I said in distress,
"It's a thing I neglected to bring."

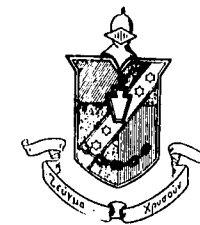

Then I thot of a happy solution—
"Would it not be cheaper by far
To take from my vest
And pin to your chest,
My frat pin which shows my desire?"
—Exchange.

P. CASPAR HARVEY—DEBATE COACH

A survey of forensic records during the past year will easily show that debating has again become one of the major activities in William Jewell after a long period of inactivity following the war. Last year, out of nine debates eight were won. This year under the captaincy of Harry Nicholas Howard we have a schedule of eleven varsity debates, including a debate with Wake Forest College before the Southern Baptist Convention and an excursion into Oklahoma, and two Freshman debates.

Hard work on the part of the men has resulted both in winning debates and in attaining honors in Pi Kappa Delta. This year two members of the squad will receive their diamonds, denoting fourth degree (the highest degree attainable); three will receive their emeralds, denoting third degree; and two will receive their pearls, denoting second degree. Others will win their first honors in the forensic fraternity. The squad realizes that whatever of success has crowned its efforts is attributable to the superior supervision and coaching of Prof. P. Caspar Harvey who revived debating immediately upon his becoming a member of the faculty of William Jewell.

A friend is a person with whom I may be sincere. Before him I may think aloud. I am arrived at last in the presence of a man so real and equal that I may drop those undermost garments of dissimulation, courtesy and second thought, which men never put off, and may deal with him with the simplicity and wholeness with which one chemical atom meets another.

The Society began work last Fall with more spirit than has been demonstrated since the days when there were two Literary Societies. At the very beginning there was held an informal meeting to generate 'Philomathic Spirit' and consider plans for the year. The first regular meeting was one not easily to be surpassed; this meeting and its interest and enthusiasm set the high standard followed through the year.

Some of the special features were: the drafting and printing of a new constitution, the institution of an entertaining and instructive Parliamentary Drill and the raising of funds for redecorating the Society Hall, through letters to Philomathian alumni and a play, "Deacon Dubbs."

The Veteran's Club

The battles these men have fought are of various kinds. In addition to successful operations in the North Sea, the Irish Sea, at Chateau Thierry, at the Meuse Argonne these men fought hard battles at "gay Paris" at London and at Brest. They are heroes of the battle of Great Lakes, (fought in Chicago) of Paris Island (fought in Savannah) and battles of various kinds too humorous to mention. They all served at the front where several of them were wounded in the Toul sector and some in the St. Mihiel salient.

Bolshiveki Club

This organization has undergone a delightful change in that women have been admitted this year. This liberal act promises to help or hinder—we can't say which. Anyway these people are fundamentalists. They do not want their posterity to learn the "damnable theories of evolution." And they say they always will put fun before damentalism.

Reed-for-Senator Club

While it is common knowledge that William Jewell students seldom, if ever, allow themselves to become involved in any imbrogilos of a political nature???? Yet there often comes a time in the affairs of any group of individuals when the uncontrollable urge to take a definite stand on happenings of great national import predominates to the exclusion of all regard for personal safety or political diplomacy. A notable example which gives evidence to the statement just made was the recent Senatorial election between Senator James A. Reed and the Honorable Brewster of St. Louis.

Believing that Senator Reed stood for those ideals which are paramount in the minds of all right thinking people, that the institutions which he upheld were the institutions which they had been taught from the cradle to young manhood to revere as sacred to the hearts of all good Americans, a group of Jewell students organized and determined to make a public acknowledgment of their convictions. The result is pictured above.

"There is nothing to it." "There isn't?" Friendship, love and economy—that is what Fle means. To take these separately:

1. Friendship—that's why we have fraternities. And this is an old subject, too. Cicero expounded and propounded this subject and since then it has been pondered continually.

2. Love—not much need be said about love, just observe the conduct of some of these fellows, especially paying attention to their fondness for the restless sex.

3. Economy—that's what all this gang preach but don't practice so well.

Ye Sons of Rest

Founded in Eden, 7000 B. C.

Flower—Century Plant

Color—Green

Motto—Take time to be honest.

This honored order has long been in existence in William Jewell. Some of Jewell's most famous sons have been most ardent and loyal Sons of Rest. Among all the organizations of the college students perhaps none live up to its teachings and ideals so well as this. These boys are noted for their honesty and integrity. The Tatler expresses the hope that an unusually large number of freshmen will be fortunate enough to be invited into its membership and rare fellowship this fall.

Flower—Virginia Burley

Colors—Dark brown and (long) green

Motto—It ain't toothache, it's climax.

This is the Chewa Bita Baccar, Chapter of the international fraternity of Ye Keen Spitters which was founded by Sir Walter Raleigh several centuries ago. This organization is perhaps the largest in regard to the number of members of any other fraternity in the world. The initiation into this organization although causing untold agony for a short time, seems to bring the members into the world wide fraternity never to leave its membership. It has been rumored that one of the local members is going to their annual convention held somewhere in South Africa. There he will enter the contest to determine the world's champion long distance spitter and the champion "crack shot."

The Co-ed Club

The Co-ed Club is an organization of the girls, designed to promote a closer relationship among them and to instill in them the spirit of the "Hill." Every girl by virtue of her matriculation to William Jewell is a member of this club and entitled to take part in its activities.

