The Tatler

*Dr.
Elmore*

In a secluded office, surrounded by shelves of thick volumes, cases of specimens, slides and microscopes, we find one of Jewell's great men, doing research work on one of the tiniest forms of plant life. Dr. Elmore's study of diatoms has made him a recognized American authority in that field. Yet with all of his scientific knowledge and renown, Dr. Elmore is perhaps one of the humblest and truest Christian gentlemen our campus has ever known.

As he speaks rapidly in his quiet, matter-of-fact voice of prehistoric animals and geological formations, giving the wisdom of the ages, he imparts to us something of his quiet faith and simple, yet all-encompassing philosophy.

Foreword

The Tatler staff of '39 has published this thirty-fourth volume with the progressive spirit ever predominant. We as a staff are proud of our book—proud because we believe in everything it represents—proud of its distinctive style, its modern make-up, its vivid reproduction of the life on the Hill—proud of the school it represents—William Jewell.

Thus, we give you the 1939 Tatler, compiled and published by Jewell students, for William Jewell, with the spirit of progress as its keynote.

The 1939 Tatler is yours!

John F. Herget, President

The President

Attending college for four years is much the same as boarding a huge liner for a trip across the ocean. Both are perilous journies if not properly supervised by competent authorities. We, here at William Jewell, may count ourselves fortunate in being able to sail under so able a leader as President Herget. The warm friendly tone of his voice as we embark on our trip makes us feel immediately as if we belonged here, while his stately bearing and manner serves to strengthen our trust in his ability to be our guide. He is a veteran of many crossings and has carried many students through both calm and troubled waters. Ever is he watchful at the helm, keeping a weather eye out for any rocks or reefs which may endanger us or threaten our smooth sailing. We could not ask for a more sincere, industrious, devoted, and sympathetic skipper to direct us than the one we have.

When he shakes our hands as we descend the gang-plank at the end of the voyage, we feel that there is an undefinable emptiness in our hearts which will be difficult to fill.

Board of Trustees

To many students the Board of Trustees may indicate very little except a list of names which appear now and then in the front of college publications, but actually they are a very important cog in the college machine. Without them the rest of the college would have no authority to carry on its functions. On all matters pertaining to the school they have the last word. They elect the president and pass on the selection of the other members of the faculty. Another important duty of the group is the regulation of the various financial matters which are so important in running a college. These and a myriad of details which are concomitant with the executive end of a college fall under their jurisdiction.

At the meeting which is held annually during the commencement week activities the Board of Trustees selects from their number an executive committee which in their monthly meetings throughout the school year attends to the matters demanding immediate attention.

This body of men, so important in the life of William Jewell College, is self-perpetuating; when the need arises and as they see fit, the Board elects new members.

The acquisition of three new men to serve in this important capacity has marked this year as unusual in the history of the group. They are to be congratulated on their choices and we of William Jewell can consider ourselves fortunate to be guided by these men who have this year added to their number three prominent Jewell men: Dr. Hubert Eaton, of Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale, California; Mr. Cecil Martin, St. Joseph; and Mr. Tom W. Stark, Louisiana.

The following men compose the Board of Trustees of William Jewell College:

- Amick, E. E. Kansas City
- Atwood, Judge Frank E. Jefferson City
- Brown, S. J. Kansas City
- Browning, W. P., Jr. Olathe, Kans.

The Deans

Miss Ruth Lindsey, Dean of Women

The ready smile and charming personality of Miss Ruth Lindsey, Jewell's Dean of Women, has won her a place of favoritism among the students. With the interests of the students at heart, Dean Lindsey works constantly to bring about harmony in student affairs. Miss Lindsey received her A. M. degree from Columbia University and has also done graduate work at the University of California.

Dean of the college and Head of the Department of Ancient Languages since 1928, Dr. Allen J. Moon is one of the most beloved professors on the Hill. He completed his undergraduate work in Howard College and his graduate work in the University of Virginia and in the University of Chicago. Dr. Moon is noted for his excellent sense of humor and the philosophical manner in which he imparts to his classes the "tall" stories of his college experiences.

William Jewell Press

The modern plant now operated as the William Jewell Press is a far cry from the small bindery begun by a Jewell professor some twenty-two years ago. Could Ward Edwards, who is given much of the credit for its beginning, have foreseen the future developments of the bindery, it is certain that he would have been exceedingly proud of his brain-child.

Many past, present, and future students look to the Press as an aid in making their way through four years of college. An average of from eighteen to twenty students work constantly under the supervision of George C. Beamer, manager of the Press. Their work includes the publication of the Student, the Tatler, and all other college and student publications, besides various printing jobs. The recent addition of photo-engraving equipment has made possible photographic work on a commercial scale.

Much of the recent and modern equipment and methods used by the Press are due to the efforts of Mr. Beamer, known among his associates as "George." Following his college residence, he was made superintendent of production under Harvey J. Ray, then manager of this integral part of the life of William Jewell College, the Press. In 1936 George was chosen for the position of manager, and has served in that capacity throughout the last three years.

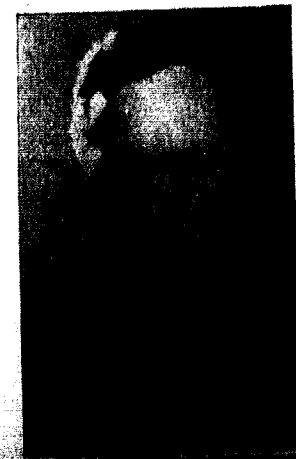

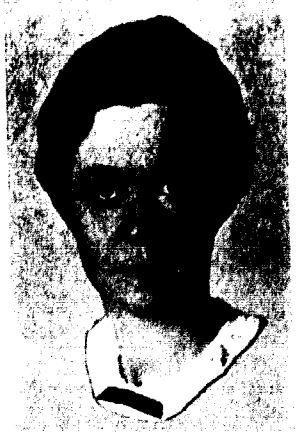

Melrose

Student government at Melrose Hall this year was headed by "Skippy" Pinkerton. Ten o'clock privileges were extended to all girls during the first term, but at the beginning of the second term, the old practice of eight o'clock privileges except on date nights was resumed. Executive supervision by Mrs. Hester and the friendly assistance of Mrs. Brown kept Melrose on its usual plane of excellence. Irene Dinus served as nurse and Mrs. Keller was in charge of the dining hall. Peggy Burroughs was vice-president and Betty Ellis was secretary-treasurer. Melrose study chairman was Jane Quick and Helen McCampbell served as social chairman during the year.

New Ely

New Ely was very ably headed this year by president Bob Burtch. He was assisted by vice-president Max Morgan, who was also social chairman, Secretary Ellis Gover, and Treasurer Philip Jones.

This year New Ely had for the first time an official host to welcome and take care of guests. Earl Haldeman deserves much praise for the way in which he executed his duties in this the inaugural year of the system.

As a group the dorm has taken an energetic part in the activities on the Hill and has gained rewards in the form of the trophies for the winning float in the Homecoming Parade and the top-ranking skit in the Tattler Revue.

IN MEMORIAM

Professor Ward H. Edwards

He graduated from William Jewell College with A. B. 1903; A. M. 1910.

He was Assistant in English in the Academic Department of William Jewell College 1910-1914; Librarian of William Jewell College and Professor of English Literature 1915-1923.

He was Librarian of the Central Missouri Teachers' College, Warrensburg, 1924-1938, until the time of his death.

Before William Jewell became a standardized Liberal Arts College with membership in the North Central Association, and on the approved list of the Association of American Universities Professor Edwards put William Jewell College in the forefront by the one particular and significant fact of purchasing that monumental work of Lexicography, namely, the New Oxford Dictionary in twenty (20) volumes. Few colleges in the middle west were aware, at that time, of the incalculable value of this "treasure trove" of scholarship.

The students of William Jewell College, past, present, and to come, should pay the honor due to this Book Lover of the finest and keenest sense of the perennial values embalmed in a good book on purpose to a life beyond life.

He believed in the "open stacks," that the students might "brouse around," handle the books, and thus form an ever-growing friendship with books.

But a more conspicuous monument to Ward Edwards is the William Jewell Press. It was in his mind in the beginning, and has become what his foresight predicted, a great factor in the promotion of William Jewell and particularly a great benefaction to students working their way through college.

PERSONAL

Until his ailment became serious, I visited Ward and Mamie frequently in order to share their enthusiasm in their new finds in the world of books, old and new; and in the world of glass antiques she collected.

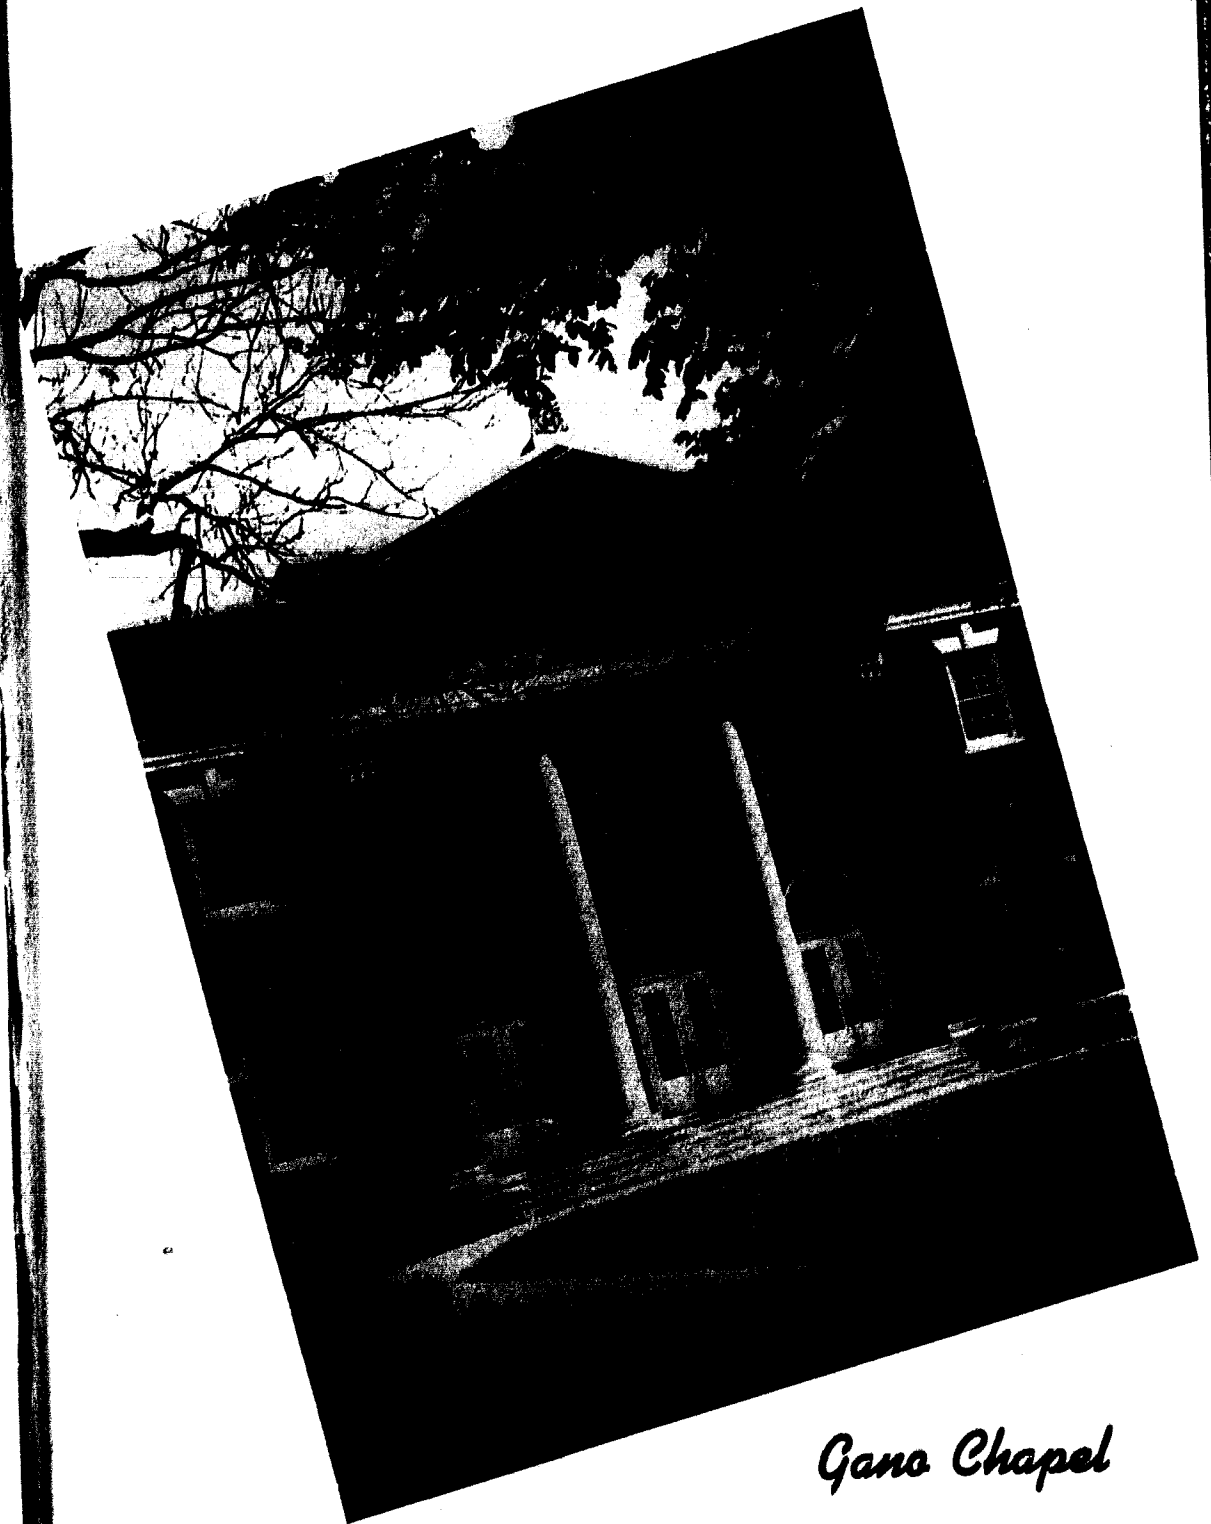

His most triumphant note was sounded when he found his 150th "Compleat Angler."

