Being the Year Book of the Class of 1912

FOREWORD

WE COME AND WE GO.

For some Jewells four years of study and grind, of pleasure and profit, of class cutting and excuse making are gone. For the grinds we have commiseration, for the sports contempt.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," but "all loafing and no boning makes a paste Jewell." We commend the happy medium.

The class of 1912 entered upon the duties of Juniors possessing a victorious past and hopeful of a worthy future. Through many strange ways we have wandered in our search for the best material for the 1911 Tatler. At times our steps may have faltered and our weary hands hung down, yet be it said of us after all is o'er, "They did their best."

With fairness to all and malice toward none, we have sought to represent, it may not be seriously, yet we trust vividly, every activity and phase of life on the Old Hill. If there be one here and there who must kick,—why let him kick. It will do no harm and may do some good.

The student of today is the busy professional man of tomorrow. If in after years his heart grows lighter as the pages of this book recall his happy college days, one of its main purposes will have been accomplished. To friends everywhere, to students, faculty, and alumni, we send our greetings.

DEDICATION

IN 1903 there came to William Jewell to take up the financial burdens of the College, a man whose whole-hearted enthusiasm, keen perception and indomitable courage has been laid without reserve on the altar of this institution's growing greatness.

For the happy, he has an accompanying smile; for the down-hearted, a kindly word; for the needy, he makes a way; and for our Alma Mater, he ever speaks in prophetic strain. We would fain say more, but words are too feeble to express such strong regard.

And so, in token of our high esteem and love, we dedicate this volume of
The Tatler

TO

DR. JOHN ERNEST COOK

== A SUGGESTION ==

TO those present-day students who may, even after spending a couple of years in William Jewell, doubt the advisability of a further college training, and to those who are called in question as to the need of a college education, such as William Jewell affords, we would commend the following articles by well-known alumni. Loyal to their Alma Mater, they have taken from their crowded days and ripe experience time to help, it may be, some one perplexed and discouraged.

Our thanks and yours is due them.

The W. J. C. Man in the Business World

IT goes without saying that a good education does not always spell success in business life. One of Dickens' characters in "Little Dorrit" says: "You can't make head and brains out of a brass knob with nothing in it," and there is a homely proverb which says: "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear." These sayings have an obvious application—without native ability a college education will not insure success either in business or professional life. Given, however, this native endowment, it is my observation that the college man achieves the greater success.

It is fair to say, however, that all people do not agree with me on this proposition. Some go so far as to say that a college education unfits a man for business; they are for the most part uneducated people. They are much like the old fellows who, when I was a boy, said, "a gospel preacher didn't need no book-larnin'."

The men who decry a college education as of little use to a business man have not had the advantages of a college education themselves, and are not competent judges.

If I were asked to specify the advantages of a college education to a young man embarking in business, in other words, if I were asked for a bill of particulars, I would put first, that he has been taught how to think clearly and coherently, has acquired the ability to take certain premises and by careful and accurate processes of thought to arrive at conclusions that he knows are right and that he can safely rely upon. We call this planning a business enterprise. So many plans fail simply because all the premises have not been carefully considered and conclusions accurately thought out.

In the second place I would say that the general information and knowledge that a young man acquires in his college life is of more or less use to him in his business career.

This store of information he has acquired gives him a better understanding of the premises he is to deal with in planning his enterprises.

Jones, for instance, is a more successful banker for having in his college days studied the history and theory of money and exchange.

The College Man in the Diplomatic Service

IN September 27, 1910, the people of the United States were represented abroad by ten ambassadors and thirty ministers (a few posts being vacant at that time). Thirty-four of these forty had received a college education and six had not.

This statement in itself seems sufficient to show the value of college training for the diplomatic service. It is also quite probable that the percentage of college men in the diplomatic and consular service of the United States will tend to increase rather than decrease in the future.

In 1906 the consular service was reorganized, making it necessary for all who enter the service to pass a rigid examination in modern languages, international, maritime and commercial law, political and commercial geography, arithmetic, natural, commercial and industrial resources of the United States, political economy, American history, government and institutions and the modern history (since 1850) of Europe, South America and the Far East. It is evident that he who passes this examination must be proficient in a considerable part of a regular college course, whether he takes it inside a college or out.

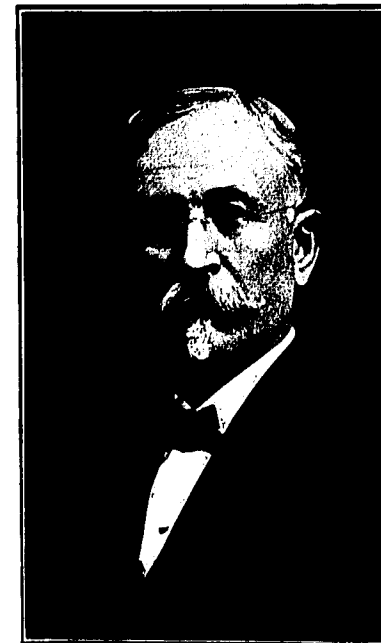

On November 26, 1909, it was also made necessary for those who enter the diplomatic service as secretaries of embassies or legations to pass practically the same examination. Hitherto the diplomatic service in its highest positions has been practically closed except to those possessing great wealth. An instance of this may be cited in the fact that our present ambassador to Great Britain receives a salary of $17,500 per annum and pays $45,000 per annum for his house rent. Believing, however, that this was undemocratic, and that the highest diplomatic posts should be filled by the men of greatest diplomatic power, whether possessing wealth or not, an association of business men has been trying for ten years to pass a bill providing for the purchase abroad of our embassies and consulates, and thus establish a standard of life for our foreign representatives.

Early in February of this year this bill passed the House of Representatives and it is believed that it will meet with no opposition in the Senate. Possibly by the time this appears in print this bill will have passed both houses and be another evidence of the fact that as a nation we are advancing toward that larger democracy where moral and intellectual power alone shall be considered supreme, and the lack of great wealth will not bar the man who is otherwise capable from representing his country among the great nations of the world.

The W. J. C. Man in Medicine

THE man of Medicine today, an education is absolutely necessary, if he makes anything more than an ordinary doctor of himself. Without a college education, but WITH common sense and shrewdness, a man MAY be a good doctor; but to really achieve anything beyond the mediocre, a previous educational training, preferably in a college or university, is an absolute necessity; except, perhaps, in a very few, rare cases; and those usually regret the lack of such training.

A college education fits a man for the hard training necessary to become a modern physician or surgeon. The science of medicine has grown so fast in the last quarter of a century, and is growing so fast now, that the man who has not had the necessary training both in college and in medicine, soon gets lost, unless he has an exceptional mind and natural ability, and a capacity for hard work; for without previous training, doubly hard work is necessary. Almost all that we now use in diagnosis of disease or its treatment or prevention, has been either discovered or worked out or perfected in the last quarter of a century; and by college or university men of the regular school of medicine. The other isms have added little or nothing to the advancement of the science or the good of humanity. The college or university men in medicine have discovered and worked out the laboratory methods of diagnosis and treatment of disease. They have discovered the germs or plasmodia that are responsible for disease, and have worked out or are working out the vaccines, antitoxines, or cures or preventatives of disease. They have discovered and worked out the laws of germ life, and their consequent diseases and how to quarantine and control them. Small pox, diphtheria, cerebro-spinal meningitis, and other dread scourges have been controlled and are no longer so dreaded. Tuberculosis is beginning to die out, cholera and the black plague are practically no more in highly civilized communities; leprosy is a curiosity; and the college man in regular medicine has done it, and he will keep on doing it until he brings the millenium, when there will be no sickness nor death for a thousand years, when there will be no more need of physicians, and the medical man will have worked himself out of a job.