Regular meetings of the club are held twice each month. At the noon hour on these days, the girls gather in the regular Co-ed rooms and, over their lunches relate to each other the latest news, gossip, etc. After the very informal lunch, the business meeting, which in turn is followed by some special features, readings, music, or stunts.

This year the club has done much to create among the girls a real social fellowship. The principal means of this have been two strictly Co-ed parties, the big Christmas party and the masquerade "Hen" party.

The officers of the club for this year were Pres., Irene Froman; Vice Pres., Hazel Sevier; Sec. and Treas., Nan Evans; Sergeant-at-arms and Parliamentarian, Mrs. M. A. Church. The club is sponsored by Mrs. R. H. Coon, Mrs. W. D. Baskett and Mrs. P. C. Harvey.

Who Are Our Friends?

Are those people our friends who co-operate to make an enterprise in which we are interested, a success?

The TATLER is a William Jewell enterprise.

The advertisers represented in this book have co-operated to make this enterprise a success.

All things else being equal, the William Jewell Student should give first consideration to the supporters of William Jewell enterprises.

THEREFORE, first, last and all the time—

Patronize Our Advertisers

We are grateful to our advertisers for their hearty co-operation, and we bespeak for them the patronage of our fellows and the success they merit.

FOR THE WORK OF THE MINISTRY

The demand for pastors who are "thoroughly furnished" for the work of the ministry was never greater than today, the opportunity for service never more inviting.

The Rochester Theological Seminary seeks to prepare men for the practical work of the ministry by a comprehensive training in both scholarship and methods of service.

The Seminary has a Faculty of ten members, and a Library of 50,000 volumes, including the famous Neander collection. It offers a wide choice of electives, and grants the degrees of B. D. and M. Th. All courses in the University of Rochester are open to Seminary Students.

The city of Rochester furnishes a remarkable laboratory for observation and for participation in church and charitable work.

Be a Pioneer - A Leader!

The osteopathic physician in any community is a leader for several reasons:

Because it is the pioneer type that takes up osteopathy.

Because every true physician holds a high place in public esteem.

Because the osteopathic physician, working in harmony with Nature, secures results that make him stand out.

Because he is in an uncrowded field, with room to develop and grow.

Because he must have at least a high school education, followed by four full college years in osteopathy, and he is then prepared to handle every curable disease.

The Last Night Together

So quickly night waneth the morning is nigh
And hasting away to our slumber we fly.

Yet tarry a moment -- though never another
Bright night such as this shall we linger together.

The dark shadows streak where in east breaks the day;
A moment we tarry our homage to pay

To friendship and thought of the year that is sped,
To hopes of the future which rise in its stead,

To nights such as this we have all spent so free,
Enjoyed to the full with a gay gallantry.

Though now we must part -- and aye it may be--
May God guard the bond that's between me and thee.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

BY J. FLOYD MORRIS

All institutions and labors of progression sometimes come to the place where their government requires a change to allow expansion or even continuance. Without this change the work becomes regressive. For several years certain student publications have been approaching that point. The 1923 Tatler, face to face with a live or die situation, forced a change in the student publications.

Instituted as a grant of honor and privilege to the Junior Class, the Tatler through great growth and post war conditions finally came to be a burden and sacrifice on the part of that class. The great deficit (as high as twenty dollars per capita) assumed by that class in its senior year proved deadly to class spirit and ultimately led to a less active alumni group. This condition prevailed in spite of the editors and managers being well chosen for efficiency and integrity.

To remedy such a state of affairs The Student Publications Board was conceived, consisting of one member from each class and two faculty members to direct the policies of the William Jewell Student and the Tatler. A special commission advises with the editors of each publication and any action issues thru the Board as a unit. Such action is in accordance with a constitution drafted by the Board and ratified unanimously by the student body.

One policy of the Board is to require the financial means and the publication to meet. The apportionment is among the various classes so a more modest publication, should it ever be necessary, would not reflect upon the tastes of any particular class. Standardization will be practiced where ever possible to reduce expenses without sacrificing true worth. The aim is to make all publications representative of William Jewell life and a credit to its standards.

FORM OR SUBSTANCE

BY ROBERT E. KEOHANE

"William Jewell" What memories that name calls into existence! What experiences of classroom and laboratory, of gymnasium and football field, of debate and social gatherings are compassed by those two short words! But what is that for which these magic words are symbols? What is William Jewell College?

To different people William Jewell means different things. To the stranger, who knows nothing of our student body, our faculty, our ideals, the words "William Jewell" recall a hill with three or four buildings perched on its crest. He may think dimly of a possible faculty and student body. Probably he will estimate the value of the property and may speculate on the amount of money hidden away in the endowment. That, to him, is William Jewell.

To us, who know her best and love her most, William Jewell is, not buildings of steel and stone, not money and lands, but a living entity, pulsing with the red blood of activity in every vein. To us William Jewell is a comparatively small but a compact society bound together by the tie of a common purpose—to benefit the human race.

Buildings, money, land, endowment—these are necessary, but necessary only as a means. To make the interest of the equipment paramount is to exalt the tools above the workman. True, these tools should be of the highest quality and in the best of condition so that they need not divert energy from the work itself. William Jewell—that aggregate of faculty members and students—is of primary importance, and to the true interests of William Jewell—of us—all other considerations must give precedence.