"First Editions" was his hobby. He was a Connoisseur of Book-Bindings, Texts and Prints. I recall he showed me something of "Old Walt's" in the choicest binding and print, handling it with a petting stroke of his hands, saying, "Dr., don't you see what a treasure that is!" Another book and still another he would show me, and tell me of his search into some far-away corner of the earth where some congenial soul had an extra copy he could spare.

His library is a priceless collection.

I think "I shall not look upon his like again."

The Dean

Known and admired by members of all classes is Dr. Allen J. Moon, A. M., LL. D., Dean of William Jewell, Head of the Department of Ancient Languages, and Professor of Latin. His friendly joviality brightens the life of the timid freshman; his ready wit and keen mind are more than a match for any cynical sophomore; juniors appreciate his ability to conduct his classes successfully without the tedium of excessive classroom formality; and the senior esteems him as one who has the invaluable sense of humor of the man tempered with the quiet dignity of the scholar. All classmen and everyone who knows Dean Moon will keep the memory of the merry twinkle in his eye, the humorous twist to his mouth, and the jaunty angle of his hat.

The Senior Class

Sixty-nine students, of whom twenty were girls and forty-nine were boys, composed the senior class of William Jewell College. Barring unforeseen and unfortunate circumstances, each marched stiffly across the stage of Gano Chapel on May 23, 1939, reached for a rolled sheepskin, flipped the tassel on his or her mortar board to the left from the right, and thus became a member of the increasingly large host of Bachelors of Arts.

Chief executive of the senior class was Vernon Knight, who in his capacity has duly presided at class meetings, read the freshman proclamation, and performed other duties which traditionally rests upon the senior class president.

Anna Lois Heaton, vice-president of the class, served along with Vernon as the Seniors' representatives on the Student Senate, of which Student Body President Jim Merritt was the chairman.

Keeping the records of the class meetings and guarding the coffers of the group were Dorothy Jayne Parrott and Julia Connely as Secretary and Treasurer respectively.

On May 22 was presented You Can't Take It With You written by prominent Broadway playwrights, Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman. It was with this dramatic production that the seniors did their last work for the college; and, as well as being one of the important events of Commencement Week, it very aptly closed the dramatic season for William Jewell. The play which was an unusual success both on Broadway and in the cinema production was very well received on the campus as it was portrayed

And so completing the last year of their college career, leaving friends and familiar places, the seniors of '39 leave the old Hill. With deference let it be said that they will not leave to be forgotten. They have left a remembrance in the form of a material gift, but even for things which are greater will they be called to mind. Bringing to the college distinction, two of the members of the class have done probably the most outstanding thing of the year. Not in any way to belittle their great achievement, but recognizing it, mention should be made of the spirit of the entire class. As a group they have probably done more to keep alive the feeling which permeates every good Jewell man or woman, that feeling of cooperation and willingness to work for that which will bring credit to the school, than any other one group on the Hill.

To them we are grateful, and with their parting we say "thanks" and "Au Revoir," not "Goodbye."

The Junior Class

When a little boy is called "junior," it means simply that he is named after his father. But, when a college student is called a junior, it means that the fortunate individual has managed to reach his third year of college. It is the turning point—the place where the general field of knowledge has been narrowed to a specialized course. It is the stage at which the formerly flippant freshman and sarcastic sophomore has become the jaunty junior.

It is sometimes difficult to determine the activities of the junior class. They are unlike the seniors in that they are not graduated and thus have no important meetings about invitations to and speakers for Commencement festivities. They do not display for the benefit of the public their histrionic ability as the seniors do in their senior play. Theirs is not the particular duty of subjugating the freshmen, nor do they have to be controlled. But in the field of publications the junior class does come into its own, for the Tatler is the child of the class, and from its members are selected the Editor and the Business Manager. On the staff of the Student, too, is the class usually well represented.

Of the seventy-seven members comprising the class, fifty-one were men and twenty-six women. Joe Roberts was president of the class and Don Farris was vice-president. Mary Jane Winn was chosen secretary and Jerry Ralls, treasurer. These officers were elected early in May of the preceding school year. The election returns were announced in the Student as "A Greek Landslide," signifying that the age-old rivalry between the two political parties on the Hill had again been climaxed by an overwhelming victory of the social fraternities and sororities on the campus.

Although the class as a group did not have a great number of activities, the individuals in the class were to be found in all of the activities which were offered on the Hill. So, let it be said to the credit of the class as a whole that they are not inactive, but, since the duties of the juniors are so limited, the class as such did not function.

In reality, what are the juniors? Are they not the first year group of the upperclasses? The year is spent in preparation for the year which is to follow, the senior year. It is in the senior year that the real burden of responsibility falls. A year, then, which is spent in comparative inactivity, is not so futile as it might seem. When they appear next year as the seniors, they are going to be well prepared and competent to mould the destinies of the college to the extent that the present students make the college.

And, so, our "jaunty juniors" are promoted to the rank of high and mighty seniors. In fairness it should be said that they have as much promise as did those of the last and all preceding classes, for, when the weight of leadership actually rests upon their shoulders, all of those who have been preparing somewhat silently will emerge and prove themselves to be leaders in whom we can have confidence and pride.

To The Underclassmen . . .

Having published this, the thirty-fourth edition of the Tatler, the staff of '39 cannot refrain from expressing a hope that has been growing in them since they first launched themselves in the publication of another volume which will typify and be representative of the life at William Jewell, student and professorial, serious and foolish.

Our hope is twofold—a hope that we as well as others connected with student publications have fostered.

Primarily, our contention is that the destiny of the Tatler, as is true of any other college annual, is determined in the spring of the preceding year at the student body election.

Assuming the existence of a college tradition, campus politics, it is difficult to propose a plan which would not be opposed by the advocates of the present system. It is apparent to us, realizing our inadequacy after a year's effort, that student publications should immediately be partially removed and ultimately wholly removed from such a tradition and supplanted by a merit system.

Contending that the William Jewell Student Body has a right to expect of the staff a publication of such superiority as to be highly comparable to those of other colleges, we believe that the students as well as the staff should assume direct responsibility for the selection of a staff on a basis of merit after a period of apprenticeship has been served.

Our second expectation for the books to come is that you of the underclasses who will comprise the staffs of the future will continue to show evidence of the progressive trends seen in annual publications of colleges and universities throughout the country.

The college annual at its best is a representation of all the facets of college life presented in such a way as to give in proper perspective a cross-sectional view. A student body is not static but dynamic and constantly changing. We are adding to it daily, being the builders of what will be termed tradition by the next generation of William Jewell College students. As we accept and nurture some of the myriad of traditions that are an integral part of a college, we cannot help discarding some. These we replace with new, more modern ideas.

Being a representation of college life, an annual too should harbor, discard, and create tradition.

It is our sincere hope that, while discarding outmoded traditions, you will supplant in their place ideas which are progressive as well as illustrative of trends in college annual publication.

On you, then, the underclassmen, depends the culmination of our desires and the realization of our hopes.

H. Arnold Smith, Bus. Mgr.

The Sophomore Class

The 1939 sophomore class under the efficient leadership of Dick Quick of Hardin, Missouri, typified the spirit of progress in their enthusiastic participation in the class day holiday instituted this year on the Hill.

Opening the festivities at 10:30 in Gano Chapel, the girls competed for their respective classes in humorous contests of singing, silent orations, impersonations of famous figures and dramatic recitations.

Added enthusiasm was supplied by class yells, music by the William Jewell College Band, an all-girl orchestra, and a freshman choir.

At noon an all-school picnic was served in front of New Ely Hall, followed by the men's class contests. A tug-of-war through a stream from a fire hose was won by the sophomores as was a sack fight on the football field. A tie between the freshmen and sophomores was effected in a game of "kick-back" also played on the field.

One of the prominent figures in the class day contests was Gene "Moody" Moore. Entering it as a well-dressed sophomore, "Moody" came out of the fight along with his shirt-tail. Reyburn Cantlon left his job to heave a mean rope in the pull for supremacy of the day.

Winning the contests by a final score of 45-30, the sophomores had their name engraved on the cup awarded them in chapel and placed in the trophy case.

With the tang of autumn came football and four sophomores who played important roles in securing the Championship in the M. C. A. U. Proud were the sophomores when Ortega, Roberts, and Bob Williams were presented letters in the chapel hour devoted to that purpose.

Maurice John repeated his fine work done on the basketball team last year, and was awarded his second letter at the close of the season.

Two of the Homecoming Queen candidates were sophomores, Sara Berndt and Betty Laughlin, with Margaret Broaddus, 1938 Queen, presenting the crown to the Queen of '39.

Hallowe'en became all too realistic on the Jewell campus as the C. B. S. broadcast of the Orsen Wells program from New York was heard by many of the students on October 28. Instead of ghosts and goblins, men from Mars took their places and caused panic as well as hysteria to the men in the dorm who were listening to the broadcast. Lloyd Niles, the expert on subjects sartorial, along with a few of his cronies made haste to pack a few belongings and prepared to flee to safety notwithstanding the fact that the Columbia system had already announced clearly to the less easily excited listeners that the entire program was merely an adaption of H. G. Wells' famous novel, The War of the World.

Along dramatic lines the sophomores were well represented. In the three presentations of the William Jewell Players this season, several sophomores played leading roles. Claudine Ross as Frankie and Marty Phillips as the maid in George and Margaret were exceptionally well-liked. Earl Lee in his role as Duke and Dorothy Jane Collins as Mrs. Clivden-Banks gave outstanding characterization to the famous Broadway success, Outward Bound. Beebs Downing as Jessica and Vernon Osborne as Launcelot Gobbo in The Merchant of Venice each gave excellent performances. Dave Hawley was an "attendant" and Claudine Ross and Betty Laughlin were "pages" in the same production. Averill Boisen was assistant business manager of the Players this year.

Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary writing fraternity, announced the acceptance of five new members for the school year. Bessie Burkhardt, Dorothy Jane Collins, Beebs Downing, and Dave Hawley were pledged in a formal initiation at the Phi Gamma Delta House. Membership has always been limited to only twelve, thus the sophomores were well represented by these four students.

It was in the Tattler Revue, however, that the Sophomores really felt the glow of triumph. At the nominations five of the girls from the class were selected to be among the nominees. The number is remarkable because they comprise half of the group. Then came the night which was to determine the final result. Mr. Ernest B. Fox of Loew's Midland Theatre of Kansas City was the man on whom the burden, if such it could be called, of naming the queen fell. Great was the rejoicing, for two sophomores were named among the numbers of the queen and her attendants. One of the queen's attendants was "Muggs" Broaddus who was named Homecoming Queen the previous year. The queen herself of whom the class was justly proud was Virginia McNabb who has joined the ranks of the class this year coming from William Woods. Others of the class who were among the ten candidates were Barbara Alnutt, Claudine Ross and Madeline Parrott.

Not only in the field of feminine pulchritude did the class excel but also in the portion of histrionics, for the winning skit produced by New Ely Hall had included in the cast Weldon Macy, Vernon Osborne, and "Jitter-bug" Swanson.