The W. J. C. Man and the Christian Ministry

FOR the Christian ministry of tomorrow, a college education will be indispensable. Our fathers wrought nobly. We can hardly hope to excel them in fidelity, or, judged by opportunities, surpass them in achievement, but we live in an almost wholly different world. In our day, the inventions of science and the complexity of social and industrial relationships have created conditions which call for new methods. It will be the same blessed gospel of Christ, sufficient for all needs until the Kingdom of God is fully come, but it must be handled by men who know the thought of the world today as our fathers knew it in their day. He who prepares for the ministry now will enter into larger opportunities than have been afforded in any age since that of the apostles, but it will require the best possible preparation.

The Christian college gives the minister a broader vision, and this he must have. Foreign missions will be the commonplace doctrine of tomorrow, as natural a part of Christian teaching and living as the salvation of the individual soul is today. This is a day of world statesmanship. We are just now beginning seriously to regard the spiritual and moral conquest of the whole world as the task of Christian men. No man will do his most efficient service unless he knows the age in which he lives, and has sympathies as broad as humanity. A knowledge of the past also is essential for leadership in the present, for history repeats itself. Any other class of men can more readily do without college training than can the minister. A study of the lives of great preachers will reveal the fact that they drew upon the whole realm of truth for the enrichment of life and message.

The college helps a man find himself, gives him a laudable self-confidence so essential in the struggles of life, and helps him to know men. It sharpens for him all the weapons of his warfare. The message for tomorrow must be well wrought out. The minister is to be a leader of men, and in spite of the fact that we have a multitude of other agencies moulding thought, the whole world is waiting for men who can by their lives and teachings interpret God. The increased activity of laymen throughout Christendom will require able leaders. The greater the material progress of the world, and undreamed of wealth and scientific discovery will be the heritage of tomorrow, the deeper the hunger for God. The college develops character and equips men as no other agency can do, and is indispensable to the man who would most efficiently deal with religious truth. The world has difficult problems. No other age has been so busy as now, and it is becoming increasingly impatient of the work and message of inefficient men. There is more room at the top than ever, and at the top of every civilization until Christ comes, will be the Interpreter of the Cross.

The W. J. C. Man in the Teaching Profession

IT is not difficult for the teacher to point out the benefits derived from his college. He recognizes the fact that the training received there bears a direct relation to his life's work and he finds it an agreeable task to make his acknowledgment. He may spend much time in graduate schools, in special preparation, but the initial impulse must come from his college life, and whatever success he may achieve is due, to a considerable extent, to the preparation received in his college days. The colleges throughout the country have more than done their part in the equipment of teachers, and in this respect, as in many others, they are entitled to hearty praise.

Our own college has not been behind in this good work. On the contrary it may safely be said that William Jewell College, with a substantial and well arranged curriculum, habits of work, an able and conscientious faculty, and true personal and educational ideas has prepared and sent out her quota of teachers.

In any acknowledgment of indebtedness special mention must be made of the inspiration of saintly men who have labored to this end. Their devotion to the cause, coupled with the fortunate circumstances that in college their personal influence is brought to bear upon the individual student, goes far to explain the enthusiasm and success with which college men enter the profession of teaching. It also becomes evident that the college is prepared to do some things that great foundations can not always accomplish.

I am grateful for the delightful associations of my college days, for the memory of the men who administered the affairs of the institution in the late nineties, and for the excellent training in fundamentals that the college afforded me.

The W. J. C. Man in Law

THE editors of the Tatler for 1911 have asked me to write a brief article on William Jewell Men and the Law. They have furnished me no suggestions other than those which may be contained in the subject assigned me. I have consulted briefly the catalog of the graduates and old students of William Jewell which I had at hand, and have been surprised and even a little disappointed to find that the percentage of William Jewell men who are engaged in the law is not quite as large as I should like to have seen.

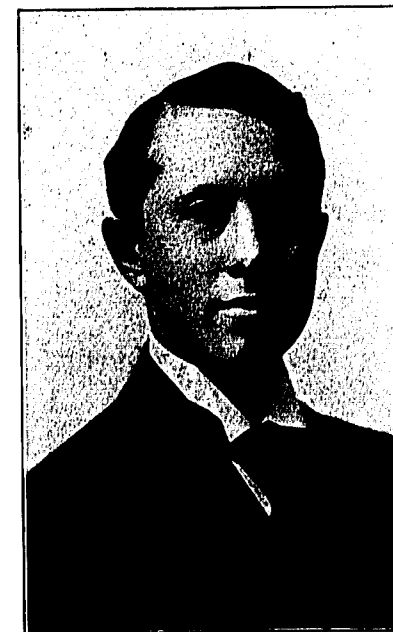

In the first place, the academic educational requirements for the study of the law have been greatly advanced in the last few years. The time was, within the memory of all, that the man who wished to become a lawyer usually read law in some practitioner's office and taught a country school at the same time. As soon as he was willing to undertake it, he asked to be examined for admission to practice. The examination was conducted orally by a committee of local lawyers, and if no objection was raised to the character or personality of the applicant he was always passed.

This condition has almost entirely changed. People have discovered that society must be protected against persons who seek to practice law without proper qualifications. Rigid written examinations are given in nearly all states by commissioners appointed pursuant to state laws. The examiners inquire not only as to the applicant's proficiency in law, but as to his academic education. This has rendered almost indispensable a course of study in some accredited law school. Very rarely does one see an applicant for the bar examination whose studies have been pursued in a law office. The most beneficial effect of this is that all accredited law schools are, from year to year, raising the educational requirements for admission to their schools. Some few of the best law schools in our country require a college degree; others require at least two years of college work, and nearly all of them require what amounts to a completed high school course.

It is obvious that the result of these changed conditions will be a vastly greater percentage of college men in the law, and if this is true generally, with the increasing influence of William Jewell, it ought to bring a great many more of her men into the law. Let us most earnestly hope that such may be the case. Our profession is in great need of men whose early training has been such as we believe William Jewell gives, and William Jewell men who have a growing desire to make their lives useful cannot find any field where they can realize more fully that ambition than in the practice of the law.

And finally, may I suggest that we would like to see more William Jewell men in the law, because we feel that no man should enter on the practice of our profession without an early training equal to a course at William Jewell. Practicing law is not a boy's occupation, for the lawyer, in modern practice, is required to unravel entanglements that highly intelligent business men come to feel that they are unable to cope with. A boy cannot successfully handle such matters. He ought to be mature in mind and training before he undertakes it; not only on account of his client, but for his own satisfaction and for greater possibilities. Any young man who, in his impatience to get into his profession, skips a part, or all, of his college course, is allowing his ambition to defeat the greater possibilities which it might realize. These are a few of the observations of one who has recently been through these experiences and is in a measure qualified to drop these suggestions.

Tige

Tige, a loyal son of William Jewell, passed his last dog-day, Wednesday, March 29, 1911.