William Jewell In Ministerial Education

William Jewell stands pre-eminent in ministerial education in a territory embracing two-thirds of the United States. Its reputation is based upon character and scholarship.

By J. C. Maupin

As a college peculiarly suited to the training of ministers William Jewell easily stands pre-eminent in a territory covering two-thirds of the United States. The eagerness with which all seminaries and universities seek its graduates for advanced work in their institutions bears indisputable evidence that the Jewell trained preacher stands at the top. The minister who graduates here and leaves a clean record behind him has a passport to any hall of learning and is assured a hearty welcome where ever merit is at a premium. His degree is never discounted.

An even greater testimony to the supremacy of William Jewell in the field of ministerial education is the fact that its men fit into actual life and succeed there as well as in higher schools. No other college sends out a larger percentage of useful and successful ministers or has them more widely scattered over the earth's surface. The sun never sets upon them nor the testimony their deeds bear to the quality of the foster care of the alma mater.

This enviable and, to the embryonic preacher, suggestive situation has not come by accident. The character and scholarship of the College make it an inevitable result. The very atmosphere is surcharged by a quiet deep-flowing Christian spirit; it is zealous without being given to boasting or parade; it a healthful clime where the germs of skepticism and superstition soon perish. This spirit does not ebb and flow but has been crystalized by the years into a character which exerts an all but irresistible influence over every student. Under the magic of its spell many visible transformations of character take place every year. The preacher is made a stronger and more useful man for having absorbed this reverent spirit and for the final banishment of any lingering inclination to evasion or subterfuge.

Not only is the faculty imbued with this Christian spirit to the point of contagion but it is possessed of a height of scholarship that is equaled in few colleges and excelled in none. William Jewell's faculty is an assembly of men, eminent in their professions, who have won doctor's degrees in the three nations that lead the world's educational progress. Under their tutelage the preacher hears not prejudiced or superficial exposition from a partisan standpoint but an open minded presentation on the basis of which the preacher is not only permitted but expected to form his own conclusions. In such environment the preacher soon learns to worship at the shrine of God's own truth and acquires an attitude that tends to make him a lifelong student and always ready to cast off error and accept new found truth. Such will never cease to grow nor will he ever lag behind in the march of progress. From every institution where William Jewell men have gone the report comes back that they are the leading and most highly prized students in the school. This has been the case so long that it is accepted as a matter of course.

It is not surprising, then, that preachers are completing the course at William Jewell in increasing numbers in recent years. The large number of ministers in last year's graduating class is exceeded this year by more than thirty per cent. Fifty one preachers and sixteen missionaries are in training in the College this year and there are fifteen more in the High School. Since nineteen hundred five, two hundred fifty three have graduated and four hundred more have received a fair amount of training. In the foreign field there are twenty two missionaries and in Missouri alone there are nearly two hundred ministers who were trained in the College. The importance of William Jewell in the education of preachers demands the attention of the preacher himself and the entire denomination.

Being a Discussion of Certain Educational Methods Employed by an Institution of Higher Learning

Entrance requirements and subsequent examinations are promising to diminish the laxity in education which is now almost universally prevalent and to make college graduates extinct.

By Franklin H. Love

The laxity of educational standards and the ease with which students graduate from the majority of our American colleges and universities is one of the great outstanding and deplorable defects of our modern system of higher learning. So numerous are the examples of such a system and so harmful and far reaching are the defects of this laxness that is with great heightening of spirit one chances across an institution of the opposite mien.

No statistics have been collected and hence it is impossible to state authoritatively the per cent of institutions which are of this latter class, but one institution there is which is on the opposite side of the balance to such a degree as to make it outstanding. The home of higher learning to which I allude is William Jewell College, located at Liberty, Mo.

At William Jewell the standards have been raised to such an extent as to make it extremely difficult for a student to enter who is not of the highest caliber and practically impossible for him to graduate regardless of his caliber. This situation is effected and maintained by a system of examinations and questionnaires which the student is required to answer or fill out

(as the case may be) upon entering and before he is granted his degree. The first set of the questionnaires given below is that which the would be college entrant is asked to fill out.

Questionnaire for Students Entering William Jewell College

Name when full _____
 When otherwise _____ Age _____
 [if female this question need not be answered as the information could not be used as conclusive evidence] _____
 What other schools have you attended? _____
 Why were you expelled? _____
 How much are you willing to contribute toward the Treasurer's salary? _____
 Are your habits sober and temperate? _____
 Why? _____ Are you willing to change your habits? _____
 Color [if female-colors] of hair? _____
 Are you willing to attend chapel if given negative hours for non-attendance? _____
 What grades do you expect to make the first term? _____
 Would you accept lower ones [say A's]? _____
 Will you permit the administration to run the school or do you wish to do so yourself? _____
 Those intending to live in the dormitory will please answer these additional questions.

Do you find it necessary to sleep more than two hours per night? _____
 Are you willing to attempt to break yourself of this insane habit? _____
 Could you serve on a Kangaroo Court jury? _____ Do you sing? _____
 Nasal base or guttural tenor? _____
 At what time of the morning? _____

After having surmounted this entrance barrier the matter then resolves itself into the game popularly called "trying to get through." This game is played with the professor on one side and the student on the other, the student obviously being handicapped from the outset. If the student is fortunate enough to remain in the race down to the last straight away he is then asked to pass the following examination with a grade of 95 per cent.