Echoes of the Tattler Revue were again heard when the candidates played an important part in the ceremonies in connection with the spudding in of the oil well which had proved to be such an item of many of the students, particularly Killam who has placed a tent out there and is standing around with an empty oil can waiting for oil. All of the candidates were carried through the mud to add color to the ceremonies. The bit was christened with Mineral Water from Excelsior Springs by the sophomores' own Queen McNabb.

In the oratorio, Elijah, presented by the music department under the direction of Prof. David Grosch on February twenty-first in Gano Chapel, in March at Memorial Hall in Kansas City, Kans., and on the evening of May eighteenth in the Music Hall of the Municipal Auditorium, an opportunity seldom gained by a college group, several sophomores had solo parts. Mary Jane Wright sang the role of the "Youth." Claudine Ross and Beebs Downing were also featured in solo passages.

Sophomore members of the Elijah chorus were:

Orvil Unger
Jewel Evans
Averill Boisen
Rosemary Pound
Charles Goodson
Charles Rendlen
Bessie Burkhardt
Madeline Parrott
Mary June Kernodle
Margaret Middleton

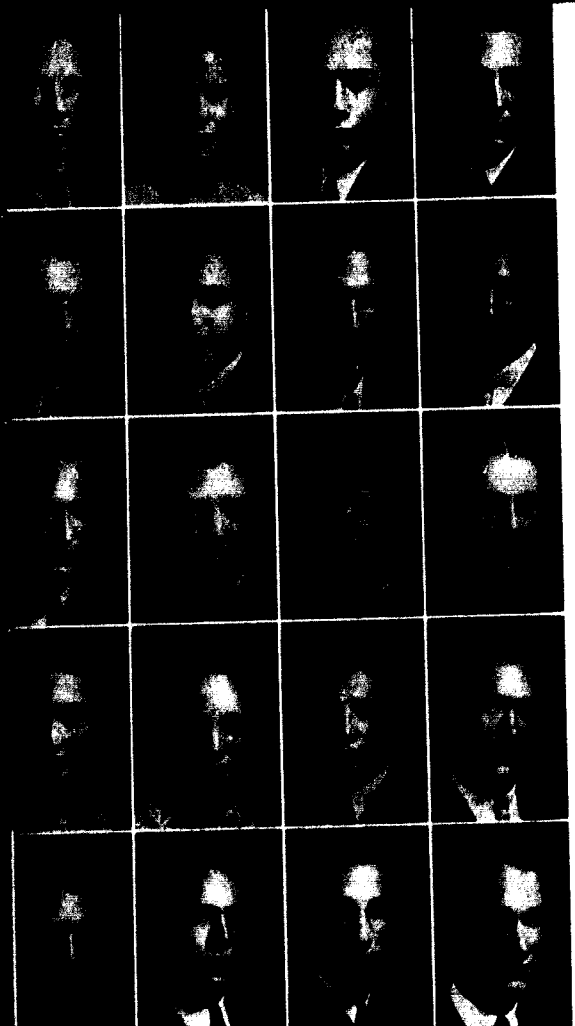

In Forensics as well the second year students found themselves well represented. The sophomore contingency included debators Bessie Burkhardt, Gene Moore, and Charles Rendlen. Numbered among those on the oratory squad were Beebs Downing and Earl Lee.

As the top-flight feminine debator, the class found Madeline Parrott ably taking over the helm and running the fourth annual National Forensics League Tournament in the absence of P. Cap.

who was at the time indulging in his favorite sport, globe-trotting. Although her brow sometimes wrinkled when twenty high school students pressed about her asking questions, she managed a difficult job very creditably.

Appearing again in a radio debate with Dartmouth College, Madeline proved her merit, and very adequately upheld her case. Appearing at the same time was Gene Moore who acted as the chairman, and while so doing almost secured a position as regular announcer for WDAF.

In Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensics organization, the class of '41 was not to be outdone, for here too they relied on Gene Moore and Madeline Parrott to maintain their prestige. At the convention of the fraternity held in Excelsior Springs Madeline was named

The Art Club was headed by Don

Bell, a freshman, from St. Louis, Missouri, and Beverly Livingston, a sophomore, was secretary of the club.

Earl Haldeman, the president of the chess club, one of Jewell's newer organizations, served this year as the official host of New Ely Dormitory. In addition he held a position in the dorm's governing body, the New Ely Student Council.

Along with a very creditable scholastic record an eviable number of the class held student assistantships during the past year. The various departments represented totals ten, a figure which is not equalled or surpassed by any other class.

Zeta Chi and the sophomore class were equally proud of the fact that the Linville twins dragged down such a high scholastic average throughout both their freshmen and sophomore years.

But summing things up, there is a good deal for which the sophomores should be congratulated. One very creditable thing which should be said for the class as a whole is that nine per cent of the class were placed on the Dean's Honor Roll while the all-class number was only six per cent.

And so with prominence in all of Jewell's varied activities the sophomore class is graduated from the ranks of the underclassmen to become the upperclassmen of next year. Surely they are a group to whom the traditions of the Hill can well be entrusted and on whom you may depend for the continued progress which is the mark of college tradition.

Uncle Remus

There is one among us on our campus who is as much a part of the Hill as the old oak tree, the redbud in April, and the white columns of Jewell Hall. Nothing could be a real representation of William Jewell without mention of Dr. Fruit. One of the most important activities on the Hill for several years has been the annual celebration of "Daddy" Fruit's birthday.

As long as there is activity on the William Jewell Campus, as long as the Hill echoes the pulsing heartbeats of youth, as long as wisdom and humor combine to make the world more wonderful and man more worthy, we will always remember our own "Uncle Remus."

Football

William Jewell, with its second year under the tutelage of Coach Henri Godfriaux, again won the Missouri College Athletic Union Championship by going through the season undefeated in the conference. This year, with eight returning lettermen for the nucleus from which to build a squad, about thirty men reporting for football, and a fine spirit among the boys, Jewell, playing good football the season through, won the championship again.

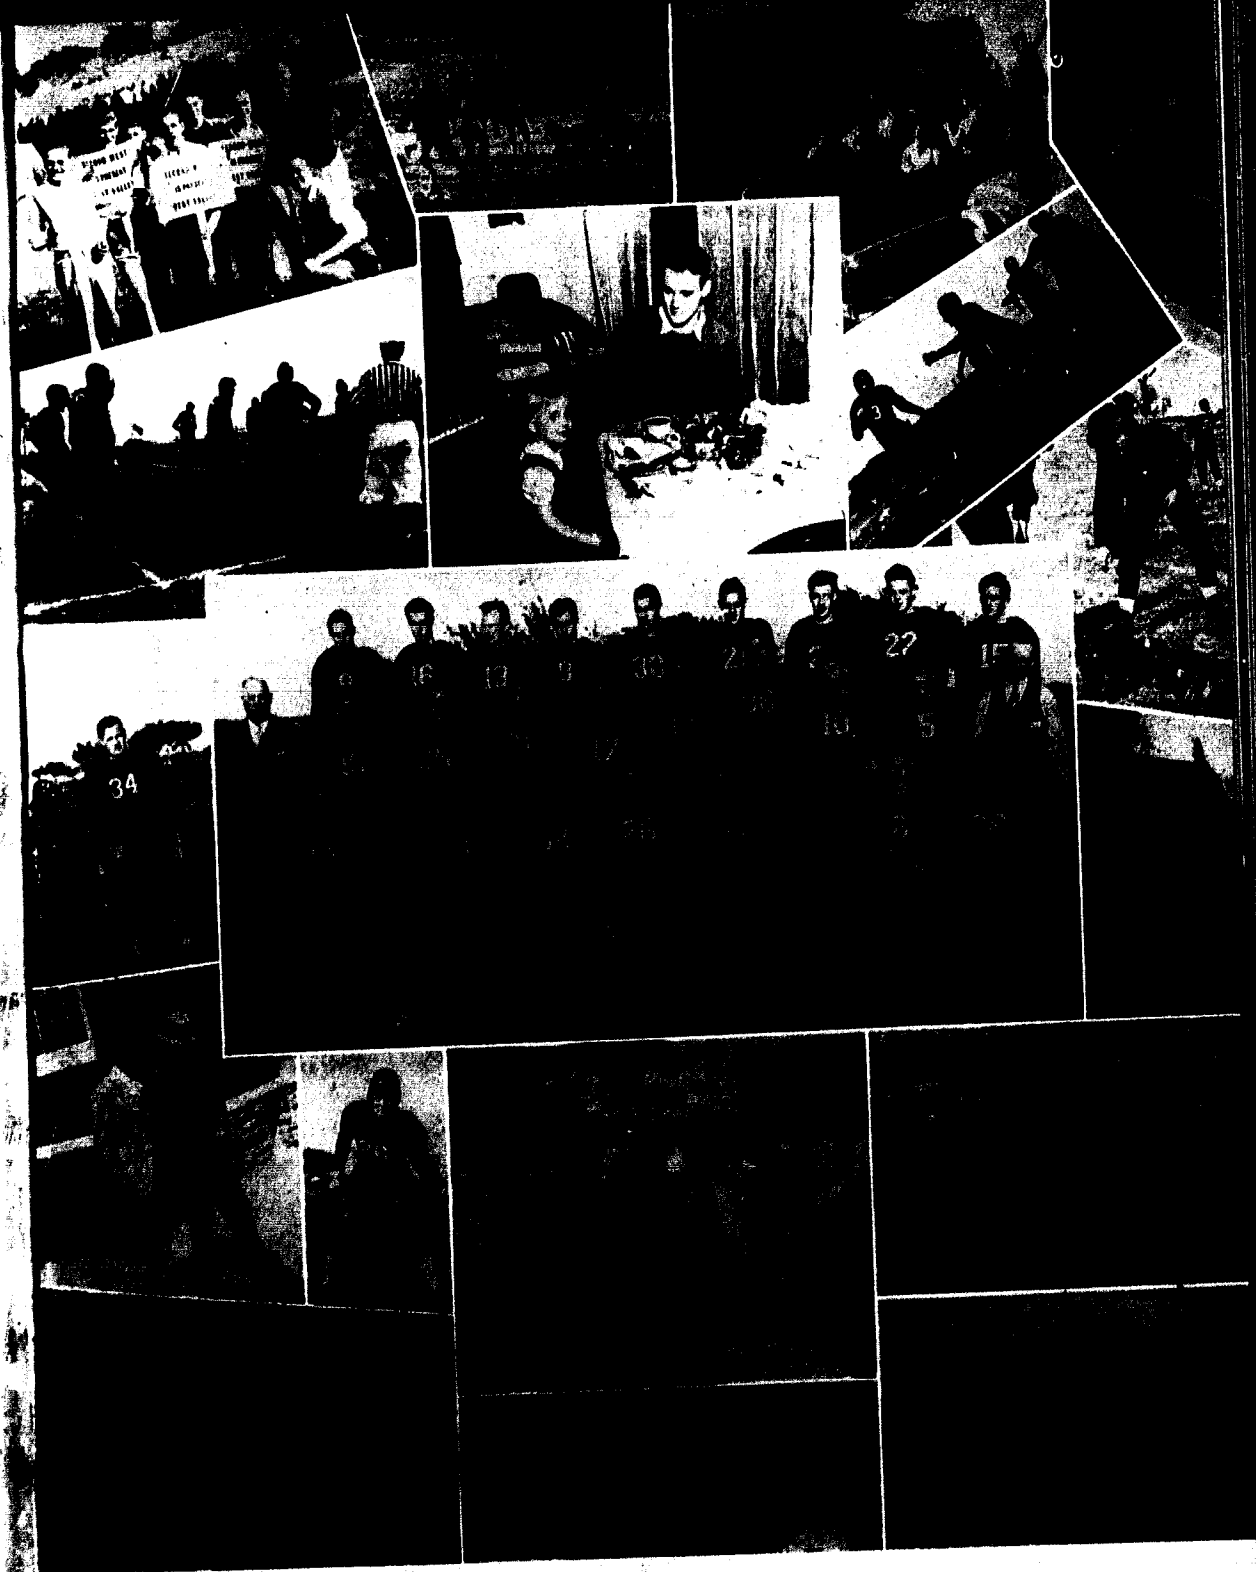

For the first game of the season Jewell journeyed to Kansas City to play the Kansas City, Kansas, Junior College. Jewell won this game by a score of 26-0. From there the Jewell gridsters went to Ottawa, Kansas, to play the Braves. Although Jewell played good football, the game was lost to Ottawa by a score of 13-6, Jewell's score coming in the third quarter when Bobby Moore plunged the line on a short man play for the counter. From there the boys traveled back to Kansas City to play the Rockhurst Hawks. This game was lost to Rockhurst by a score of 18-6. Don Farris in his 60 yard run for Jewell's lone touchdown made himself a star of the game and showed his prowess as a ball-lugger. From this game Jewell came home for its first game of the conference season. This was also to be the Homecoming Game. With a thrilling score of 7-6, Jewell nosed out a victory. The game looked almost lost but the day was saved by two boys from Warsaw. "Hap" Blanchard, catching a blocked pass on Valley's thirty yard line set the stage for Jewell's counter. The kick for the extra point was made by McDonald. Then later in the game when Valley had scored and was trying for the conversion, Russ Drenon blocked the kick that would have tied the score. The next game of the season with Tarkio on Jewell Field saw the boys play a stellar game and win by a close score of 20-19.