He had been for eight years the chief exponent of amiability on the Old Hill. He had held the rare degree of G. F. (good fellow) ever since his puppy days.

He is gone, but never will he be forgotten.

Where he has gone may there be joy, for lo, a loyal Jewell hath passed beyond!

PURPLE AND CARDINAL

"Smiles"; Minister; Philomathian; Art Editor, Tatler, '10; Student Staff, '10-'11; Greene Poetry Medal, '09-'10; Senior Scholarship, '10-'11; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '09-'10; June Speaker; Pres., Joint Session, '10-'11; Pres., Senior Class; Instructor in English; Lieut.-Col., Ky. Club; Entered W. J. C., '08. Like others, Smith left his good "Old Kentuck" and came to William Jewell. He has the instincts of a country school teacher but says that Dr. Fruit encourages him to greater undertakings by always giving him 95 in English; perhaps he doesn't understand the Doctor's scheme of grading.

Senior Class, 1911

EDGAR C. BARTON
 LIBERTY, MO.

"Ed"; Minister; Philomathian; Economic Club; Entered W. J. C., '02. This is a poor beginning, for "Ed" has kept so consistently still that we know very little about him. It seems, however, that he is a studious sort of fellow, minds his own business, and expects everybody to do likewise. He does his work without making a fuss about it.

JOHN J. BELL
 NEWTONIA, MO.

"Jean"; Minister; Philomathian; "Bell of the Class"; Entered W. J. C., '05. "Jean" is a funny sort of human junk; he ought to have been a girl. His ability as an orator has been unquestioned since he orated to us about how Sampson slew thousands with a jawbone—breaking it off up close to the bone! You can get this oration for ten cents by calling at "Jean's" office.

ZECH FORD BOND
 LOUISVILLE, KY.

"Papa"; Minister; Excelsior; Student Staff, '10-'11; College Representative, Rochester, N. Y., Y. M. C. A. Convention, '10; Pres., O. S. B., '10-'11; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '08-'09; Pres., Excelsior, '10-'11; Lieut.-Col., Ky. Club; Economic Club; Senior Class Prophet; Entered W. J. C., '06. We have here one of the leading lights in Bondville society. He is counted a good conversationalist and is an honorary member of the Young Women's Conversational Club, U. S. A. It is not often that one finds a prodigy of this sort in a non-co-ed school; for this reason we are glad to have him with us.

Senior Class, 1911

MENTOR MORRIS BONEY
CAIRO, Mo.

Philomathian; Athletic Editor, Tatler, '10; Oratorical Committeeman, '11; June President, Philomathians; Pres., Dutch Club, '09-'10; Kan. Club; Economic Club; Entered W. J. C., '07. Several years ago the winds of Kansas set this enigma over on this side of the state line. Boney either makes or seconds every motion that is made in mass meeting. He is very intelligent(?) in appearing before the students in toto. His chief ambition is to make motions in the Senate some day.

JOS. E. BROWN, Σ N
KANSAS CITY, Mo.

"Trigger-heel"; Excelsior; Aeons; Inter-collegiate Debater, '09-'10, '10-'11; Adv. Mgr., Tatler, '10; Inter-society Debater, '10-'11; June President, Excelsiors; Entered W. J. C., '08. This is the most highly developed, narrow-gauge, brass-bottomed, asbestos-lined, sting-proof specimen of bigimus headimus ever grown in William Jewell College. He has been on exhibition three years, during which time his aversion for alarm clocks and breakfast has been spectacular. He accidentally swallowed, when a child, a safety pin and has been stuck-up ever since.

EUGENE DOPPLER, K Σ
WESTON, Mo.

"Dop"; Philomathian(?); Aeons; Lecture Assistant in Chemistry and Physics, '09-'10, '10-'11; Economic Club; Entered W. J. C., '07. "Dop" hails from the village of Weston, Mo. It seems that he's a sort of chemist. He contemplates working for a pill-maker in the future and we feel sure he has the ability for so doing. He has already done some such work in the "lab."

Senior Class, 1911

W. G. FRANKENBURGER
CIMARRON, N. M.

"Nameless"; Minister; Excelsior; Married; Colo. Club; Entered W. J. C., '09. "Nameless" came all the way from New Mexico to study Theology in William Jewell. We admire such spunk, don't you? He wears such a funny expression on his face, otherwise he might be good-looking. He seems to be made out of pretty good stuff and a great future for him is obvious.

CLYDE L. GIBBENS
WICHITA, KAN.

"Gib"; Minister; Philomathian; Pres., Philomathians, '10-'11; Relay Team; Track Team, '07-'08, '08-'09, '09-'10; Indoor Track Team, '09-'10; College Band, '08-'09; Emblem Club; Economic Club; Kan. Club; Entered W. J. C., '07. "Gib's" hobby is foot racing. If he has ever worn any other kind of collar, it must have been long before he came here. Maybe that's Wichita style, ask "Gib." He has such a remote feeling for the fair sex that during his college career he has never been seen with a girl.

JEREMIAH LOUIS GUTHRIE
LIBERTY, Mo.

"Big Enough"; Minister; Philomathian; Married; Junior Reading Medal, '06-'07; Sergeant-at-Arms, Senior Class; Assistant in Latin, '10-'11; Entered W. J. C., '06. Behold the Jumbo of 1911! Look at him any way you will—size, looks, or actions—and you will place him all by himself. He is a hard worker, doing it all for his own benefit; for he likes the Profs. no better than anyone else. He has a wit and humor of his own.

Senior Class, 1911

WALTER A. HENDERSON
LIBERTY, Mo.

"Andy"; Excelsior; Tatler Staff, '09-'10; Student Staff, '10-'11; Pres., Joint Session, '10-'11; Vice-Pres., Senior Class; College Band, '09-'10; Assistant in Mathematics; Entered W. J. C., '07. "Andy" is doubtless the meekest man in the class. He never imposes upon anybody, therefore he never answers a question until the Prof. points him out and then, as his mouth opens, his hands begin to fly around so recklessly that we wonder how he is connected up.

MALCOLM E. HERRING, Σ N
LIBERTY, Mo.

"Cherry"; Philomathian; Acons; Business Mgr., Student, '10-'11; Ely Medal, '06-'07; Clark Prose Medal, '09-'10; Senior Class Poet; Pres., Economic Club; Colo. Club; Entered W. J. C., '06. Malcolm has made a host of friends while in college. He is somewhat of a Literary "gun," writing his stories and saying "well done." Although he's not so pretty as some, they say he's taking pretty well with the fair sex of late. He is one of the best mixers in the college.

LAWRENCE ELMER JONES, Φ Γ Δ
CARTHAGE, Mo.

"L. E."; Excelsior; Acons; Inter-society Debate Medal, '09-'10; Inter-collegiate Debater, '09-'10; Pres., Excelsiors, '10-'11; Sons of Rest; entered W. J. C., '09. "L. E." hails from Jasper County. He says life could easily be made sublime, if one did not have to study all the time. But his troubles will be over as soon as he gets his "sheep skin," if nothing happens, since he intends to marry rich and take life easy. Although of Dutch descent, he says he doesn't drink beer.

Senior Class, 1911

ELMER KIRKPATRICK
LIBERTY, Mo.