Questions for Seniors

1. Reproduce with illustrations Dr. Fruit's million dollar story.
2. What time does the last car arrive from Kansas City? Excelsior Springs?
3. Is "Gayety" a novel or a late model automobile?

4. Identify the following statements and enumerate how many times you have heard each.

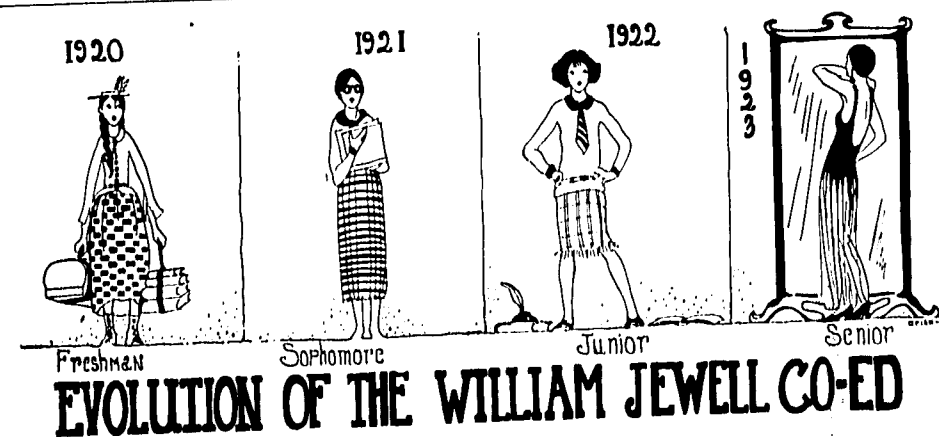

- (1) "I'm sorry young gentleman, I can't loan you a cent; however, I'll do all I can for you."
- (2) "I'm not in the habit of looking up to my audience, etc."
- (3) "Quiet please, or I'll report you to the Dean."
- (4) "How many times did I say back in Freshman English?"
- (5) "Loan me a quarter until tomorrow."

5. Who runs the College? Who thinks he runs it? Where does he spend his summer vacation? Where does he preach?

6. Enumerate briefly the things you dislike about the College. (Please limit yourself to not more than 20 pages.)

*Archaic

When the student has successfully completed this inquisition with the requisite grade, previously mentioned, he is then a finished graduate and has only to announce himself as open for a seat in the Senate or make known his willingness to serve in the capacity of President.

The Senior Proclamation

Such a Disciplinary Measure is a Yearly Necessity and Frequently Results in Much Perturbation. This Proclamation Was Presented by the Senior President

By Franklin H. Love

Dr. Greene, Members of the Faculty, and Student Body:

By virtue of the authority vested in the office which I hold, I come before this assemblage to present to the Student Body a proclamation, to the faculty a pronunziamento, and to the class of '26 a trumpet tounded manifesto, an indictment.

We, the Class of 1923 hereby publish, circulate, promulgate, herald, placard and proclaim the public announcement made herein and hereon.

The Senior Class of William Jewell College possesses the hunger for eternity in their souls; thought for perpetuity in their hearts, and the destination for immortality in their inmost beings, but we sometimes find it necessary, in caring for the most short lived trifles of time to associate ourselves with them.

Despite the fact that we are created in the icon of the Diety and a shadow of a shade lower than the celestials we find that the full orbbed sun pauses each morning on the far horizon of the rolling meads of Missouri because this hill top is over-populated with what Dr. Fruit has in yesteryear designated by the technical term, coprolite. These persons canonize the gentle stupidity of little souls; they hymn the ignorance of the goof as an enviable paradise; they scratch the canialle behind the ears. These persons provide aromatic cushions for the half dead.

They, by their greasy legerdemain of big talk, believe they can transform the actions of a high school senior into the normalcy of college life.

The excessive verduosity of these persons disturb the equilibrium of the activities of our school community. The individual members of this class count themselves alone more than the universe besides. These plethoras of human vitality concentrated in a single class would be fatal to civilization if allowed to endure in their present state of mind. The principles and elements upon which the regular gravitations in the moral order, as well as in the college life depend, begin to murmur. There are mysterious moanings from the deeps which the heavens hear. They have been impeached before the infinite and their fall is hereby decreed. They have vexed the time honored dignity of the Senior Class.

And who makes this proclamation? That group of William Jewell Students on whom rests the divine right of sovereign supremacy makes this proclamation. We who ride in the whirlwind and direct the storm issue these peremptory commands because the faculty like great tabby cats purring in the sun are about to permit these lackeys, these swineherds, these parasites, these counterjumpers, these skullery-maids, these puppetsands, these potwollopers, to bring about an anarchy in all student relationships.

Therefore, know ye all men by these presents that it is hereby decreed that all members of the class of 1926 are directed, ordered, enjoined and required to procure for themselves the insignia of their rank, to be purchased at the Co-op Book Store. For male Freshmen this insignia is the immemorial green cap. For their sister classmates the green turban is prescribed.

These requirements are made without reference to age, or previous condition of servitude.

In addition to the above orders you are asked to note with rapt attention the following specifications:

[1] The green cap and turban shall grace the head of all Freshmen at all hours of the day when coverings are ordinarily employed, except between midnight of Saturday and midnight of Sunday, and upon arriving at the stations when leaving town.

[2] No Freshman shall make any remark whatsoever which calls in question the right of the Senior Class to issue this proclamation.