When the gridsters journeyed out to Baldwin to play Baker, they won the game by a score of 21-0 and displayed the type of football which Jewell was capable of playing. Then for the third conference game of the season, the boys defeated Culver Stockton by a score of 20-7. On Thanksgiving Day at Jewell the boys had the perfect day by defeating Central 22-0, with three touchdowns, two conversions for points after touchdowns, and a safety. With four wins, no ties, and no losses William Jewell claimed undisputed possession of the Conference Championship.

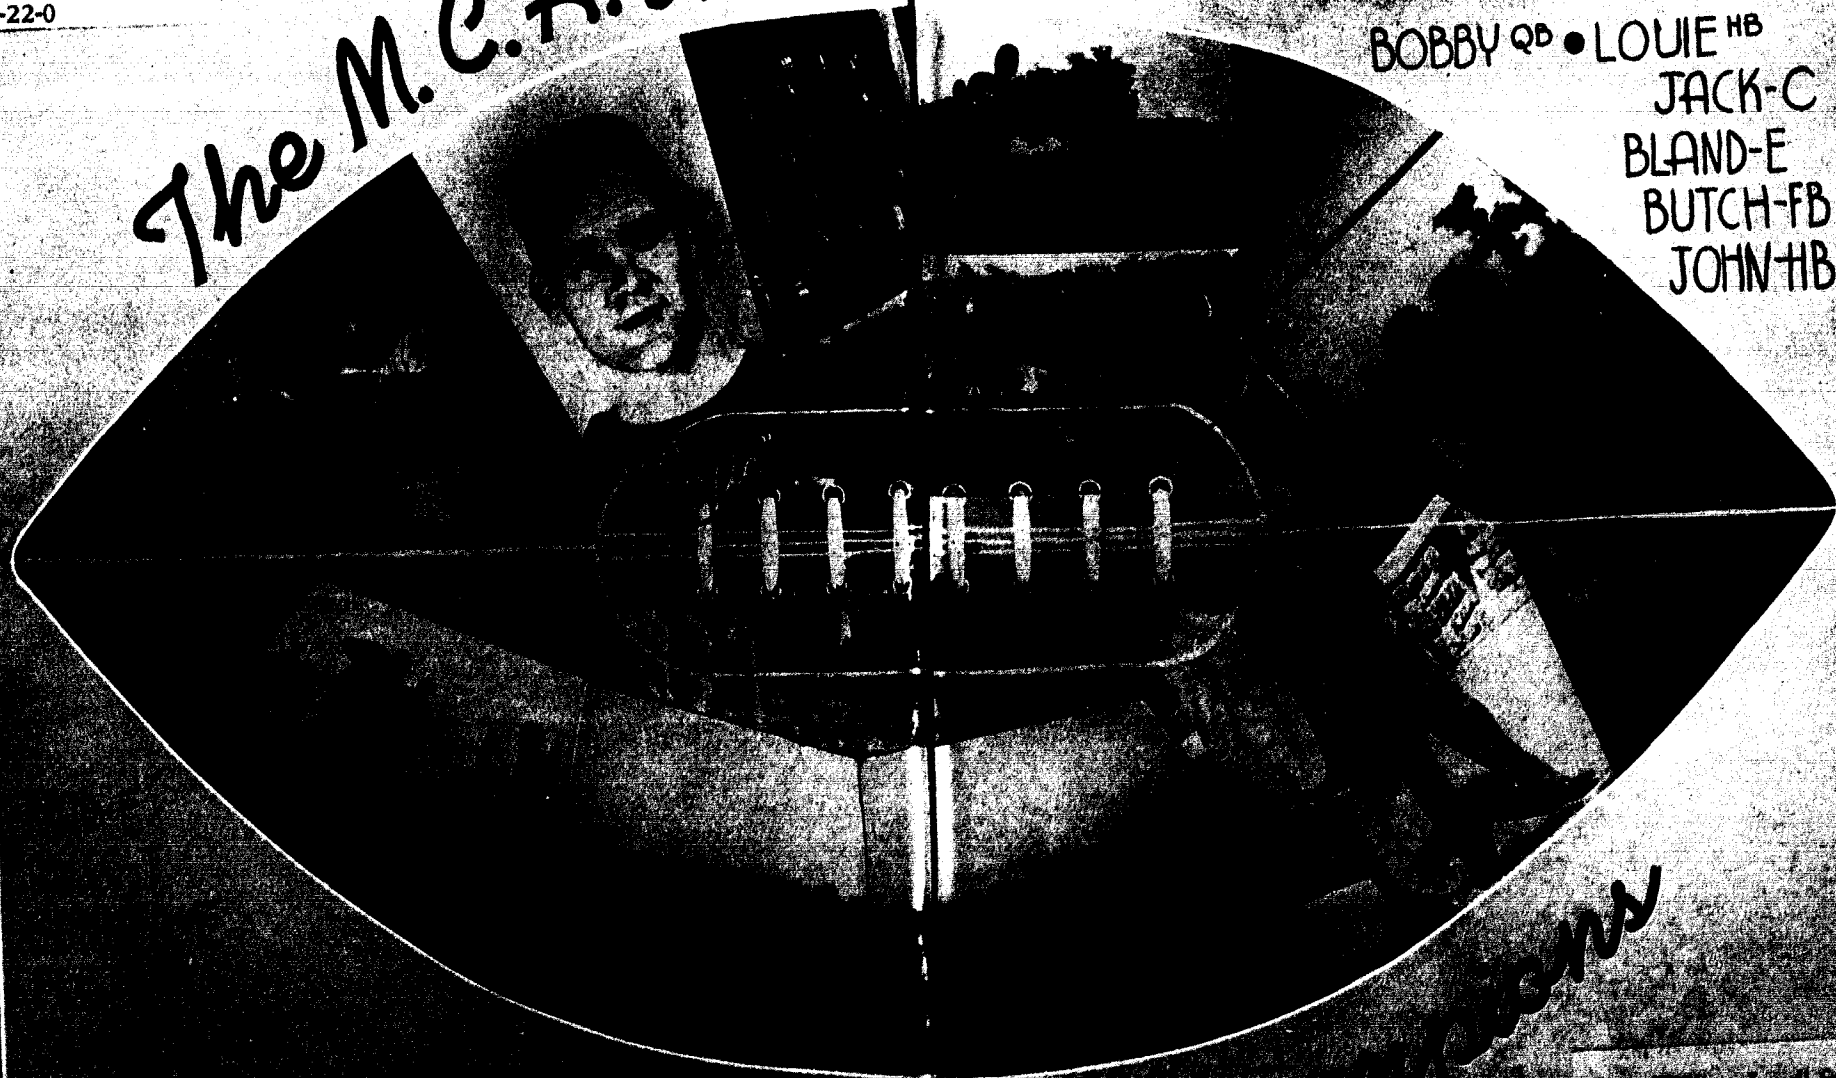

Newspaper men selected Captain Victor Knight, Don Farris, Jack Petty, and Norman McDonald on the First Team of the All-Conference Team with Knight as captain of the Team. The Second Team included Captain-elect Elmer Goss, Monte Hagedorn, Bobby Moore, and Harold Sheerer, with Bland Roberts making Honorable Mention. Norman McDonald made the All-Missouri Team as quarterback and Vic Knight was selected as guard on the Little All-American Team.

The 1938 squad was as follows: Charles Wood, Russell Drenon, Ralph Williams, John Sumpter, Vernon Fletcher, Glenwood Elder, Joe Peterson, Gene Brady, Frank Blanchard, Harold Holley, Henry Miller, Jack Petty, Bob Hufft, Monte Hagedorn, Bland Roberts, Bill Heath, Leonard Carr, Edwin Clatworthy, Louis Ortega, Bobby Moore, Elmer Goss, Captain Victor Knight, Harold Sheerer, Norman McDonald, Don Farris, Bob Williams, Eldon Wykoff, Wayne Minor, Billy Carter, and Paul Piper.

Basketball

The William Jewell Basketball Squad ran into some stiff competition this year and a large number of the boys were not fully experienced; however, although suffering continuous defeats, the team retained a fighting spirit which predominated throughout the season.)

William Jewell opened its season with Baker in a game before the Christmas Holidays. In this game Coach Godfriaux tried the boys out, giving most of them a chance to play. The game was close, lost to Baker by a score of 30-27. From this game Jewell went to Rockhurst to officially open its season after the holidays and, in a game with one overtime period, beat Rockhurst by a score of 30-28. William Jewell then opened its conference season with Culver-Stockton here and took a beating by 28-13. Then followed another from that source at Canton, 37-18. The team went to Central and was beaten 42-29. From there the team came home to play Drury in a game which they really deserved to win because they fought harder than they had in any game as yet in the season. They lost only by a close score of 20-16. At Missouri Valley the boys were trounced 31-21. Home again the Central quintet again beat Jewell 25-16. Tarkio then invaded Jewell's court to the tune of 33-22. At Drury the Jewell five was beaten 36-18. Then at Westminster the team fought with real determination and only lost by a score of 22-18. At home, the Westminster boys gained a larger margin of victory and won by 34-20. In the next game at home with Missouri Valley, Jewell won a thriller in an overtime period by 32-29. The next game at Tarkio was lost by a bad score. The last game of the season was with Rockhurst in which they re-vengeed Jewell's victory early in the season by a score of 31-21.

The squad included the following: Don Farris, Fred Farris, Wellington Westbrook, Maurice John, Louis Desert, A. J. Crouch, Lyman Norris, Frank Blanchard, Bobby Moore, to whom the letters were awarded, and also Kenneth Duncan, Marion Stillions, and Ellis Gover.

"J" Club

Organized in 1912, the "J" Club, an organization composed of William Jewell athletes who have earned letters in inter-collegiate competition as representatives of the "Black and Red" that signifies William Jewell in her athletic contests, now boasts a membership, present and alumni, of over twelve hundred men.

The major activity of the "J" Club this year was the "running-off" of the annual high-school invitation track meet and tennis tournament which was held at the Jewell field April 21 of this year. Members of the "J" Club assist in, as well as participate in, the track meets and other athletic contests which are held here at William Jewell. They are instrumental in furthering work on the college field and improvements on the campus.

The officers for 1937-1938 were:

President Norman McDonald
 Vice-Pres. Elmer Goss
 Secretary Don Farris

Treasurer George Clarke
 Historian Al Vogt

"Daddy" Fruit Day

With the dinner climaxing the celebration of Dr. John Phelps Fruit's forty years on the William Jewell faculty given December 9, the week's festivities came to a close. Persons from 15 states sat down to the dinner; from California to Massachusetts, from South Dakota to Tennessee, each had come to do honor to the Grand Old Man of the Campus. Every class from and including 1899 to 1939 was represented by at least one person. The list of representative graduates, in order as they appear in the picture, follows:

There comes a time in the life of every individual when he reaches the zenith of success for his efforts. This year Professor Harvey realized the highest dream of a debate coach - his men's debate team was chosen to represent the colleges and universities of America in international debates abroad.

Puffing spasmodically on the ever-present pipe, his keen eyes peering out from under the green visor shading them, amid the yellowing pages of letters and materials collected through the years of his working at Jewell, Professor Harvey sits, ever planning and work toward future goals.

Not only the debate squad and Pi Kappa Delta but also all other organizations and the entire school are proud of the results of this latest and greatest of P. Cap's "organizing."

Student Senate

The Student Senate, officially known as governing body of the Student Association of the William Jewell Student Body, is the group whose particular responsibility it is to be the official representatives of the students in all matters that pertain to the student body as a whole.

The personnel of the senate as outlined in the constitution is: Chairman and ex officio member, Student Body President, Jim Scott Merritt; Senior Class

As a rule their activities are not greatly publicized, but in the sponsoring of two all-school parties they emerged into the foreground as a smoothly-functioning group. With Tommy Scruggs as the chairman, the committee which sponsored the party in the spring is especially to be congratulated. A novel idea was executed in the presentation of the college's most outstanding talent and in the showing of Frank Capra's well-known motion picture, Lost Horizon. The evening was complete with popcorn, "sody pop," and all the trimmin's.

The Senate is one of the most active groups on the Hill, for, being the official representatives of the student body, they find much of an official nature to do.