"Kirk"; Minister; Philomathian; Student Staff, '09-'10; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '09-'10; Instructor in Math., '07-'08; Instructor in Latin, '08-'09, '09-'10, '10-'11; Foot-ball, '08-'09; Vice-Pres., Junior Class; June Speaker; Emblem Club; Entered W. J. C., '05. "Kirk" always sits on the front seat in his class, continually holding one hand up before the Prof. He is right or left at this. The habit of asking a Prof. a question and answering it all in one breath is "Kirk's" way of displaying his wisdom (?). He gets a haircut semi-annually.

WALTER COURTNEY LOWRIE
LIBERTY, Mo.

"Walt"; Minister; Philomathian; Senior Class Historian; Entered W. J. C., '05. We are stumped on what to say about this biped and having wasted too much time already, will pass on with just saying he is a member of long standing of the Married Men's Association and advises all young men to join it as soon as possible. His favorite diet is chicken.

FREDERICK L. MAJOR, Φ Γ Δ
WINDSOR, Mo.

"Lee"; Excelsior; Acons; Editor-in-chief, Tatler, '10; Student Staff, '10-'11; Instructor in Physics and Graphics, '10-'11; Vice-Pres., Excelsiors, '10-'11; Entered W. J. C., '06. "Lee" has started wonderfully in science. He can make anything from a copper wire to MgSO. His only weakness is partiality to the fair sex, but it is only brotherly, for we hear that his heart is still his own. He is a member of the Arkansas Club and one of its heartiest boosters.

Senior Class, 1911

CLIFTON JOHN MCGLOTHLAN
BERTHAND, COLO.

Minister; Philomathian; Track Team, '09-'10; Colo. Club; Entered W. J. C., '07. Here is the "funniest" mixture of bones and protoplasm in the college. There is a rumor that he was trafficked into Liberty in a "side-door" Pullman. But no matter, Mac has proven himself O. K., plays basket-ball, and, in spite of his structure, is a track man. We are glad to have this sack of bones with us.

ROY S. MILLER, K A
LIBERTY, MO.

Excelsior; Economic Club; Entered W. J. C., '08. Miller is an inhabitant of Liberty the year 'round, a good-natured chap, always wearing a pleasant smile. He never does anything to hurt anyone's feelings because he never does anything at all. But somehow he has made the course in three years. He is a small man but holds his own pretty well.

WILLIAM JEWELL MORRIS, K A SEDALIA, MO.

"Jew"; Entered W. J. C., '08. "Jew" has had a great task in living up to the standard of his name-sake, the builder of Jewell Hall. So far as we know, he has never built anything better than air castles. He started in with the bunch of '12 but decided later to move up a "knotch" to the bunch of '11. We missed his class dues (?) more than "Jew" himself.

Senior Class, 1911

S. I. MYERS
BUCKNER, MO.

"Steve"; Minister; Philomathian; Cir. Mgr., Tatler, '10; Co-operative Ass'n Board, '08-'09, '09-'10; Athletic Board '10-'11; Entered W. J. C., '08. "Steve" came a-buckin' in one sunny day from Buckner, Mo., and has been a-buckin' ever since. We all thought "Steve" would be the last fellow on earth to commit matrimony, but after all it's like the little boy said, "You can't always sometimes tell." He intends to eat chicken in the future.

MARK BANGS PADDOCK
KANSAS CITY, MO.

"Curl's"; Minister; Philomathian; Best All-around Gymnast, '06-'07; Winner Kirkland and Burch Trophy, '06-'07; Kansas City Club; Entered W. J. C., '08. If it wasn't for that mechanical look of Paddock's, one might call him "just an average sort of man," but, as it is, you can tell he is a preacher in the dark. He is a gymnast, so he says, and we feel confident that he could stand on his head on the flagpole and drink a pint of H<sub>2</sub>O.

FORD FRANKLIN PETTY
TARKIO, MO.

"Pet"; Philomathian; Vice-Pres., Joint Session, '10-'11; Dutch Club; Entered W. J. C., '10. "Pet" came to William Jewell a by-product of Tarkio in his Senior year. We don't know whether he'll ever amount to anything or not. His short sojourn on the "Old Hill" is welcome. He says marriage is a question with him, but alas! who can tell?

Senior Class, 1911

DAVID FRANKLIN RISK
LIBERTY, Mo.

"Dave"; Minister; Philomathian; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '07-'08; Debate Council and Committeeman, '09-'10; Entered W. J. C., '06. "Dave" started with the class of '10, but decided later to join the bunch of '11. He has a very quiet disposition, never says much unless you start him, and then—di immortalis—how the conglomerated sound waves are made to vibrate! He puts in his best licks and worries little if things don't go just right.

JULIAN CLAY RISK, Φ Γ Δ
LIBERTY, Mo.

"Jule"; Philomathian; Pres., Philomathians, '10-'11; Inter-society Debater, '09-'10; Inter-collegiate Debater, '10-'11; Representative, O. S. B., '09-'10; Mgr., Co-op, '09-'10; Entered W. J. C., '08. "Jule" is Liberty's own "product." His greatest efforts have been in the Y. M. C. A. Now, gentle reader, notice that word efforts. His singers "sing like Paderewski" and his jubilee entertainers "need no praise," to put it in his own words. On the whole "Jule" has done good work, so don't be discouraged.

LEVI JOSEPH SNOW
WILLOW SPRINGS, Mo.

Minister; Philomathian; Tatler Literary Editor, '10; Student Staff, '10-'11; Prose and Poetry Prizes, Tatler, '10; Inter-collegiate Debater, '09-'10; O. S. B. Representative, '10-'11; Co-op Representative, '10-'11; Ely Spelling Medal; Pres., Philomathians; Entered W. J. C., '05; "Levi" hails from Willow Springs down in the Ozarks. He has a great hankering after story writing, wasting many sheets of paper and pencils in such work. The only objection we have to this "Snow" is that it stays with us hot or cold. His views on matrimony are ridiculous for a man of his age.

Senior Class, 1911

OLIVER SHANK
ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Minister; Philomathian; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '09-'10; Hammer Throw Record; Track Team, '09-'10; Economic Club; Emblem Club; Entered W. J. C., '06. Shank! O the hardness of some men! Would you blame the boys for laughing when "O." wanted the first letter of the Senior Class to be used as its athletic emblem? Of course not. For Shank so seldom thinks what he is saying that mistakes are likely to occur at any time. Don't take life so solemn, mon enfant!

JAMES PENDLETON SMITH
BUTLER, Mo.

"Jimmy Pendulum"; Philomathian; Qualified as Rhodes Scholar; Pres., Philomathians; Dutch Club; Entered W. J. C., '07. "Jimmy Pendulum" is really (?) a style of beauty. He wanted to go across the Atlantic, took the Rhodes examination and passed but fata abstulerunt and he failed to get the appointment.

CHESTER J. UNDERHILL, Σ Ν
MELROSE HIGHLANDS, MASS.

"Ches."; Minister; Excelsior; Inter-society Debater, '08-'09; Foot-ball, '08-'09; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, '08-'09; St. Louis Club; Entered W. J. C., '06. "Ches." hails from "neah Bosting," to use his own words. He never took much stock in reading until his Junior year. Since then he has taken Library as his major. He has a fine disposition and a "big" heart and his greatest ambition is to build public libraries. In this we wish him great success.