[3] No Freshman shall make any remark concerning the wearing of this green insignia in the presence of any Senior other than that of willing readiness to do so, and of delight at perpetuating this tradition of the "Old Hill".

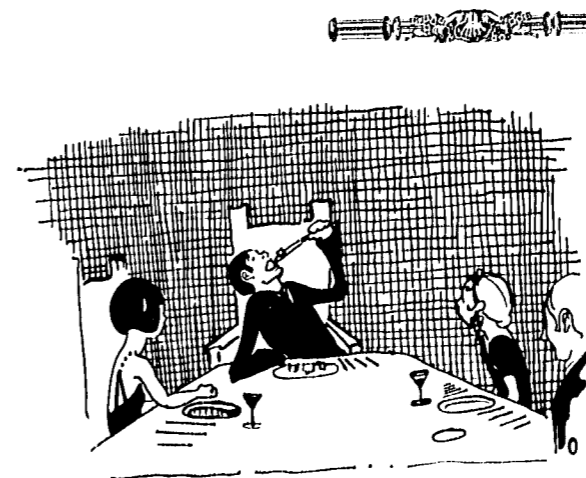

[4] All orders and requirements made herein shall be in operation from 1.30 p. m. of this day until between halves of the Thanksgiving day football game.

For failure to conform to the aforesaid requirments let there whisper in your ear the voice of all nameless dreads, and if there be one moment in which a scantilla of doubt crosses your minds concerning the efficacy of the Senior Class to carry out these commands, black spectres will dance in ecstasy over your bed.