Whenever it is a vote to be counted, a question of an injustice done, or a matter of a new amendment, it is the Student Senate to whom we invariably turn—truly a group whose efforts have made student life on the Hill more enjoyable and progressive. To them we owe much. May we always be so well governed.

To be chosen as an Aeon is one of the biggest distinctions that can be bestowed upon a William Jewell man. Each year the new members are chosen from the junior class and number from five to eight.

Those in the picture are Maurice Winger, George Clarke, Kenneth Banes, and Vernon Knight.

Aeons

Panaegis

The contemporary honor society for girls is Panaegis. Each spring they initiate from five to seven junior girls to carry on their work.

Members appearing in the picture are:

Julia Connely, Frances Howitt, Miss Rice, Sponsor, Nelda Green, Irene Dinus, Miss Lindsey, Sponsor, Dorothy Jayne Parrott, Elizabeth Pinkerton, and Anna Lois Heaton.

Alpha Phi Omega

Under the able leadership of John Edmund, Alpha Phi Omega has completed another year in which they have adequately fulfilled their purpose, that of being a real service to their community, to their country, and to their school.

With Doctor Edson as the sponsor the group started early in the year to promote their activities. As an innovation this year the service fraternity held a picnic for the freshmen to aid them in making acquaintances and to foster a real Jewell spirit.

Special attention of the fraternity is centered upon those small things which are usually unnoticed by other students. For example the matter of raising the flag and innumerable other details which make for a true college are cared for by this group of men.

A national convention which was well attended by Jewell Alpha Phi Omega's was one of the highlights of the year. St. Louis men very graciously played host to those visiting the city for the convention which was held during the Christmas holidays.

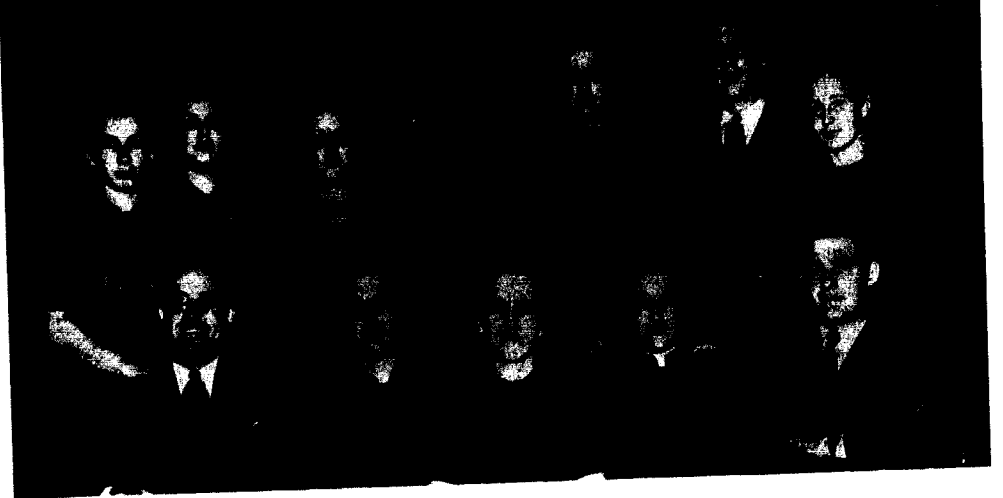

Serving again in the annual N. F. L.

Tournament, the group rendered invaluable help by supplying chairmen, judges, and general utility men.

For their work with the intra-murals of the college much credit is due. They awarded the cup for the football series in the fall, the basketball cup in the winter, and played a part in running the interclass track meet.

President Edmund has through his efforts promoted the idea of an inter-fraternity sing. The idea is a new one on the campus and, after having received such fine receptions on other campuses, should be a real booster for more of the kind of spirit of which Jewell is in need.

Alpha Psi Omega

With high entrance qualifications Alpha Psi Omega has a limited membership chosen on the basis of dramatic excellence and scholarship. Initiated this year at a banquet held for that purpose were: Ann Tripp, Ann Margaret Bell, Barbara Bogard, and Dorothy Jane Collins. In addition to the newly initiated, Dorothy Jayne Parrott, Eugene Hollmann, Patty Lee Brandom, Mary Jane Winn, H. Arnold Smith, and Max Morgan are members. Kenneth Banes is an understudy. After Dorothy Jayne Parrott left school, Eugene Hollmann was elected to fill her place as president.

In the Players' first production, George and Margaret, Max Morgan and Ann Tripp, members of Alpha Psi Omega, took important parts. Outward Bound, presented during the winter term, brought Barbara Bogard, Dorothy Jayne Collins, and Max Morgan, all members of this honorary fraternity, back to the William Jewell stage. The presentation of the annual Shakespearean play, which this year was The Merchant of Venice, was pronounced a success, with Patty Lee Brandom in the leading role of Portia and Mary Jane Winn as Nerissa.

The group this year instead of their usual sponsorship of the High-School One-Act Play Contest devoted their efforts to the presentation of a pageant depicting the life of "Daddy" Fruit as a part of his anniversary celebration.

Aufwiederschen, a well-known one-act play, was entered at the play contest in Columbia. This play was sponsored by Alpha Psi Omega.

As a group the fraternity in conjunction with the William Jewell Players attended the presentation of Our Town, Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize Play in which Walter Hampton took the leading role of the Stage Manager. The Kansas City Resident Theatre presented this Broadway success. Sponsoring such trips is one of the particular aims of the fraternity.

William Jewell Players

Organized to further and encourage dramatic expression at William Jewell, the William Jewell Players, one of the largest of the campus organizations, under the competent leadership of its president, H. Arnold Smith, and its Business Manager, Max Morgan, completed a successful season, presenting three well-known plays and assisting in the presentation of the pageant which depicted the life of "Daddy" Fruit.

Miss Rice, assisted by members of the Players, selected the plays, and the fall-term production decided upon was a humorous English play entitled, George and Margaret. This play brought many new faces before the footlights of the William Jewell stage and brought back some of Jewell's most beloved actors. The cast included: Max Morgan, Claudine Ross, Bill Porter, Jack Wilkes, Marty Phillips, Addison Sharp, Ann Tripp, and Elizabeth Prince. The play was cleverly done and the cast and their director are to be congratulated for such a performance.

Kenneth Banes, impersonating "Daddy" Fruit, played the leading role in the pageant which was given during the celebration of Dr. Fruit's anniversary as a professor on the "Hill." He was ably assisted by an enormous cast of characters and extras of whom the majority were members of the Players organization. This pageant was written by members of Sigma Tau Delta, creative writing fraternity, and under the incomparable leadership of Miss Virginia D. Rice the pageant gradually took concrete form on the stage of Gano Chapel. Marvelous opportunity was presented to the members of the William Jewell Players who are not especially interested in the stage from the actor's standpoint to display their various talents and propensities in the arrangement of scenery, the perfection of lighting, and the staging of dramatic features. It can truthfully be said that these members deserve a great deal of credit for the tremendous success of the pageant. Special mention should go to Don Bell and Edwin Ragland for their huge book containing front covers of Dr. Fruit's published books. The large book was made from cardboard and Bell and Ragland, both accomplished painters, had reproduced the cover pages of the various books which Dr. Fruit has written. Orchids to all members of the large production cast are in order and are hereby tendered to this host of energetic students.

On the very heels of this stupendous undertaking, came the second of the Players' three offerings, Outward Bound. This play ran on Broadway a short time ago and was a great success, so the audiences who witnessed its performance here at William Jewell were indeed fortunate, not only in being able to see such a popular play but also in seeing its characters portrayed by such capable artists as Don Bell, Earl Lee, Dorothy Collins, Barbara Bogard, Max Morgan, Jeanne Smoot, and Herbert Cies. Dealing with the supernatural, the play recalled to many of its audience the play presented here in 1936, Death Takes A Holiday. Fearful that the audience would not appreciate the spiritual quality of the play, the Players presented it with misgivings, but their surprise was indeed welcome when the press acclaimed it a challenger to that same play which it recalled, Death Takes A Holiday.

After a short lull, the Players launched forth on their annual Shakespearean production. This time the play chosen was Shakespeare's beloved, Merchant of Venice.

The cast was unusually large, as the cast of Shakespearean plays are wont to be, so it is impossible to name all of the cast here, but the main parts were taken by Patty Lee Brandom, Jack Wilkes, Norman McDonald, Biron Bush, Charles Goe, Mary Jane Winn, George Giessing, Beebs Downing, Ike Gillis, and Jones Baber. The costuming was excellent and the staging was simple, yet elaborate, in its simplicity. Several high-school groups attended the performance of this play, and each went away with a fuller understanding of Shakespearean drama.

In the spring the following cast under the supervision of Miss Rice presented the one-act play, Anfwiedersehen, in the State One-Act Play Contest at Columbia, Missouri: Elizabeth Prince, Herbert Cies, Don Bell, Earl Lee, and Dorothy Jane Collins.

Too much cannot be said about the directing ability of Miss Rice, and the student body of the college as well as the members of the William Jewell Players owe a deep debt of gratitude to her for the remarkable success of dramatic productions here on the campus.

International Relations Club

The Jewell chapter is one of the hundreds of International Relations Clubs located throughout the world. The aim of the club is to bring to the students a more comprehensive knowledge of international affairs. Special speakers have been brought to the campus, and one of the club's members has read a paper to the national conference of the group.

The first meeting of the year was a banquet held at the Colonial Hotel. Attorney Forest W. Hanna was the speaker, and his subject was "The Axiom of American Democracy."

For a second meeting the club was very fortunate in securing for the occasion Harry Edmunds, the founder of the International House. The first House that he promulgated was at Columbia University in New York City, New York. Its purpose was to enable students from foreign countries to live together in close friendship under one roof in the interest of furthering international understanding and good will. At the present these International Houses have also been established at Chicago University, at the University of California, at Paris, and at Tokyo. Mr. Edmunds has traveled extensively and is sponsored in his mission for the establishment of these International Houses by the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace.

The club sent eight members to the convention held at Omaha in March. Joint hosts for the occasion were the University of Omaha and the University of Duquesne. These delegates were: John Edmund, Harry Wood, Frances Howitt, Stanley Hirokawa, Darold Jackson, Edwin Elliott, Ronald Yates, and John Wesley Reed, who read his paper, "Is the Rome-Berlin Axis Safe?" to the convention.

The club maintains a shelf in the Carnegie Library at William Jewell on which the latest books concerning international relations are placed. This year two new groups have been added.

The membership of the International Relations Club is limited to upperclassmen who are interested in international problems.

The officers for the past year have been:
 Kenneth Banes President
 John Wesley Reed Vice-President
 Walter Jewell Secretary-Treasurer
 Prof. C. W. Smith Faculty Sponsor

The membership of the club is as follows:

- John Wesley Reed
- Kenneth Banes
- Walter Jewell
- Ted Elliott

Pi Gamma Mu

Pi Gamma Mu was organized in 1924 for the purpose of inculcating the ideals of scholarship and social service in the study of all social problems. Membership in the fraternity is indicative of scholastic achievement and at the same time allows the student who is interested in social service to meet with others of similar interests to study social questions from a scientific point of view. Pi Gamma Mu has high standards and membership requirements that make it distinctive among honorary organizations. Moreover, it differs from the ordinary honorary society in that it offers an active program for its members.

Bringing interesting personalities to the campus as lecturers is an important function of Pi Gamma Mu. The attention of the group this year has been focused on an interesting plan of activity suggested by the faculty sponsor, Prof. C. O. Van Dyke. This plan is to prepare symposia on social questions and present these in joint meetings with other chapters of the society. Contacts have been made with other campuses and the plan has attracted attention of the National Advisory Council.

Prof. Van Dyke is the faculty sponsor of the Missouri Epsilon chapter. Faculty members who are active in the chapter are: Professor U. R. Pugh, Professor C. W. Smith, and Professor Gilbert Reynolds of the Liberty High School.

Twelve new members were initiated in the April meeting. The annual joint banquet with the International Relations Club was held in May at the Colonial Hotel.

Officers for the year were:

Kenneth Baner President
Claude C. Boner Vice-President
Maurice Winger Sec-Treas.

Pi Kappa Delta

That the Delta chapter of Pi Kappa Delta is progressive, enterprising, and, above all, progressive was proved conclusively by the record made this year. Under the leadership of Maurice Winger, the president and captain of America's debate team, and Professor P. Caspar Harvey, forensics instructor at William Jewell, this group of fifteen members made an enviable record in the entire field of forensics. This record has placed Jewell high in the standings of Pi Kappa Delta and is a record that deserves the highest commendations of the student body.

Pi Kappa Delta is an honorary fraternity that fosters interest in forensics in American colleges. It is the strongest national fraternity emphasizing such a purpose. The Missouri Delta was established at William Jewell by Prof. Harvey in 1922. When in 1927 it was agreed that women also had a place in forensics, they were admitted to the organization. Since that time both men and women from Jewell have compiled a record that has gained nation-wide attention.