Senior Class, 1911

HENRY WEBER
St. Louis, Mo.

"Dutch"; Excelsior; Business Mgr., Tatler, '10; Junior Society Debate Medal; Foot-ball Team, '08-'09; Pres., Sophomore Class; Dutch Club; Sons of Rest; Entered W. J. C., '06. He came, he saw, he flunked, but managed to get through with a lot of exercise of his jaw-muscles. Week in, week out, you hear his bellows blow, and one wonders why he doesn't use a vacuum cleaner to draw off the "Bull" which has accumulated in his cranium.

C. H. WHITE, Σ N
FREDERICKTOWN, Mo.

"Runt"; Excelsior; Acons; Associate Editor, Tatler, '10; Student Staff, '09-'10; Editor-in-Chief, Student, '10-'11; Debate Council and Committeeman, '09-'10; Inter-collegiate Debater, '10-'11; Pres., Excelsiors, '10-'11; June Speaker; Sons of Rest; Entered W. J. C., '07. "Runt" hails from Fredericktown, Mo., and has made many friends. He says he is a poet genius. One of his marked qualities is trying to make Prof. Richmond think he knows a thing or two about Geology. He is a faithful admirer of the fair sex and believes in ancient customs.

ROYAL LEICESTER WILLIAMS
LIBERTY, Mo.

"Father"; Minister; Excelsior; Married; Entered W. J. C., '09. Here we have reached the "cow's tail" at last. His name is Williams and when that is said all is said. We should not have known so much as that about him if he had not filled out two honor blanks at different times to let us know. He is married and believes in increasing the population of this great nation.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

AN APPEAL

TO the old time student returning to the Old Hill, his mind filled with happy recollections of past forensic glory in the memorable Friday night programs of Phil. or Ex. and to the present day student interested in literary affairs, there is something pathetic and dangerously prophetic in the failure to keep up the interest in Society work. Lectures, basket-ball games, anything, it would seem, has been allowed to come in and fill the Friday night programs, and Society must be postponed. True, W. J. C. men, trained in either Ex. or Phil. experience have carried off all the honors possible in Inter-Collegiate contests, but it is not for the FEW that these societies were founded, it was that ALL W. J. C.

men might gain the mastery of delivery and speech so needful to a forceful expression.

Are there not those who would welcome a return to the old time supremacy of the Literary Society spirit in William Jewell College?

Is it not a plain fact that the tendency is to pass up the work of a LOYAL Phil. or Ex. for other things?

Is it not true that politics creep in and destroy the efficiency of the work, left unguarded by the few remaining adherents to an apparently lost cause?

These are pertinent questions deduced from pertinent conditions.

You, student of the present day, must have noticed this.

What are you going to do about it?

THE Y. M. C. A. holds a most prominent and important place in the student life of the college. The past year has been a successful one from every standpoint. The out-going administration has been faithful in the directing of its responsibilities, and leaves the Association in excellent condition. A special fund has been raised which will make it possible for several men to attend the Student Conference at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, this summer. The new Cabinet takes up the work confident that the next year will be a signally progressive and prosperous one.

The Athletic Board

DR. H. G. PARKER, Chairman

THE Athletic Board is the Executive Board of the Athletic Association and is composed of two members chosen from the faculty and three members chosen from the student body.

It is the duty of this Board to plan and arrange all college athletics, securing coach, contracting for games, etc.

The standard of athletics under the leadership of Coach Campbell shows a marked progress in every line in the past year and from all indications next year will be a record breaker.

Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot"
In days of college life?
Should all the memoirs be unwrit
Of all our work and strife?

For you, my dears, we've sung the song
Of days in college life;
For you, my dears, we've writ the tales
Of all our work and strife.

Then read them as your own free will
Enjoys the irksome mirth;
Then read the tidings of the "Hill"
And take them at their worth.

Dr. — .

PROFESSOR FRUIT, in Sophomore Philosophy (Anglo-Saxon in the Catalog):

"Let us take the sentence, 'In the beginning the world was shaped.' You will see how fundamental ideas are expressed in a simple manner. The etymological history of the word 'shape' in the philological significance of its evolution has been gradually metamorphosed into its present confabulatory relationship. (Goes to the board.) It is entirely a question of cosmogony. (Groans from the back of the room.)

"That brings up an important question in philosophy. (Goes back to desk.) We learn in Freshman English that there are final, immediate, emotional value-attitudes. (Tilting back against the wall.) Classification of values conduces to dynamic idealizing of purposive tendencies, and are psychically related to the complex cross-valuations in the consummation of the ego, de facto, more or less, and the hobbembobbemtouchem of the solar spectrum. (Profound snores from all parts of the room.)

"Now, if you fellows will wake up, we will go on with the next sentence."

Prof. — .

October 29, 1910

When Jewell's men go off to war
On foot-ball fields galore,
And take along six score of men
And then don't make a score,
Nor yet allow old Tarkio
To make one item more;
You'd better watch the home field
To find things on the boom.
If not Professor Tukey,
Perhaps Professor Coon.
For now we know that little coons,
As well as little troubles,
Will sometimes come to see a man
By singles, yea, by doubles.

Selection From Chaucer

"Now February, with its showers swoote, Forth from ye closet brings ye rubber-boote."

PROFESSOR EDWARDS, explaining to class in Etymology:

"Buss—An old English word meaning 'to kiss.' From it we have the following derivatives:

"Syllabus—A kiss divided into sections.

"Rebuss—A kiss that puzzles you.

"Incubuss—To dream of kissing the wrong girl.

"Blunderbuss—to be caught kissing her.

"Pluribuss—Many kisses in one evening.

"Omnibuss—To kiss everybody."

The Proposal

She hastily arose to her feet, and then for a perceptible moment they gazed at each other in seeming hesitation.

He was tall and possessed of a form Apollo-like in its sturdy proportions; she, her willowy figure clad in a simple clinging gown of dark shimmering stuff, trimmed at the throat and wrists in spotless white, was as a daughter of Venus.

Fearlessly she allowed him to gaze into the limpid depths of her wonderful blue eyes. Many a woman, under that searching scrutiny, would have been surcharged with blushes, but not Andelina Waters.

Never! She would never allow him to guess her secret, he must not know, tho' she fain would have told him all.

At last the suspense grew painful. He could bear it no longer! Stilling the wild fluttering of his courageous heart, he resolved to make the proposal now or never! No matter what her answer, he would pay the price, he must know his fate! Impulsively, he thrust forward his hand and hoarsely exclaimed, "Please manicure my fingers!"

She took his proffered hand and, seating herself, acquiesced.

The Student's Beatitudes

Blessed is he who heedeth not his instructions; for then shall his mind be not burdened.

Blessed are they who lack text-books; for theirs is a way of more money.

Blessed is he who sleepeth late in the morning, who misseth chapel, and who cutteth his forenoon classes; for he is a joy to his—roommate.

Blessed is he who stalleth, who grafteth, who bluffeth, who dependeth much on his note book; for he shall pass, if he looketh straight ahead—but seeth sidewise.

Blessed is he who can appreciate stale jokes; for he who laugheth much (in Geology) shall not flunk.

Blessed is he who spendeth his money freely, who stayeth up late with his pals; for he shall be called a "good fellow."

Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? Who hath frailness of body and redness of eyes? Who hideth himself away and "broodeth" on things without interest? Who worketh by "sheer force of will?" Verily, he who tarrieth long o'er his text-books, whom the fellows call "Grind," who hath long hair.

OUR PRESIDENT

ON yonder hill where once wild flowers grew,
And still where lofty trees the place improve,
There, where the home is graced by God's own hand,
Our belov'd president's modest mansion stands.

A friend he is—to all the students—dear,
And growing more like God with every year.
By love, his heart is made to glow,
And blessings on every friend he doth bestow.

To every one his heart and love is given,
But all his serious thoughts are found in heaven.
Truth from his lips, shines like the morning sun;
He prays: "Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done."

Before and After Taking

"Exams are a farce," said a Freshie,
When the end of the term came 'round,
"I'll pass with a grade
That shall be the best made
In this college of world-wide renown."

"That Chemistry! one is a donkey
Who flunks in the confounded dope,
That Trig is a snap,
And Doc Fleet's off the map
If he thinks that for Me there's no hope."

"Doc Fruit and his Dear Freshie English
Ain't in it, and never shall be.
I'll bet that my grade
Will be the best made
In Physics and Biology."

"That Dutch is a cinch, and I'm bettin'
My eternal hope in the skies,
That in Greek I'll pass
At the head of the class.
It's my joy to knock out a Prof.'s eyes."

But now, since exams are over,
This Freshie is barely alive.
In Trig it was 10,
And I think it's a sin,
For in English he made 35.

In Physics, he made only 30,
In Biology, 33;
Just 50 in Dutch,
In Greek half that much,
And 23 in Chemistry.

De Freshieman

Freshieman, he comes to school,
To learn a thing or so;
How everything is done by rule,
And how dey make dem go.
Des git fairly stahted, when
He think he know it all;
Jes' strettin' 'round wif a grin,
And a liver full of gall.

It sho' takes lot o' 'sperience,
Foh to learn de facts:
Dat he's still in de clearance,
Jes' fillin' up de cracks.
But when de Doc, wif Freshie Eng'sh,
'Gins ter fill his "cup,"
Foh long, 'tis true, he sho' do think'st
He know no moh dan ufs.

Trig is "Dutch" Weber's favorite study.

Lucky Tige, How I Envy Him!

(With Apologies to Mr. Kipling) dog), Tiger was his name,

Be it early or late (alone or in state), he followed
Fortune's whim;
Tho' it took him to town (a foot-ball game,

But beast tho' he be (Dame
Fortune smiled)—Lucky
Tige, how I envy him!

He wagged his tail (a crooked old tail), and gaily stumped along,
Content with Time (he knew no crime), tho' his eyes
with age were dim;
He found the place (a bully old place), where I have tried to rest so long,
They spake him "Aye" (and other soft words)—Oh,
Lucky Tige, how I envy him!

They tweaked his ear (a bully good stunt), and called him
"a nice old boy,"
"A dear old thing" ('twas not all they said), "Oh, look at his crooked limb."

He closed his eyes (a bully good plan) and laid him down
with joy,
Down at their feet (what an unparalleled feat)—
Lucky Tige, how I envy him!

When I shall visit this earth (a bully old earth) a second time, I hope
I'll have some sense (some common sense), and sure as my name is Jim,
I'll spare no time (nor no expense) to hand her out the compelling dope,
We will spin away (oh, gladsome day)—and Tige?
I won't need to envy him!

In the Realm of Professorship

There is life without a trouble,
There is ease without a care,
There is dignity without mercy,
There is wisdom without a fault.
There is more "preach" than practice.

Coon Song

Heigh diddle, diddle,
The cat and the fiddle,
Come hark to my "professional" tune.
I'm a man, that is true,
(I have witnesses two)
But I'm glad it wasn't Coon, Coon, Coon!

De Smallae Poccis Derivitionibus

Small-pox is derived etymologically from Anglo-Saxon "small pace." Physiologically, it is derived from someone who already has it. Physicians derive much money from it, and their patients derive much trouble. When someone in Liberty gets the disease, Dr. Cook derives much worry and alarm, and the boys derive much merriment from his warnings and threats. Finally he d-rives them to be vaccinated, and then it is his turn to derive fun at their expense. They are vaccinated with vaccine derived from a cow. From this they are supposed to derive immunity from the small-pox, but, in reality, they derive sore arms and, mayhaps, many small pimples on the back. Then Dr. Cook happens around, and, when he sees the aforesaid pimples, he derives a panic from them and quarantines their owner. They derive much anger and disgust from this and say many words not derived from Sunday-school books. Then an M. D. comes and declares that the aforesaid pimples were derived from vaccination, and were not derived from small-pox as the above-mentioned D. D. had thought. We all derive relief from this and go on in peace, till, in the fullness of time, History shall repeat herself.

"Nix."

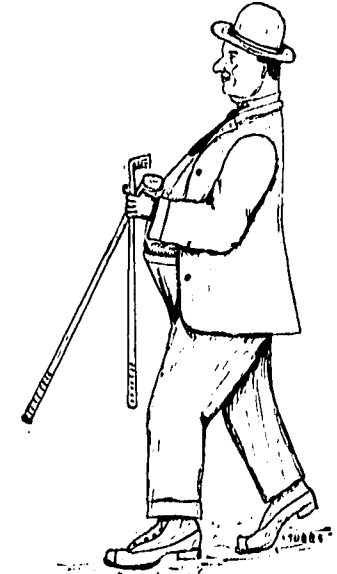

In Hess' vocabulary, there is no such word as "pass."

Pressing Business

'Twas two o'clock; the light was dim;
Jim hugged Ann and Ann hugged Jim;
Just then upstairs they heard her dad,
Who seemed to be a little mad.

"Hey, young man, it's time to go,
You can't talk there all night, you know."
"I can't go yet, old man," Jim said,
"I've pressing business here instead."

Thumpety, bumpety, pit-a-pat;
Cried Ann, "He's coming, where's your hat?"
Said Jim, "I guess I'd better go,
I've pressing business elsewhere now."

Dr. —.

Some Blessed Day

When there's never an eye to be troubled,
 With the trouble that makes us so ill,
 When old-fashioned things are new-thoughted,
 There'll be no Latin on the Hill;
 When Cæsar has long been forgotten,
 Who had worked such wonderful games,
 When Cicero, our minds has departed,
 Now, honest, won't studying be tame?

When no one objects to advices,
 From our friends and neighbors so fair,
 When we learn all kinds of devices
 For putting new studies in there,
 When we see such felicity dawning,
 What a blessed old day it will be!
 But really—a thought sets me yawning,
 De Latino Præceptore.

An Enigma

Before the class he always stands,
 Holding a pencil in his hands;
 Just fingering.

His note book on the table lies,
 Its contents to the class supplies;
 Not lingering.

The kinds of birds and trees are told,
 Of rocks, of crabs, of bugs, and gold,
 A treasure.

His voice is gentle, low, and meek,
 His hair and mustache doth he sleek
 With pleasure.

His lectures read with ease and care,
 The soothing sound dispels despair,
 Like honey.

And to arouse the drowsy folk
 He oft repeats an ancient joke,
 Not funny.

Meditations of the Flunker

Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
 The saddest are these: "It might have been."

Jewell Polisher

Come, dear reader,
 and soar with me on the motorless aeroplane a way back down the avenues of Time.