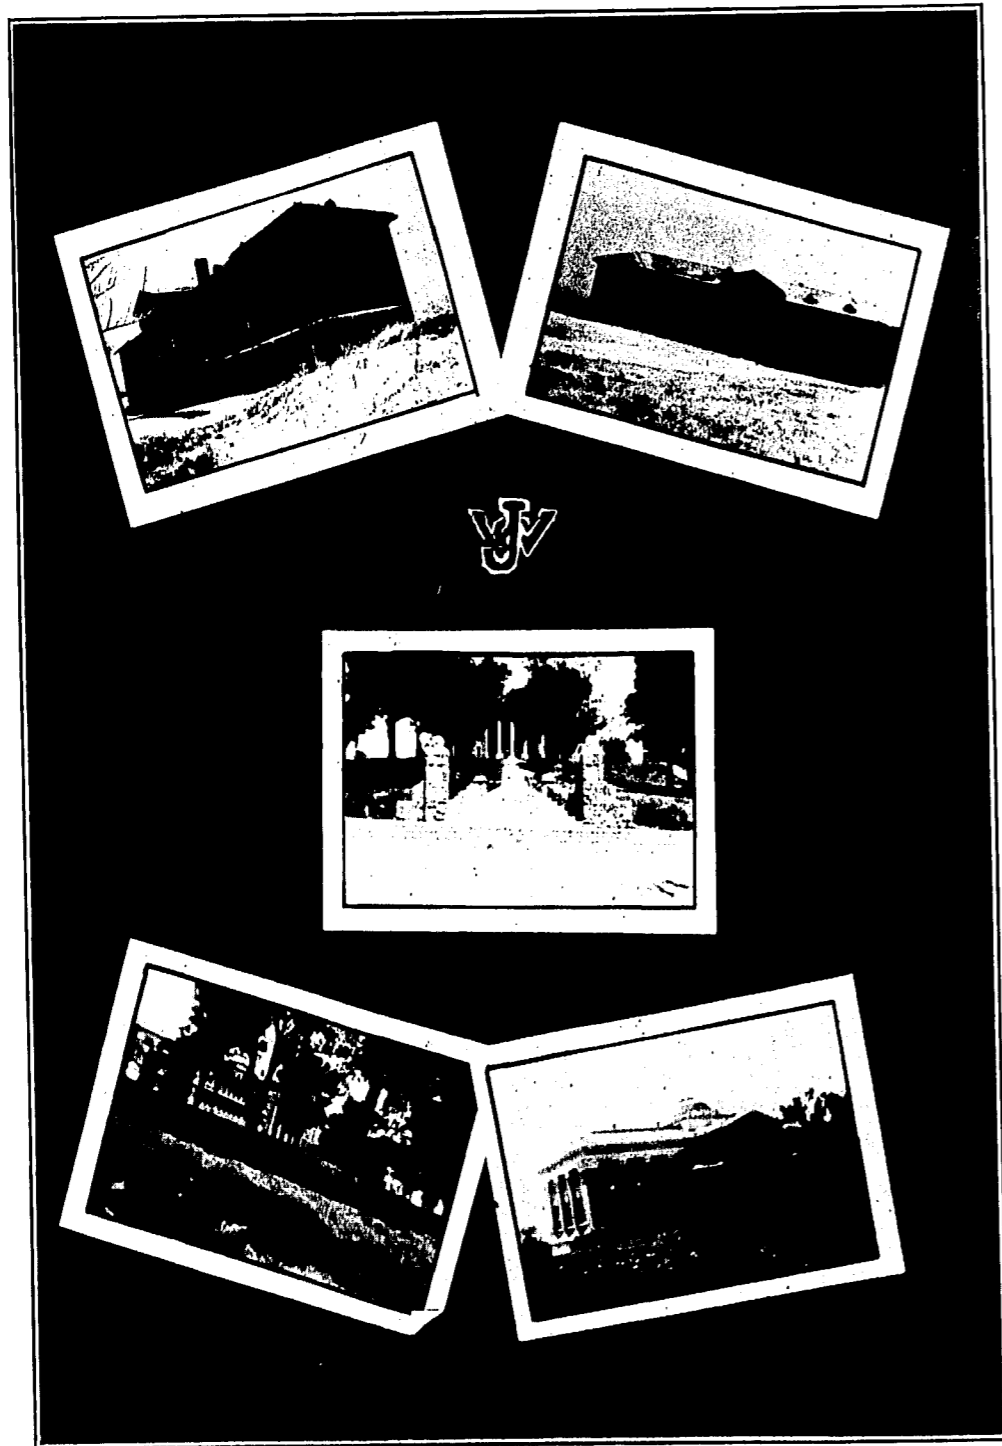

The penalty for violation by male Freshmen shall be the proper administration of water at the bottom of the Ponds of Jewell.

The penalty for violation by their sister classmates, the external application of one liter of water.

Done by order of the Senior Class this Third Day of October, A.D. One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Twenty-Two.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?

I Am Who I Am

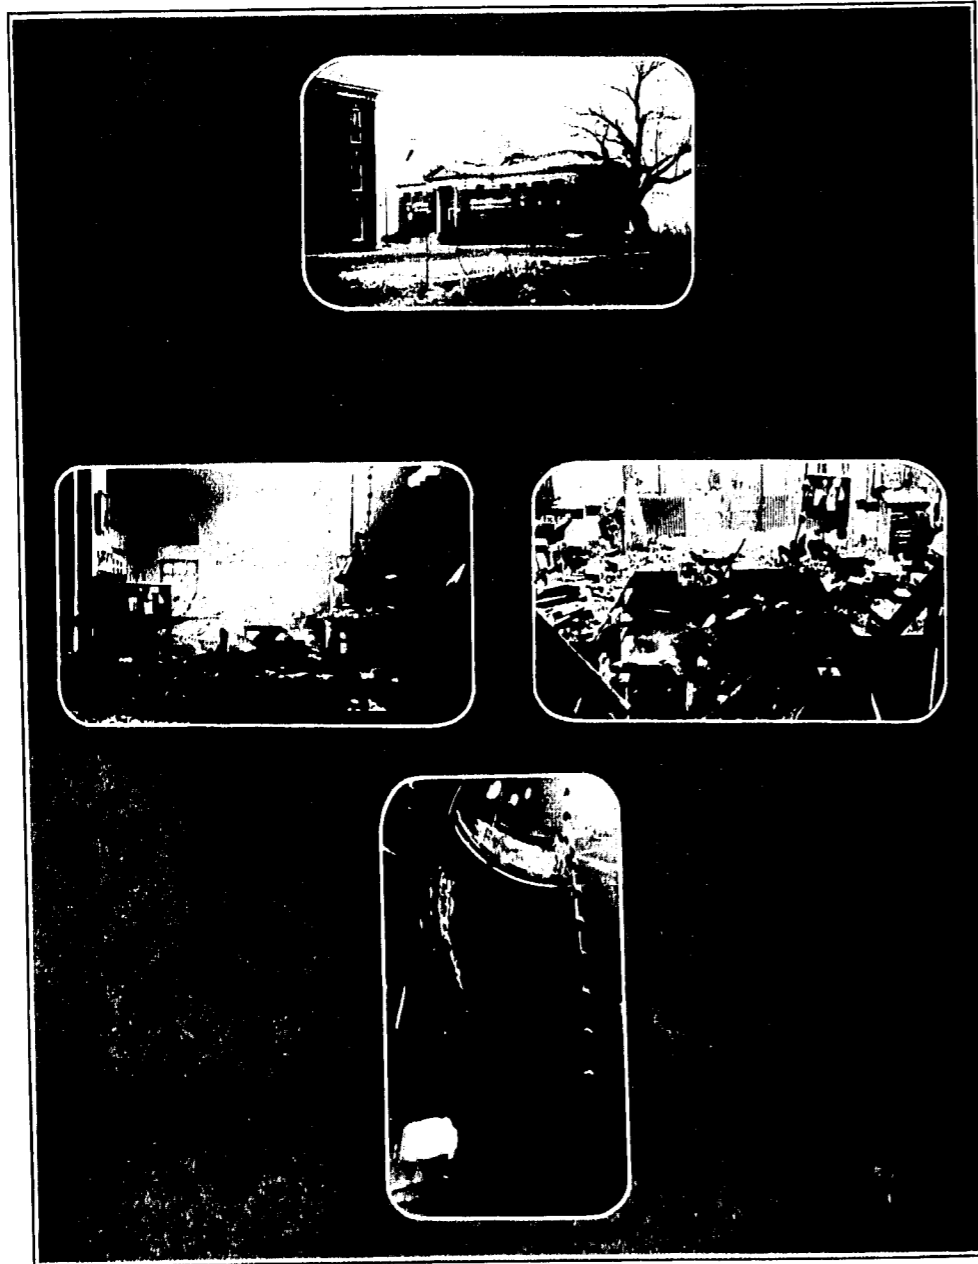

By Irene Froman

I am the almighty power of William Jewell. In my hands lies the control of that institution. I do more than any one person towards its daily progress. I stay on the job night and day. Sometimes I work far into the night, when others are at home enjoying the comfort and ease of their feather beds. It is only upon the rarest of occasions that I leave my post of duty. Crowds of people pass me by every day, but take no notice of me. My work is the least appreciated of any person on the old Hill. Day in and day out do I continue to serve yet no word of praise falls upon my ears. But were I to pass into the realms of another world, many would mourn my departure. It might even be that a holiday would follow my going, and crepe bands grace the arms of the students. But would that mourning last for long? Ah! No! My place would be refilled by another and never again would their thots be of me. The sound of my voice is the rule of the hill. I am the one at whose command the "profs" begin work and at whose urging they cease. Sometimes they look upon me with disapproval, for I often disturb their plans. But do the students too disapprove of me?