William Jewell was the host this year of the provincial tournament of Pi Kappa Delta and staged the contests at the Elms Hotel in Excelsior Springs. So well did Jewell entertain that the member schools voted to return again in 1941, the next year in which a provincial tournament will be held. Prior to this year Jewell had not been honored with the privilege of being the host school.

At the tournament banquet, John B. Breckenridge and Maurice Winger were presented as the all-American debate team. Each replied with an excellent speech for the large group assembled. This is the first time that members of a Pi Kappa Delta school have been chosen on the all-American team. It is fitting that William Jewell should lead the way.

The membership of Pi Kappa Delta is based upon intercollegiate standards prescribed by the national organization. Members in the picture include: Gene Moore, John Breckenridge, Nancy Campbell, Maurice Winger, Madeline Parrott, Edwin Ragland, Kenneth Baner, P. Caspar Harvey, Earl Brock, David Bratcher, Barbara Bogard, William Cheatham, John Wesley Reed, Beebs Downing and Earl Lee are also members but are not in the picture.

The officers for the year were: Maurice Winger, president; Kenneth Baner, vice-president; and Madeline Parrott, secretary-treasurer.

Forensics

To the forensic department of William Jewell this year came the highest debating honor which any college or university may hope to receive.

On February 21, a long-distance telephone call from New York City to Prof. P. Caspar Harvey announced that Maurice Winger, No. 1 Jewell debater and captain of the 1939 debate squad, had been selected by the National Student Federation as first choice for the American team which would represent all the colleges and universities of the United States in a series of debates on foreign soil in May. The William Jewell "goose," literally, "hung high," for, although Jewell forensic stars in past years of competition had captured four national championships, this honor was one most debaters and debate coaches only dream about. It is needless to say that the campus bubbled and boiled anew with enthusiastic praise when on March 9 John Breckenridge, Jewell's second-ranking debater, was chosen by Miss Sylvia Suger mann, Secretary of the Federation, while Professor Harvey, Breckenridge, and Winger were in Washington, D. C., on the first lap of their 16 state tour in America, to be Winger's teammate in his debates on the other side of the Atlantic. The presentation of Winger and Breckenridge in an impressive chapel ceremony and their rousing reception by the members of the student body on that occasion bears witness to the fact that the student body as a whole had been suddenly made aware of the activities of forensics here at William Jewell. The honor of this selection would indeed have been great had only one member of the National Team been chosen from the Jewell squad, but that both members should be chosen from the same campus was indeed unprecedented and, therefore, surprising. Breckenridge and Winger sailed from New York April 21 on the Queen Mary, the recipients of numerous messages of good luck and best wishes from their friends on the campus and scattered throughout this area. When "Breck" and "Maurie" return in August, they will have debated the four greatest universities in the English-speaking world—Harvard, Yale, Oxford, and Cambridge; they can boast a personal chat with President Roosevelt, conversations with Secretary of State Cordell Hull on one of the questions which was used on their foreign tour, and discussion of mutual-interest topics with Frank McNinch, Chairman of the Federal Communications Commission; and they will have completed a six-weeks debate schedule with English universities as the representatives of the United States.

Although the achievements of Breckenridge and Winger will unavoidably overshadow any achievements of their fellow debaters, note the record of the other debate teams in intercollegiate competition this year.

At the Kirksville Tournament, held December 2 and 3, Moore and Ragland, and Campbell and Parrott, top-flight women's team, made a good showing and Kenneth Banes ranked third in after-dinner speaking, Dorothy Collins, third in original poetry reading, and Barbara Bogard competed in oratory. Winger and Breckenridge were undefeated in this, their first 1939 tournament. From the Maryville Tournament, Moore and Ragland, with five wins and no losses, returned to the campus undefeated. Other contestants in men's debate included Cheatham and Reed, Bratcher and Brock, and Winger and Breckenridge. Campbell and Parrott were Jewell's only women's team in the tournament.

The forensic department took pleasure in contributing to the festivities of the "Daddy" Fruit Celebration with their chapel debate with the University of Kansas of Lawrence, with Winger and Breckenridge upholding the affirmative Kansas, Junior College; Maryville Teacher's College; and Central College.

Members of the forensic squad also entered the Pi Kappa Delta Tournament at Excelsior Springs. The Jewell chapter of Pi Kappa Delta was host to the provincial chapters.

Jewell debaters closed the 1939 home season with two debates with Dartmouth College—one in Gano Chapel with Breckenridge and Winger as Jewell's representatives, the other, a radio-debate over WDAF, with Madeline Parrott and Edwin Ragland as Jewell debaters.

of the national question. The feature debate in America this year for William Jewell was a debate over the Blue network of NBC from Boston with Winger and Breckenridge debating a team from Harvard University. This team and their coach were also interviewed over two different radio networks during their New York visit.

Jewell teams debated several other outstanding colleges on their own campus and on debate trips; the schedule included debates with Washington University; Harvard University; Yale University; Park College; Missouri Valley College; Kansas City Banking Institute; Kansas City,

Of the forty-three who came out for debate, twenty of that number were chosen to compose the 1939 squad. Four other members were also chosen—two in men's oratory and two in women's oratory.

The Student

As editor for the first half of the school year Skippy Pinkerton did a very excellent job and presented a Student as interesting and readable as had been the best of its predecessors. The regular staff meeting held every Thursday afternoon was an important factor in maintaining a notable organization of the staff.

In accordance with the policy of the Student this year, the names of the columnists were held in secrecy; but Patty Lee Brandon is now credited with writing "Jewell Jelly-er," and Dick Sharp is officially acknowledged as the author of "Spice."

As provided by an amendment to the Student Body Constitution, in the future three associate editors are to be elected each half year, from which group a committee will select one to serve as editor for the following term. It is intended that these provisions will further assure the selection of very capable editors for future Students, and remove this publication office from school politics.

Bob Morf, who served as associate editor under Pinkerton, became editor-in-chief in January, and immediately made several striking changes in the make-up of the paper. With Kenneth Baner assisting in these manipulations the Student took on a new appearance, and readers on the campus as well as subscribers from coast-to-coast were unanimous in their praise of the new "face" for their school paper.

Occasional cartoons by Gene Morgan, columns by Dave Hawley, Peggy Burroughs, and Ronald Yates; features by Beebs Downing, sports gossip by Chet Bowles, and contributions by the associate editors were the highlights of some outstanding Students.

The "Yellow" Student was issued during Morf's term as editor, and, to say the least, it was surprising and interesting.

Bill Craig served as business manager for the entire year. For his capable and efficient management of the Student he is deserving of much praise.

The Tatler

The personnel of the 1939 staff was:

So as we draw near the completion of our part in the campus activity for this year, it is with a feeling of satisfaction because of a task completed and regret for the relentless passing of time which has brought our work to a culmination so quickly. It has only been through the cooperation of a competent staff that our efforts have been successful, that our purpose has been achieved—that of publishing a volume representative of activities and personalities—William Jewell at its best.

For Mr. George Beamer and the William Jewell Press and for Mr. Harvey Tripp of the Burger-Baird Engraving Co. and the Burger-Baird Co. as well we harbor a deep feeling of appreciation for their interest, advice, and work.

EDITOR'S NOTE. Special commendation is due Dick Sharp for his punctuality and dependability as well as the style of writing which has brought him favorable comment from several newspapermen. To Willellen Capps for her tireless efforts and outstanding work should be awarded the garland of gratitude—may future editors and business managers have staff members one-half so talented, one-half so interested, and one-half so persevering as they.

Sigma Tau Delta

Sigma Tau Delta, the national honorary writers' fraternity, was founded in 1924 at Dakota Wesleyan University. The William Jewell chapter, Mu Beta, was organized from the Scribblers' Club in 1928. Its purpose is to recognize and encourage the literary ability of the college students. The members read and criticize one another's work at the regular meetings.

In the fall Sigma Tau Delta sponsored the coming of May Williams Ward, well-known Kansas poet, with a Silver Tea in her honor. For the "Daddy" Fruit celebration commemorating this forty years as a Jewell professor, the writers of Sigma Tau Delta created a pageant portraying epochs in the life of Dr. Fruit. The scenes showed him as an incorrigible youngster, as a versatile and brilliant young man, as a gifted writer, as a hobby-loving, mature man, as an appreciated and beloved institution of the old Hill.

In 1932 and again in 1934 Sigma Tau Delta published a book of poetry written by students and teachers of William Jewell College. These publications gave a cross-section of the poetic talent of Jewell students. This year plans were made for the compilation of material for another volume.

Frederic Pumphrey was president of the organization and Patty Lee Brandom was vice-president this year. Beets Downing was elected secretary-treasurer. The sponsors of Sigma Tau Delta are: Prof. P. Caspar Harvey, Miss Virginia D. Rice, Dr. J. P. Fruit, Prof. F. T. Walker, and Mrs. P. Caspar Harvey.

Officers for the Men's Biology Club for this year were: President, Vernon Knight; V.-Pres., H. V. Guhleman; Sec.-Treas., Wendell Rainwater. Other members were: Dr. Elmore, Sponsor, Alfred Vogt, Kenneth Couch, James Ragan, Fred Neiger, John Stewart, David Lukens.

Theta Chi Delta

The Alpha Nu chapter of Theta Chi Delta was installed at William Jewell on May 2, 1931. Prior to that time the organization was called the "Khem Club." Chemistry majors with a "B" average who have completed at least four terms of college chemistry are eligible for active membership. The associate members are those who have completed two terms of college chemistry with a "B" average.

This year for the second time Theta Chi Delta was instrumental in putting on a science fair in which the physics and biology departments cooperated. The first, second, and third year chemistry students performed experiments relating to their respective work before a large group of college students and other interested spectators in the large lecture room in Marston Hall. An unusual part of the program was a liquid air demonstration conducted by a chemist from Kansas University.

The purpose of the organization is to encourage students to strive for scholarship in chemistry and to promote its continued study as well as to create interest and maintain it.

In November of this year Vernon Knight represented the Alpha Nu chapter at the Biannual Convention in Springfield, Ohio.

Officers for 1938-39 were:

Eugene Crystal President
Wallace Rutledge Vice-President
Vernon Knight Secretary
Wiley Thorne Treasurer

Sigma Pi Sigma

Sigma Pi Sigma, national honorary physics society, was founded at Davidson College, Davidson, North Carolina, in the year 1921. Sigma Pi Sigma now has chapters all over the United States and in the Philippines. Xi chapter was installed at William Jewell on May 20, 1930.

The requirements for membership include: the student shall have completed four terms of college physics, or its equivalent; the student shall have made a B average or better; the student shall have shown an interest in furthering the cause of the study of physics.

The purpose of Sigma Pi Sigma is to promote and encourage interest in the field of physics and to provide a fraternal bond for those who are capable of maintaining its high ideals and standards.

Sigma Pi Sigma is proud of its contribution to the second annual science fair at William Jewell. In the several physics laboratories there were exhibits in the realms of electricity, mechanics, heat, light, sound, and radio. In the physics lecture room, members of Sigma Pi Sigma had arranged a number of interesting and spectacular demonstrations.

Special projects for the year 1938-39 have been field trips to plants and special exhibits interesting to students in the field of physics, special lectures, and the showing of special scientific films at open meetings.

The officers for this year were:

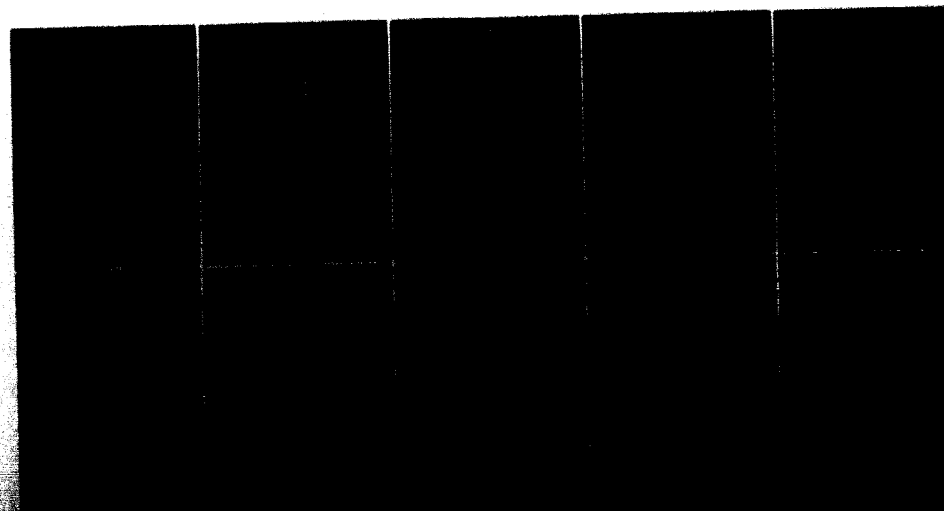

George B. Clarke President
Fred Farris Vice-President
Patty Lee Brandom Sec.-Treas.