From this ancient realm of height, look down far below us and see those rough beings going in and out of the doors of life, merely existing. But behold! there goes one among them who hath a radiant glow
 about him, preaching and talking in an earnest manner.
 Listen! he is telling them they need a Jewell Polisher, and note how sincere they are. "We must have a Jewell Polisher," he says, and see! they are deciding.

They know it is a great undertaking, and, leaving it to the man with a radiant glow, the task is accomplished.

Now, let's soar along back up the steep ascent of
 Time and see the wonderful machine working.

There are the rough Jewells like we saw way back yonder, going in. Look at them! The rough, long-horn
Jewell from the plains of the Wild West; the treasured darling Jewell of mother; the spoiled Jewell from the streets; Jewells from Arkansas, and those found in the plow fields and woods of Old Missouri.

Let's soar on. It's amusing to note the variety, but we must not tarry too long. We'll go to the other end and see.

Why shade your eyes here? Do the radiant Jewells blind them? Amazing! amazing! isn't it? What hath God wrought! It is bringing forth radiant Jewells of many kinds: Ministers from the wild Western cowboys; halfbacks from mothers' darlings; mathematicians from Arkansas (Henderson); leaders of men from the spoiled street Jewells; historians, French speakers, inventors, grafters (White), scientists, husbands (Myers), eaters
 (Jones), ladies' men, raw-raw boys (Kirkpatrick), bulls (Weber), writers, statesmen—all polished Jewells that were once "Jewells in Rough."

As you have soared so joyfully with me, dear reader, on this trip, let's soar to the moon.

The Professor's Psalm

Blessed is the man who walketh not with the Cutters of Classes, nor standeth in the line of the Bluffers, nor sitteth in the seat of the Flunkers. But his delight is in a search after knowledge and on his books doth he meditate day and night: And he shall be like my own perfect pupil who bringeth his texts to his classes, who sitteth close to the rostrum and, in every exam, is he prosperous.
 For we know the way of the Studious, but the way of the Staller shall perish.

(Extract from a letter to Jones, of Park, from Careless Gotley, of W. J. C.)

And, by the way, before I pass it by and fail to give it the rosette finish it deserves, allow me to digress for a moment and add my complaint to the general tale of woe against you coyotes over there. Why don't you get a toe-hold on Laura Lean Tibby or Willa Ella Wheelcox, and set 'em on a 'chair of good manners and courteous treatment,' and, then, cutting all other classes, spend the fall term learning how to take your own medicine?

Honestly, guy, most of you act like you had the pip!

Oh, I haven't much complaint, the supper I ate at that parody on a hotel made my vest button tin-tin-tabulate against my backbone till I lost it (supper!), and, as a result, I never saw much to kick about.

[ 152 ]

Of course, there was the little ovation so characteristically rendered by your brave mud slingers to President Purr, of Eastminster, and the other souvenirs for us (I refer, of course, to the snowballs, corncobs and dirty dishwater that met us with more force than courtesy).

What's the matter with you Presbyterians, anyway?

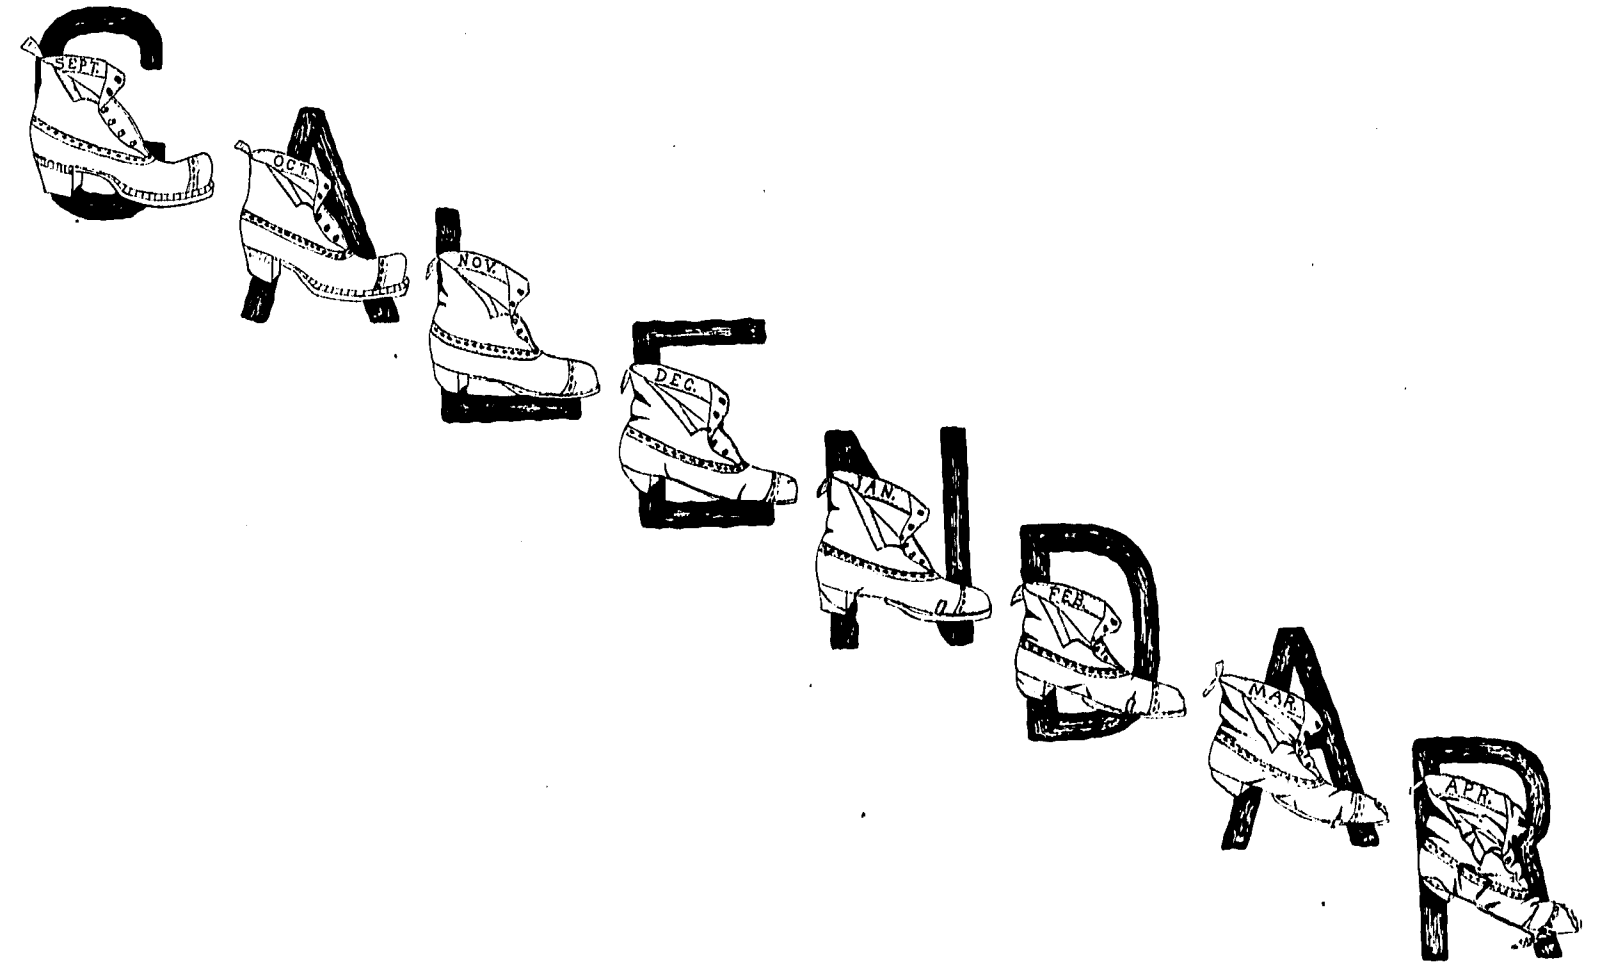

Don't you know it was fore-ordained that no liar should sit in the way of the honest? And no preacher should compete with the orators?