Nay! Not often, for more than once I have been the cause of interruption of hard and strenuous exercises or even tests unduly inflicted upon them. Many times do people come rushing madly up the hill, breathless and excited only to be rewarded by the sound of my voice. And with an indifferent air do they pass me by and with reluctant footsteps press onward and upward to their classes. When my voice is heard in the library, either a quiet or general confusion results. From some students I cause to be extracted exclamations of joy and from others, groans. Still other students have been known to throw on their coats and hats and sneak out of the door, as if I were, like Death, something to be avoided, yet something inevitable. For years have I been the cause of chapel disturbances. When I make my appearance there, I am given no audience. Students and professors alike are bold enough to rise from their chairs and quit the room, while I, from my place, exhort them to remain. I have seen many students come to William Jewell, fresh and green, only to go away, hard, dried and withered, with perhaps the addition of a derby, a mustache and a cane. I am a friend to most of the students, but the older they grow, the less consideration and attention do they have for me.

 By the time they have reached their Senior year they almost entirely ignore me.
 Little do they realize that I have played an important role in the drama of their education.

But I cannot be much disconcerted over their indifferences. I must labor on and on even into eternity.
 Who am I? Can it be that I have told you so much about myself and yet you know not who I am?
 Why, I am the College bells.

RELIGIOUS

Social Claims

By William Morgan

Friend lend me three loaves for a friend of mine in his journey is come to me and I have nothing to set before him. Luke 2: 5,6.

Here is an example of a man being disturbed at the midnight hour by the claims of friendship for three loaves of bread. Society to-day, while not knocking at the door of the individual at the midnight hour and asking for three loaves, is demanding much and especially of those individuals who have received special training or who have peculiar aptitudes that have fitted them for responsible positions.

One of the predominant social claims comes from the mislead, and this class is indeed very numerous. The world war with its myriads of slain is, to a great extent, due to wrong leadership that expressed itself in false philosophy; economic and social blunders; insidious religion etc. Some have said that neither the German soldier nor the great mass of the German people were to be blamed, and have put the curse at the feet of the great leaders who inculcated the popular mind with a philosophy that eventually was to cause their ruin. Thus as a result of the war everyone from the cobbler to the king has become a critic and is questioning the authority of the leaders in the fields of religious, economic, and political activities. They are claiming the right of leaders to give them the truth in their respective fields even though they do have to cast aside all previous dogma, in order that the truth may be revealed and a more intelligent and wholesome condition exist. The groans of the battlefield; the cries for bread; the muffled, squeezed, fearful, half-expectant, religionists are the results of wrong leadership, and the same mislead, although at times fighting against the very things that mean their salvation, are desperately demanding, not three leaves of bread but intelligent, sincere and conscientious pilots.

Now just to be more specific, and speaking for those who do not demand what they wish, in regards to children, what do they demand? They have a right to the very best that our institutions can afford, and when the child is placed in the midst of all and is made the pivot upon which to build the future, immediately their claims will demand better equipped churches and schools; more efficient teachers in the public and religious schools; more attention to hygiene and so on ad infinitum.

Society too is fed up on the "hot air" vociferous type of politician and preacher as Carl Sandberg describes, who is eternally "squirting words at us", and is demanding in their places men of the same caliber as the Galilean who was willing to sweat drops of real honest-to-goodness blood when the crisis came in order that a higher plain of social betterment might be brought about.

There are innumerable social claims but for lack of space the above will suffice. As to the cure one shall have to be very careful in laying down any "patent medicine theory" to fit all occasions; for life is a flexible affair. May one not find hope in meeting each new problem with the Spirit of Christ; for in the words of the Master teacher himself "the letter killeth; it is the Spirit that maketh alive."

HAVE YOU HAD YOUR IRON TODAY?

A Famous Pep Speech

Just before the Mo. Valley football game, according to custom, we had several pep speeches by our notables. The most loudly applauded speaker was C. B. Cloonan, one of our own products.

Mr. Cloonan said in part:

Ladies and Gentlemen, I am glad to be here. This is a privilege that I have looked forward to for a long time. (Great applause) I have been here for a decade (applause) and I may stay here another decade. But I have come to get the thing that all you men are looking for. (much shouting and prolonged applause)

In the past decade I have learned three things which I call the three G's: Grit, Gumption, and Get-there. I aim for these three things to carry me on for another decade, if it is necessary, for me to get a sheep skin. (continued applause)

Thus closed a great meeting.

Gleaned From Announcement Day.