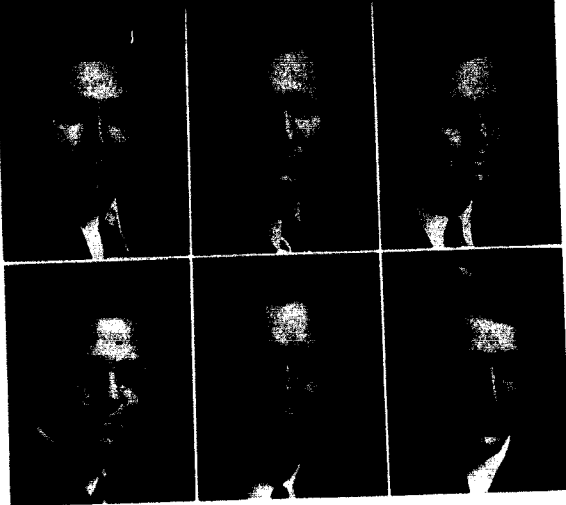

Other members of the organization were:

Mildred Backer
Frank Blanchard
Nelda Green

Alpha Zeta Pi

On an evening in April, 1924, eight students met, petitioning God for guidance in their efforts, that their motives might be blessed and that success might be granted them in the perfecting of an organization that should have as its ideal the building of Christian character. Out of this meeting grew the present organization known as Alpha Zeta Pi.

The colors of the organization are blue and white, and the lily-of-the-valley is the official flower. The motto, "Anazopurein," is found in II Timothy 1:6, "to stir into flame the gift of God within you." Composed chiefly of ministerial students, Alpha Zeta Pi is known as the Christian honorary organization on the Hill.

The essential aim of the organization is to uphold the ideals of true Christian manhood. The special benefit derived from such a group is the fact that matters related to Christian living can be discussed freely among the members.

The group meets bi-weekly with a member chosen at the preceding meeting leading the discussion of a topic related to Christianity and religion.

Pledges were entertained by the activities at the Christmas Party held in December and during the year six new members were initiated into the organization. At the Annual Spring Banquet the newly-elected officers for the following year were installed.

The officers for 1939-40 will be:

Charles Schaefer President
 Charles Goe Vice-President
 Wayne Minor Secretary
 Averill Boisen Treasurer

Officers for this year were:

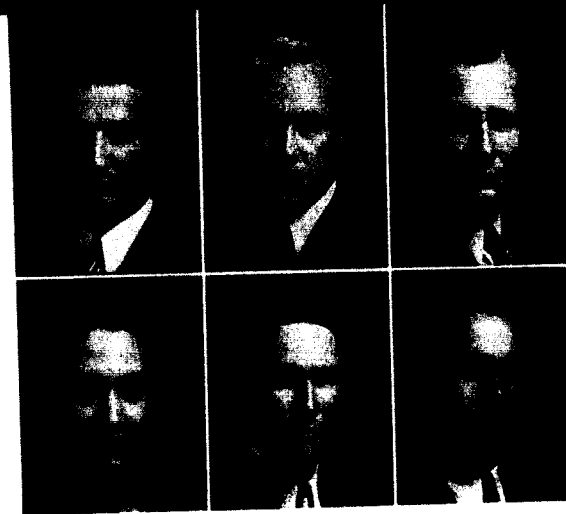

Max W. Morgan President
 Gerald Ralls Vice-President
 Charles Schaefer Secretary
 Massey Hill Treasurer

Other members:

 Charles Goe
 Elmer Goss

Honorary members of Alpha Zeta Pi:

Dr. Edson
 Dr. Derwacter
 Prof. Bruner

William Jewell Christian Association

The William Jewell Christian Association whose purpose is to coordinate all the religious activities on our campus so as to prevent overlapping and to promote the religious life of the student is composed of the entire student body. Elmer Goss was the president of the group this year and Anna Lois Heaton was the secretary.

The organization has sponsored many outstanding speakers on the Hill this year, among whom were Dr. Ford from Calvary Baptist Church and Dr. Wilson from First Baptist Church in Kansas City, Missouri. The Association is also responsible for the morning devotional services held every day before classes from 7:30 until 7:45. Special prayer meetings have been held, including a Pre-Thanksgiving Service, a Pre-Easter Service, and an Easter Sunrise Service. A special assembly has also been sponsored every month.

The Student Assembly committee whose chairman was Eugene Amick was composed of: Beebs Downing, Lee Major, Wendell Arnote, Jane Richardson, Virginia Fowler, Maurice Winger, Dorothy Jayne Parrott, John Wesley Reed, Carl Kenagy, Dorothy Hershey, and James Payne.

Gene Moore was chairman of the Devotional Committee whose members were: Marvin Marks, Dick Quick, Geraldine Kleppinger, Eleanor Payne, Everett Cormack, Nelda Green, Kenneth Banes, Dorothy Armentrout, Wayne Minor, Dudley Thomasson, Willellen Capps.

On the Church Relations Committee Carl Hunker is chairman and Lyman Norris, Irene Dinus, Dick Richards, Bobby Ann Sevier, Ruth Draper, Marjorie Betty, Dorothy Jane Collins, John Breckenridge, Martha Gilmer, Ralph Burbridge, and Cullen Cleaver were members.

Eugene Crystal was head of the Deputations Committee. The members were: Julia Connely, Anna Lois Heaton, Wiley Thorne, Charles Newman, Maxine Brewer, Kenneth Parks, Jewel Evans, Betty Ellis, Ben Shanklin, Jack Wilkes, and Juanita Lewis.

The four faculty members who added their assistance and advice were Miss Ruth Lindsey, Dr. H. I. Hester, Dr. Frederick M. Derwacter, and Prof. C. O. Van Dyke.

Ministerial Group

The Ministerial Group is a professional organization existing for the benefit of those men who are preparing for specialized Christian service; an associate group, made up of young ladies preparing for such service, meets with the men's group. The present group was organized in 1923, and, through the medium of a meeting each Tuesday at three o'clock in Philomathic Hall it endeavors to furnish inspiration, edification, and fellowship to its members. The aim is to increase spiritual depth and vision, to create right attitudes, to aid the members in their professional problems, and to develop a balanced personality in order that the individual will be prepared to give himself to the fullest extent in his service to God.

Herbert Jackson efficiently served as the president of the group in the year 1938; other officers for the year 1938 included: Vice-President, Woodrow Moore; Secretary-Treasurer, James Dinwiddie; Pianist, Nadine Sanders; Chorister, Lyman Norris; and Wendell Arnote, John Ross, Everett Cormack, and Welbern Bowman as group captains.

The officers who are now serving are: President, Lavell Seats; Vice-President, Wayne Rosecrans; Secretary-Treasurer, Paul Brinkley; Pianist, Maxine Brewer; Chorister, Kenneth Couch; and group captains, John Cravens, Marvin Ashlock, Orville Haines, and Gordon Gilbert.

At their regular meetings the Ministerial group was fortunate in having many distinguished men as speakers. Among the outstanding speakers were: Rev. C. P. Jones, of Kansas City, Dr. W. H. Colliver, Kansas City, Kansas,

Mr. W. O. Vaught, Kansas City, Dr. H. E. Dana, the President of the Kansas City Baptist Theological Seminary, Dr. Edgar Godbold, Kansas City, Dr. Kohler, President of the Northern Baptist Theological Seminary, Chicago, Dr. Morris Ford, Kansas City, and many others.

William Jewell College played host to the Northwest Missouri Baptist Pastor's Conference which lasted from March 13 to 17. The group gained much from this convention at which time such prominent men as Dr. W. O. Carver of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and Dr. Wallace Bassett, prominent Dallas, Texas, pastor spoke.

Under the efficient sponsorship of Dr. Hester the group has been of aid to the students preparing for some branch of Christian Service.

Epsilon Omega Pi

Epsilon Omega Pi, new sorority for girls desiring to prepare for definite Christian service, aims by association with others interested in the same work to benefit its members by discussion of their problems and to profit by the fellowship.

The members of the sorority, sponsored by Mrs. George Beamer, are: Maxine Brewer, Pres., Juanita Chappell, Sec., Katherine Summers, Treas., Mildred Backer, Nadine Sanders, Muriel Mayse, Betty Ellis, Jewel Evans, Jean Burks, Dorothy Armentrout, Eva Kennedy, Mrs. Curtis Gatson, Ina Lewis, Mrs. Ross Canning, Mrs. Clifford Nuss, and Mrs. Vern Hodges.

The highlight of the year's activities was a banquet at which the members were entertained by prominent speakers.

Y. W. A.

One of the largest and most active girls' organizations on the William Jewell campus is the Y. W. A. whose purpose is to prepare and develop young women for Christian life. Officers for this year were: Pres., Betty Ellis; V. Pres., Anna Lois Heaton; Sec., Patty Lee Brandon; and Treas., Martha Tabb.

B. S. U.

The correlation of church ideals to the everyday activities of student life is the noble aim of the Baptist Student Union of William Jewell College. All members of the college enrolled in the Baptist Sunday School, the Y. W. A., and the B. T. U. automatically become members of the B. S. U.

This large organization is governed by the B. S. U. Council which meets every Monday afternoon to formulate and plan the religious activities on the campus for the following week. This year they have sponsored an unusually large number of outstanding religious activities. Some of these were: a B. S. U. trip to Memphis, the morning devotionals held in Philomathic Hall, the all-night prayer meeting held once each month, the encouragement of the prayer-mate movement, and finally in the spring, the Retreat at Excelsior Springs.

One of the greatest religious inspirations of the year came through the presence and messages of Dr. Wallace W. Bassett of Dallas, Texas. The content of his chapel talks and their presentation provoked much thought and favorable comment among the students. His presence on the campus left us a deeper conception of Christianity.

Art Club

The addition of an art department to William Jewell fostered the organization of the Art Club.

The Instructor of Art, Don Bell, first conceived the idea, and it was under his direction that the club was instituted as one of Jewell's extra-curricular activities. Having served as the assistant instructor of art in a well-known St. Louis high school, Mr. Bell, now president of the group, is competent and well qualified.

The purpose of the club, which is a real cultural advancement in the life of the college, is to give students interested in art an opportunity to work in the media in which they are interested.

In the club, work is offered in oil paintings, sculpture, pastels, water color, and metal work.

A lecture series given by the instructor based largely upon his new book on modern art, Creative Art, has been one of the very interesting features of the organization.

The club in the past year has taken an active part in the life of the school by planning and decorating exhibits used by the college in field work. They have been of service in assisting in the art work connected with Jewell's various dramatic activities.

The group is very fortunate in having at their disposal a studio on the first floor of Marston Hall in which they can work and hold their informal meetings.

The Band

Lots of pep and enthusiasm is one of the primary elements necessary for the successful undertaking of any athletic or student endeavor of a college, and on the Band falls the lot of creating much of this school spirit. This year's musical organization did an unusually good job in bringing our pep to such a high frenzy that the Big Red Team backed by the cheering section couldn't be stopped. Not satisfied with playing at all the home football games, the Band followed the team to Rockhurst, Valley, Ottawa, and Baker. Also during the year the band was asked to furnish the music for several programs of civic organizations of Liberty. Several members of the band were selected to play in the orchestra for Elijah. Mr. David Grosch, one of the most prominent musical directors in Kansas City and head of the William Jewell Music Department, again led the Band to its new successes with the able assistance of Wiley Thorne and Gene Hollmann, student conductors, and Marvin Sands as Drum Major.

The Glee Clubs

The combined men's and women's glee club has completed what was probably the greatest year in the history of music at William Jewell.

The outstanding feature of the whole year was, of course, the presentation of Elijah by a cast of over one hundred people.

Three presentations of the oratorio were given. The first was given on the stage of Gano at the college in February. The reception given to this production was unusually enthusiastic. The staging of the musical dramatization was designed by Prof. David Grosch, and the scenery was constructed at the Resident Theatre in Kansas City. The colorful setting was enhanced by accurate costuming made as a project of the Parent Teacher's Association in Liberty. The combination of the stage properties and the dazzling costumes valued at approximately $500 made a thrilling spectacle.

Two performances were given Kansas City, Kansas, audiences later in the spring term. Given to an audience of 3500 school children in a special matinee performance, the production sponsored by the Council of Religious Education met enthusiastic approval. In the evening the large Memorial hall was almost filled again as the oratorio was presented to an adult audience.