I sincerely hope you enjoyed the hats you filched, though most probably they were far too large for you. Next time you need old clothes ask for them, even the negro does that in Liberty

Glad you are going to come to W. J. C. next fall. It shows "discrimination," as Doc Fruit says.

Auf Wiedersehn,

CARELESS.

FIRST: For a quarter of a century William Jewell has had a better faculty and has offered better courses of study than most other colleges.

SECOND: William Jewell has given her students more personal attention and has looked after their characters and moral life better than most other colleges.

THIRD: William Jewell has put a stronger and safer emphasis on the physical training of her men than most other colleges.

FOURTH: William Jewell has given her students more benefits for less money than is charged by most other colleges; and this the college has been able to do on account of the large and growing endowment.

FIFTH: William Jewell men have uniformly attained the front rank in all the callings they have entered. This is true partly from the fact that William Jewell men the world over stand together and "leg" for one another.

The Pre-eminence of Jesus Christ

"Seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses."

I have just finished reading your book, "The Pre-eminence of Jesus Christ." I have not read a book for a quarter of a century that has so thrilled me as this book of yours has. I read it till midnight, the only book, except the Bible, I ever read till midnight.—G. J. BURCHETT, D.D., Philadelphia, Pa.

I have read your book—my wife read it. I read it with a constantly increasing, till it swelled to a "mighty joy." I think your book all right. I thank God for your book; you have risen above and gone beyond my highest expectations; do another of the same sort.—SAM FRANK TAYLOR, D.D., Joplin, Mo.

I have read your book with great interest and profit. It is a great book, more beautiful and valuable than rubies. For it: My soul doth magnify the Lord, and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Savior. * * *—ELDER S. Y. PITTS, Salisbury, Mo.

I purchased a copy of your book,—almost the first,—"The Pre-eminence of Jesus Christ." It seems to me that much of it should be incorporated into the theological text-books of Christian colleges and seminaries. Each chapter is worth the price of the book.—W. F. NORTON, President of The Citizens Bank, Liberty, Mo.

I have read, with great interest, your book entitled "The Pre-eminence of Jesus Christ." The book is devout in spirit and sound in doctrine. I do not see how any child of God can read it and not find himself praising God for His Unspeakable Gift, and Jesus Christ for His great work of redemption.—C. M. WILLIAMS, former President L. L. College, Liberty, Mo.

One of the most inspiring and uplifting books to come from the press in many a day is the work of Dr. W. A. Crouch, entitled: "The Pre-eminence of Jesus Christ." The world needs the message contained in Dr. Crouch's book. He shows the superiority of the Founder of our religion in his definite and concrete discussions. Christianity appears to the reader, as he completes the volume, as a virile and authoritative religion. His book is a real constructive contribution to this important field of inquiry.—ELMER C. GRIFFITH, Professor of History and Political Science, William Jewell College.

The language is fresh, striking and racy; you feel the heart-throbs of the author in every line. The first impression one receives from reading the book is that of a refreshing contrast between this book and much of the theological literature of the day. Brother Crouch is intensely loyal to every word of Revelation. The style? Well, the style is the writer you know. There are no obscure platitudes, and the ruggedness is as the ruggedness of the Rockies, or of the sea in a storm. There are jagged Matterhorns, and the sunrise from the summit is as a realized dream of glory. * * * If you are weary with the monotonous drudgery of the dead-level in literature this book will be to you an Alpine tour and tonic. Every thinking layman and every preacher ought to read "The Pre-eminence of Jesus Christ."—Extracts from a review in The Central Baptist, by D. J. Evans, Professor of English Old Testament, William Jewell College.

I take pleasure in writing you a line to state the pleasure I have found in the book you gave me on "The Pre-eminence of Jesus Christ." It is refreshing to come upon the thought of one who, in such a variety of ways, is assured doctrinally and experimentally that Jesus is beyond question the Son of God, and the complete manifestation of God. Your thought is steeped in the thought of the divine oracles, nor can I see how anyone who has really studied those oracles can come to any other conclusion than the one you have reached. Your autobiographical sketch has deeply interested me.—HENRY C. MABIE, D.D., author of "In Brightest Asia," "Method in Soul Winning," "The Meaning and Message of the Cross," "How Does the Death of Christ Save Us?" "The Divine Right of Missions."

I have read your book with great interest and profit. I rejoice to see the coronation which you have given our Lord. I hope the book will have a wide circulation, for its reading will certainly do good in the interest of truth, and for the furtherance of the gospel.—J. M. FROST, D.D., Corresponding Secretary Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn.

I have read your book carefully, slowly and with much thought. To me it is sui generis—not like any book I ever read. You tell me of things I have thought about all my life, but never had the genius to formulate into words. You discuss profound truths in a most searching and analytical manner, and voice them in language both striking and manifest. For profundity of thought and depth of faith it has no equal.—MRS. FLORENCE FERGUSON, Author of "The Family of The Herods," Boonville, Mo.

This is a remarkable book. The charm is in the grip it gets on you from the discussion side. The logic of the book is the logic of aesthetics. To explain: Beauty is its own excuse for being; consequently a piece of art has all the reasons for its existence within itself. The consistency of the thing with itself in all its parts and properties is the secret of its beauty. The author is, by logic, a poet. Would you feel the pulse of the man, read his autobiography—read that first—then the sermons by Rev. William Thompson; then you are ready for the riches of the book. Finally, take the measure of the author in pondering his meditation entitled, "God."—JOHN PHELPS FRUIT, Professor of English Language and Literature, William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo.

LIBERTY LADIES' COLLEGE

On Prospect Heights

Chartered by the State of Missouri Twentieth Year Unprecedented Growth and Prosperity

THE LOCATION is most favorable to all the country tributary to Kansas City. Liberty is only fifteen miles from the city, with four morning and evening trains each way, and one afternoon train to the city. This affords parents having business in the city an opportunity to visit their daughters at little expense and little loss of time; also affords pupils an opportunity to hear celebrated artists.

THE HEALTH of the school has been excellent. There has never been a case of typhoid or of any of the fevers. Doctor bills will not average twenty-five dollars a year for the entire school.

THE DISCIPLINE is good. We look constantly and carefully after the welfare of those committed to our care.

THE WORK in LITERARY, MUSIC, ART, ELOCUTION and BUSINESS COURSE, is equal to that of the best girls' school. Our music teachers are all CONSERVATORY GRADUATES. We employ only the best.