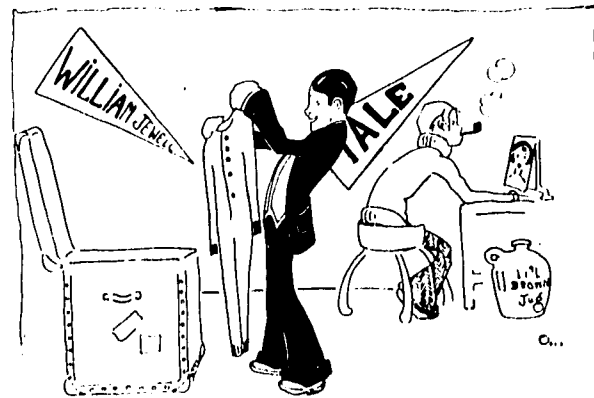

Schumann: Dr. Armstrong, as he was unable to be at chapel this morning, asked me to make an announcement for him. Being greatly overworked in performing his task of keeping the students in the Library quiet, he would greatly appreciate our having a coin shower this morning to raise sufficient funds to purchase a rubber tired "kiddie car" for his use in the Library. Please co-operate in this worthy undertaking. (Coins shower down over the heads of those on the mourners bench.)

Floyd Morris: Fellow Faculty Members, and students—There has been much recent criticism so I feel I must announce a change in our future policy. (Holds up catalog.) A new catalog will presently be in your hand. Reading from this I read, "Through the endowment and support of Dr. Armstrong we present a new Department for our girls. This Department to be known as the Department of Fine Arts. Classes will meet in the Library Building Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Each girl will provide herself with the latest thing in vanity cases. Monday classes will deal with fundamentals as: How to Change Complexions Without The Use of Water. Wednesday classes will analyze lip rouges that will not stencil. Friday will be devoted to Marcelling by radio and Saturday will solve the blonde or brunette transformation for Sunday. Dr. Armstrong will give the Commencement address on "How to Powder Your Nose Slyly."

U. S. Randall: The L. T. C. (late to class) Club of the College will meet tonight at the home of Miss Vanlandingham at 8 o'clock. The club has elected Prof. Mounce its president. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans for staging a benefit play in order to buy alarm clocks for the members. It is desired that all be there ON TIME. Dr. Weyand will furnish the smokes for the gentlemen.

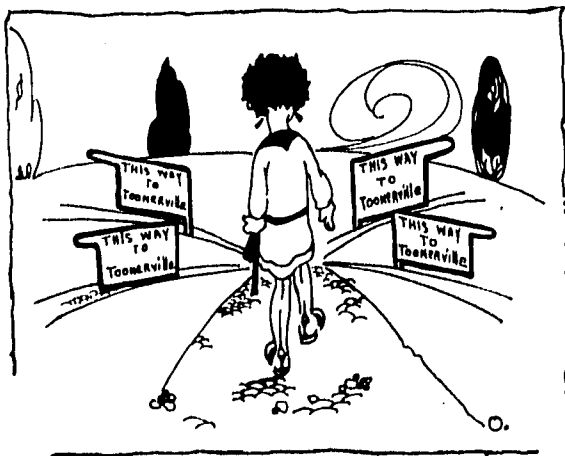

Theodocius Vespacius Ladislaus Harvey: I wish to announce that Dr. Williams will meet his Sunday School class every morning at 8.45 in Jewell Hall. Everybody is invited but don't forget to bring your pennies.

E. H. Mannwarring: There will be a meeting of the famous married men's club this evening at 8.15 P. M. in Prof. Davis's lecture room for the purpose of initiating the "newly weds" and some who anticipate setting sail immediately upon the calm and peaceful(?) waters of matrimony. The following named persons are requested to be on time as we are to cast lots for places of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. "Jonah" Royse, Mr. and Mrs. Wisdom, Mr. and Mrs. Handley, Mr. and Mrs. Judd, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wade, Mr. and Mrs. Kruer, and Mrs. Alpha Ingle, Mr. and Mrs. Love, Mr. and Mrs. "Woody" Woodford, Mr. and Mrs. "Matt" Swinney, Mr. and Mrs. Newman.

C. B. Cloonan: Mr. Chairman—A solemn obligation confronts us. We face a dilemma. Our first meeting is about to be held. We will read as our text for this morning a portion of the 18th verse of the 2nd chapter of Genesis. Text.—"And the Lord God said. It is not good that man

The Prayer of Chryses and Its Answer

Homer's Iliad, Book I, Lines 33-52. Translated by R. R. Lowellen

Chryses grown old and trembling in terror obeyed the injunction. Out on the beach of the loud-roaring main he wandered in silence Till he was far from the camp. Then he fervently prayed to his master, Auburn Apollo, the favored and beautiful Son of Latona, "Hear me, O Smyntheus, thou who dost shoot with a weapon of silver; Thou who protectest from evil thy temples in Chrysa and Cylla; Hear me if ever with pleasure to thee I have builded a temple; Hear me, if ever I sacrificed offerings of goats and of oxen; Grant my desire, and atone for my tears with thy far-reaching arrows." So spake the Priest and Apollo at once conceded attention. Down from the heights of Olympia raging in heart he descended Having a bow and a quiver suspended for use on his shoulder. Loudly the arrows clanged as the raging Apollo descended Like to the coming of terrible darkness, an object of horror. Seating himself he hurled to the camp in the distance an arrow, While there arose from his silvery bow a vociferous clangor. First on the mules he made an attack and the dogs unsuspecting, Then to soldiers the glittering far-reaching arrow went hurtling Causing destruction and death and continuous funeral fires.