The third performance was given in the Music Hall of Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium. The use of the Music Hall for a college presentation is unusual, and the William Jewell Singers were fortunate in being able to use it. Again Mendelssohn's work was very well received.

To Eugene Hollmann as the baritone soloist singing the title role and to Prof. Grosch whose direction and promotion of the Elijah made possible the renown which the college has gained in musical circles goes the real credit, for theirs was the hard and consistent work.

To the singing of Mignon and The Messiah in 1938 and to the presentation of Elijah the student body and college owe much. Dedicated to the advancement of the music department, the William Jewell Singers have and will continue to work.

Kappa Asma Sigma

Not to be outdone by other fraternal and Greek letter organizations on the campus of William Jewell College, the members of the kitchen force and waiters of New Ely Dormitory have banded themselves together under the banner of Kappa Asma Sigma. Founded some seven or eight years ago, as the result of a slight misunderstanding among three waiters, the group has prospered and is also chief of the Kappa Asma's. This year Billy Miller served in this capacity.

From a nucleus of the original seven members in 1931 the organization reached a new high this year when the membership totaled seventeen.

grown through the ensuing years under the able supervision of Miss Utz, dietician of New Ely, and Mrs. Stanley, kitchen supervisor.

Their purpose is to foster a spirit of good will in the kitchen and in the dining hall and to promote fraternal atmosphere so far as is possible among the associates of the club.

The meetings of the club which are held monthly deal with such matters as pertain to their duties, namely, the improvement of their service, discipline, and attitude of the members.

Colorado
Club

Prominent among the state organizations on the campus this year was the Colorado Club. Through their cooperation they hoped to promote friendship among the students from the various parts of the state and to encourage the enrollment of prospective students from their state. Carl Hunker was elected president of the group and Walter Jewell was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Members of the club are: Addison Sharp, Jack Earp, Walter Jewell, Dudley Thomasson, Carl Hunker, Edwin Elliott, Lyman Norris, Harvey Rusk, Bob Holland, Charles Newman, Thelma Thomasson, Hollis McBurney, and James Miller.

The newly organized Kentucky Club has for its members: David Bratcher, Pres., Martha Tabb, Sec., Dr. J. P. Fruit, Prof. Denton, Prof. Bruner, Mrs. C. J. Prince, Dorothy Holmes, Doris Harrison, and Bill Swanson.

The aims of the club are to increase the enrollment of Kentuckians in the college and to make Jewell better known throughout that state.

Back row—David Bratcher, Prof. Bruner, Mrs. Prince, Delmon Potts, and Prof. Denton.

Kappa Alpha

The Alpha Delta Chapter of the Kappa Alpha Order founded at Washington and Lee in 1865 has the unique distinction of being located farther north than any other K. A. Chapter. Its Southern Colonial House and its charming house mother, Mrs. Frank Winn, bespeak the traditional Southern hospitality which its members seek to exemplify.

At the beginning of school, 26 students were pledged. Several others were pledged during the year, and at the present time, the chapter has 35 actives and 13 pledges.

Kappa Alpha has done remarkably well in placing men on the athletic teams this year. In football, Capt. Vic Knight, Don Farris, and Jack Petty were regular players. Capt. Knight, leader of Jewell's championship team, was selected as a member of the "Little All-American Football Team." Farris and Petty were placed on the All-Conference Team. In basketball, D. Farris and F. Farris held regular starting berths. Don was captain of this team. K. A.'s in track were: D. Farris, hurdles; John, pole-vault; Shoemaker, distance; Vic Knight, javelin. K. A.'s won the cup for the third consecutive time in interfraternity basketball competition.

The versatility of Kappa Alpha men was evidenced by the achievements of other Alpha Delta members. Gene Hollmann sang the leading role in the production, Elijah, and was the Editor of the Taller 1939. Marvin Marks was selected as one of the associate editors of the Student. Vernon Knight was president of Beta Beta Beta, honorary biology fraternity, and president of the Senior Class. Knight's application for admission to Harvard Medical School has been accepted.

Socially, Kappa Alpha set the pace with four formal dances during the year: Homecoming Dance, Yuletide Dance, the Winter Formal, and a Spring Formal, supplemented by numerous radio parties and the Annual Mother's Day Tea.

Phi Gamma Delta

Founded at what is now Washington and Jefferson College at Canonsburg, Pa., on May 1, 1848, Phi Gamma Delta has joined in membership 32,000 men. On 73 foremost college and university campuses in the United States and Canada, Phi Gams are known by the friendly nickname, "Fijis."

Zeta Phi fraternity, the first to be established at William Jewell College, was installed here in 1871 and in 1886 became the local chapter of the National Fraternity of Phi Gamma Delta. With this advantage in having risen early to a dominant position on the campus, Zeta Phi chapter counts in its membership an imposing number of the prominent alumni of William Jewell, having today 7 members of the faculty and administration and 15 of the 48 Jewell men in Who's Who.

The local chapter is steeped in the traditions of the college. It has initiated 532 men in the 68 years of its existence. With the largest chapter in its history this year, Zeta Phi has again successfully instilled friendship and spirit in its men and marked a steady progress of activity in campus life.

Completion of the first annual touch football tournament last fall gave the Fijis a new cup, taken by finishing at the top of both intra-mural and inter-fraternity divisions. Phi Gam products in both the Homecoming Parade and in the Tatler Review brought second place, in both instances, however, surpassing all Greek competition.

This year a library and study hall has been added to the facilities of the chapter house for the convenience and aid of the members, and with this, in a very important step taken in the direction of scholarship, has been established a Study Supervisor and Tutor system, now working successfully but in a stage of trial in preparation for the coming year.

The new house mother is Mrs. W. M. Westbrook, wife of the late "Shady" Westbrook, '09, prominent Jewell alumnus.

Sigma Nu

The Beta Xi chapter of Sigma Nu fraternity, founded nationally in 1869, at Virginia Military Institute, was chartered here at William Jewell in the year 1894.

Unusual distinction has been bestowed upon the chapter this year by the selection of Maurice Winger and John Breckenridge, seniors, as America's International Debate Squad for the year 1939. Once again Sigma Nu has ranked high scholastically, and this year found Beta Xi the recipient of the regional scholastic cup for the Sigma Nu chapters in this surrounding area. The fraternity has ranked high on the scholarship ratings of the school, and Maurice Winger, debate captain, was Jewell's candidate for the Rhodes Scholarship this year.

Socially, the chapter has been very active. The annual hay-ride was given in the early fall, followed by a novel party, the "Esquire Party." The motif for this occasion was inspired by Esquire Magazine and the decorations bore out the theme. Several picnics, radio parties, a barn-dance and a barbecue served to round out the social activities of the year.

In the extra-curricular activities of the campus Sigma Nu has played a large as well as successful part. In the field of journalistic valor, the chapter has been well represented by H. Arnold Smith, business manager of the 1939 Tattler, and Kenneth Banes, who has served as make-up editor of the Student. Maurice Winger was president of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary forensics fraternity, and Kenneth Banes, vice-president. Banes was also president of Pi Gamma Mu and of International Relations Club of which Walter Jewell was secretary-treasurer.

Sigma Nu's members of the "J" Club are: George Clarke, cap't of the track team, George Brown, cap't of the tennis team, Bobby Moore, Harold Sheerer, Dick Quick, and Vernon Fletcher.

George Clarke, pres. of Sigma Pi Sigma, Kenneth Banes, and Maurice Winger were three of the five Aeons. The W. J. Players' pres. was H. Arnold Smith.

In campus politics the chapter has placed Joe Roberts as junior class president and Dick Quick as sophomore president.

Having completed a well-rounded year, Sigma Nu has been led by the following officers:

Zeta Chi

Zeta Chi, Jewell's own local fraternity, passed the quarter-century mark this year by celebrating the Silver Anniversary of its founding here at William Jewell College.

To the rolls of Zeta Chi this year have been added the names of students of outstanding ability and accomplishment. Members of this fraternity now represent a common bond of friendship, scholarship, social recreation, and spiritual life. Truly do they compose a homogeneous group which is representative of students of the "Hill."

The chapter led all of the social Greeks of the campus in scholarship rating during the school year, and as further claim to recognition Zeta Chi boasts five student assistantships, of which two are in chemistry, two in physics, and one in social science. Among its other accomplishments is numbered the remodeling and redecorating of the chapter house on Lightburne Street. Much credit for the accomplishments of the chapter was due to the interest of the alumni group and the faculty members. These groups allied to assist the chapter in all its undertakings of the year.

Zeta Chi also took part in the annual Tattler Revue, when they presented an interesting skit in the form of a newsreel entitled, "A Few Smooth Views of the News."

The majority of the Zeta Chi graduating seniors will enter graduate schools next fall. John Stewart has been accepted into the Medical School at the University of Missouri, where only a very small per cent of applicants are accepted as students in the graduate school. Kenneth Pierce, president of the chapter and student assistant in chemistry, will continue his work in the chemistry field.

Bill Craig, business manager of the Student this year, has received favorable comment and recommendation for his work in that capacity. Mention also should be made of the Linvill twins, who are also "twins" in regard to scholastic achievement, placing high on the honor roll each time, yet always with the same total in honor points.

The officers for 1938-39 were:

- President Kenneth Pierce
- Vice-Pres. Stockwell Sears
- Corr. Sec. William Linvill
- Rec. Sec. John Linvill
- Treasurer Floyd Carter
- Chaplain Wiley Thorne
- Sergeant-at-Arms Elmer Goss

The faculty members are:

Beta Sigma Omicron

Footlights, "Stardust" harmonies, political and scholastic laurels, and even wedding bells have figured in the list of the year's activities for Alpha Psi of Beta Sigma Omicron. Beta Sigs have appeared in the major dramatic and musical productions on the campus, and have represented William Jewell in women's oratory and extempore speaking.

In June of '38 Alpha Psi was hostess to the National Convention of Beta Sigma Omicron at Excelsior Springs. This is a distinction that a sorority ever hopes for but seldom realizes.

To Jane Lincoln, Beta Sigma pledge, goes the honor of being the first woman president of the freshman class. "Skippy" Pinkerton was Jewell's only woman to be represented in the 1938-39 Who's Who Among American College Students.

Appearing on the William Jewell stage were: Beebs Downing who played the role of Jessica in Merchant of Venice; Barbara Bogard who portrayed the part of Mrs. Midget and Dorothy Jane Collins as Mrs. Clivenden-Banks in the winter term production, Outward Bound. With George and Margaret, Claudine Ross and Ann Tripp came to the fore as Frankie and Alice respectively.

In honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Beta Sigma Omicron, Alpha Psi entertained with a glorious Golden Jubilee Dance. Later in the year the chapter went romantic with a sentimental Valentine dance, finishing the year with a farewell party. Alumnae living in Kansas City have entertained the chapter, and have attended the annual Homecoming luncheon and Founder's Day banquet.

The Beta Sigs have completed and enjoyed a very profitable year in which they ranked second place among the social Greeks on the Hill in scholastic standing.

TNT

Since 1922 the purple and lavender of TNT has been prominent on William Jewell campus. A local sorority, formed by a few of Jewell's women, TNT has expanded rapidly in membership and in fields of activity. In recognition of active sorority work TNT this year was invited as the only local sorority to be represented in the National Pan-Hellenic Council Regional Meeting in Columbia, Missouri.

Although generally considered to be a social organization, the sorority encourages academic achievement and extra-curricular activity. TNT representatives may be found in practically every organization on the Hill. From this group have come queens, leaders in campus affairs, and first women editors of publications.

This year Virginia McNabb was chosen as Tatler Revue Queen and Margaret Broadus as one of her attendants. The Tatler Carnival Queen was Doris Harrison. Dorothy Lowry was presented with the Homecoming Queen's crown at the annual Homecoming Day Football Game. At the Tatler Carnival the student body chose Madeline Parrott as the Most Popular Girl on the Jewell campus. It might be noted that all except one of these honorary selections have been made from the 1938 pledge chapter. Twenty-five girls have been pledged this year as a result of fall and mid-term rushing. TNT's social calendar follows an almost traditional outline, including a pledge dance, a winter formal, a St. Patrick's Dance, a spring formal, and a Mother's Day Luncheon, supplemented by chapter picnics and informal suppers. A new idea in social activities was the "vice versa" radio party initiated by T

N T. It met with great success and probably has a future among TNT traditions.

Any accomplishments of the chapter are due not only to its work but also to the active interest and cooperation of Mrs. John Davis, sponsor; the TNT Mothers' Club; and the alumni organization headed by Mrs. Sam Church of Liberty.

The Gift Everlasting...

The value of a liberal arts education is not measurable in dollars and cents. More is implied in the word 'Alma Mater' than is immediately evident; not only does one profit from four years of college life--classes, but also there is gained an asset of permanency: education for life--the gift everlasting.
