The Dedication

To Robert Ryland Fleet, a scholar of superior learning, an educator of proved ability, a man of incorruptible integrity; to this true son of William Jewell College, the personification of its traditions in character, culture, and intellect, this — the Doniphan Number of the Galler, is dedicated in affection and high esteem by the students of the college in nineteen hundred and twenty-seven.

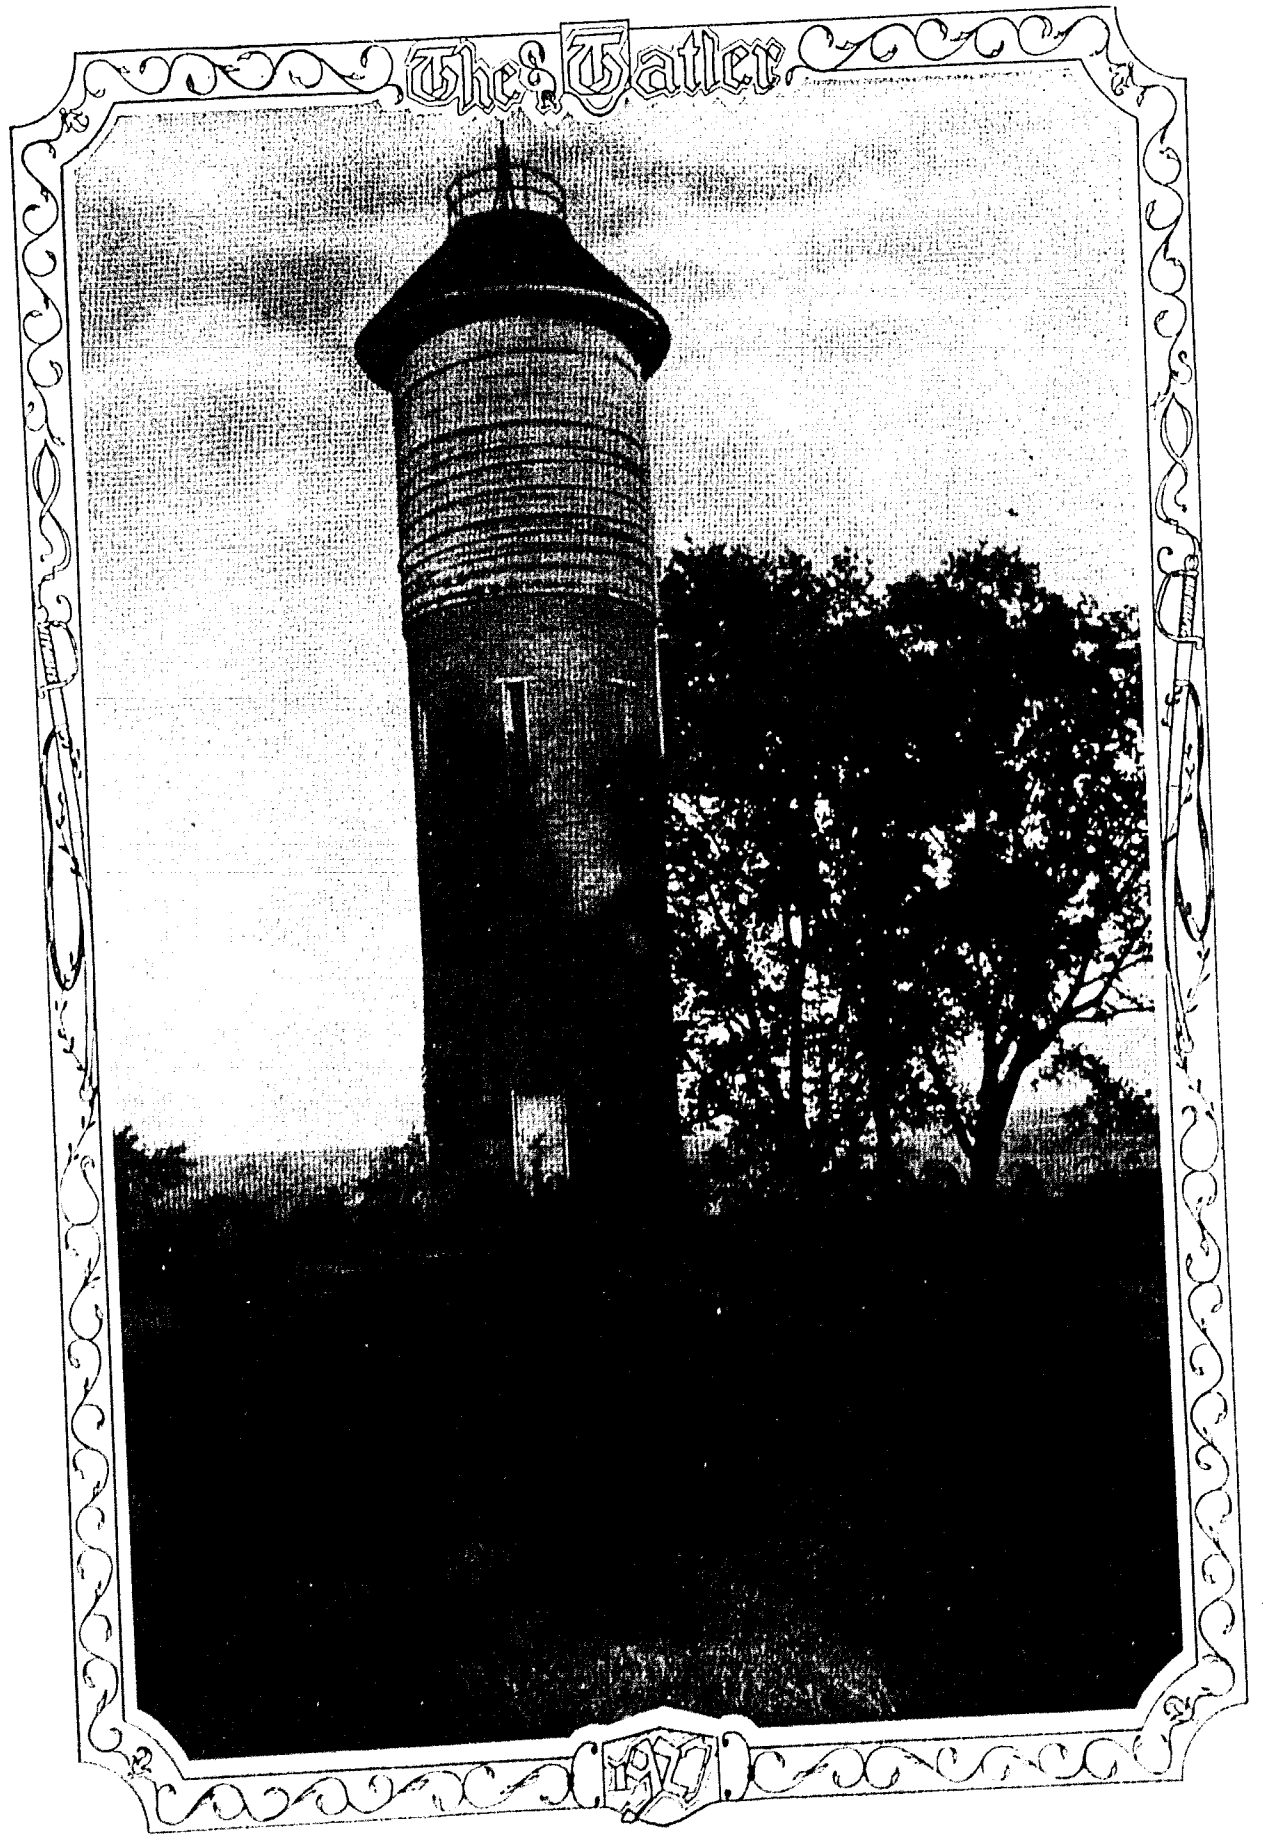

The Foreword

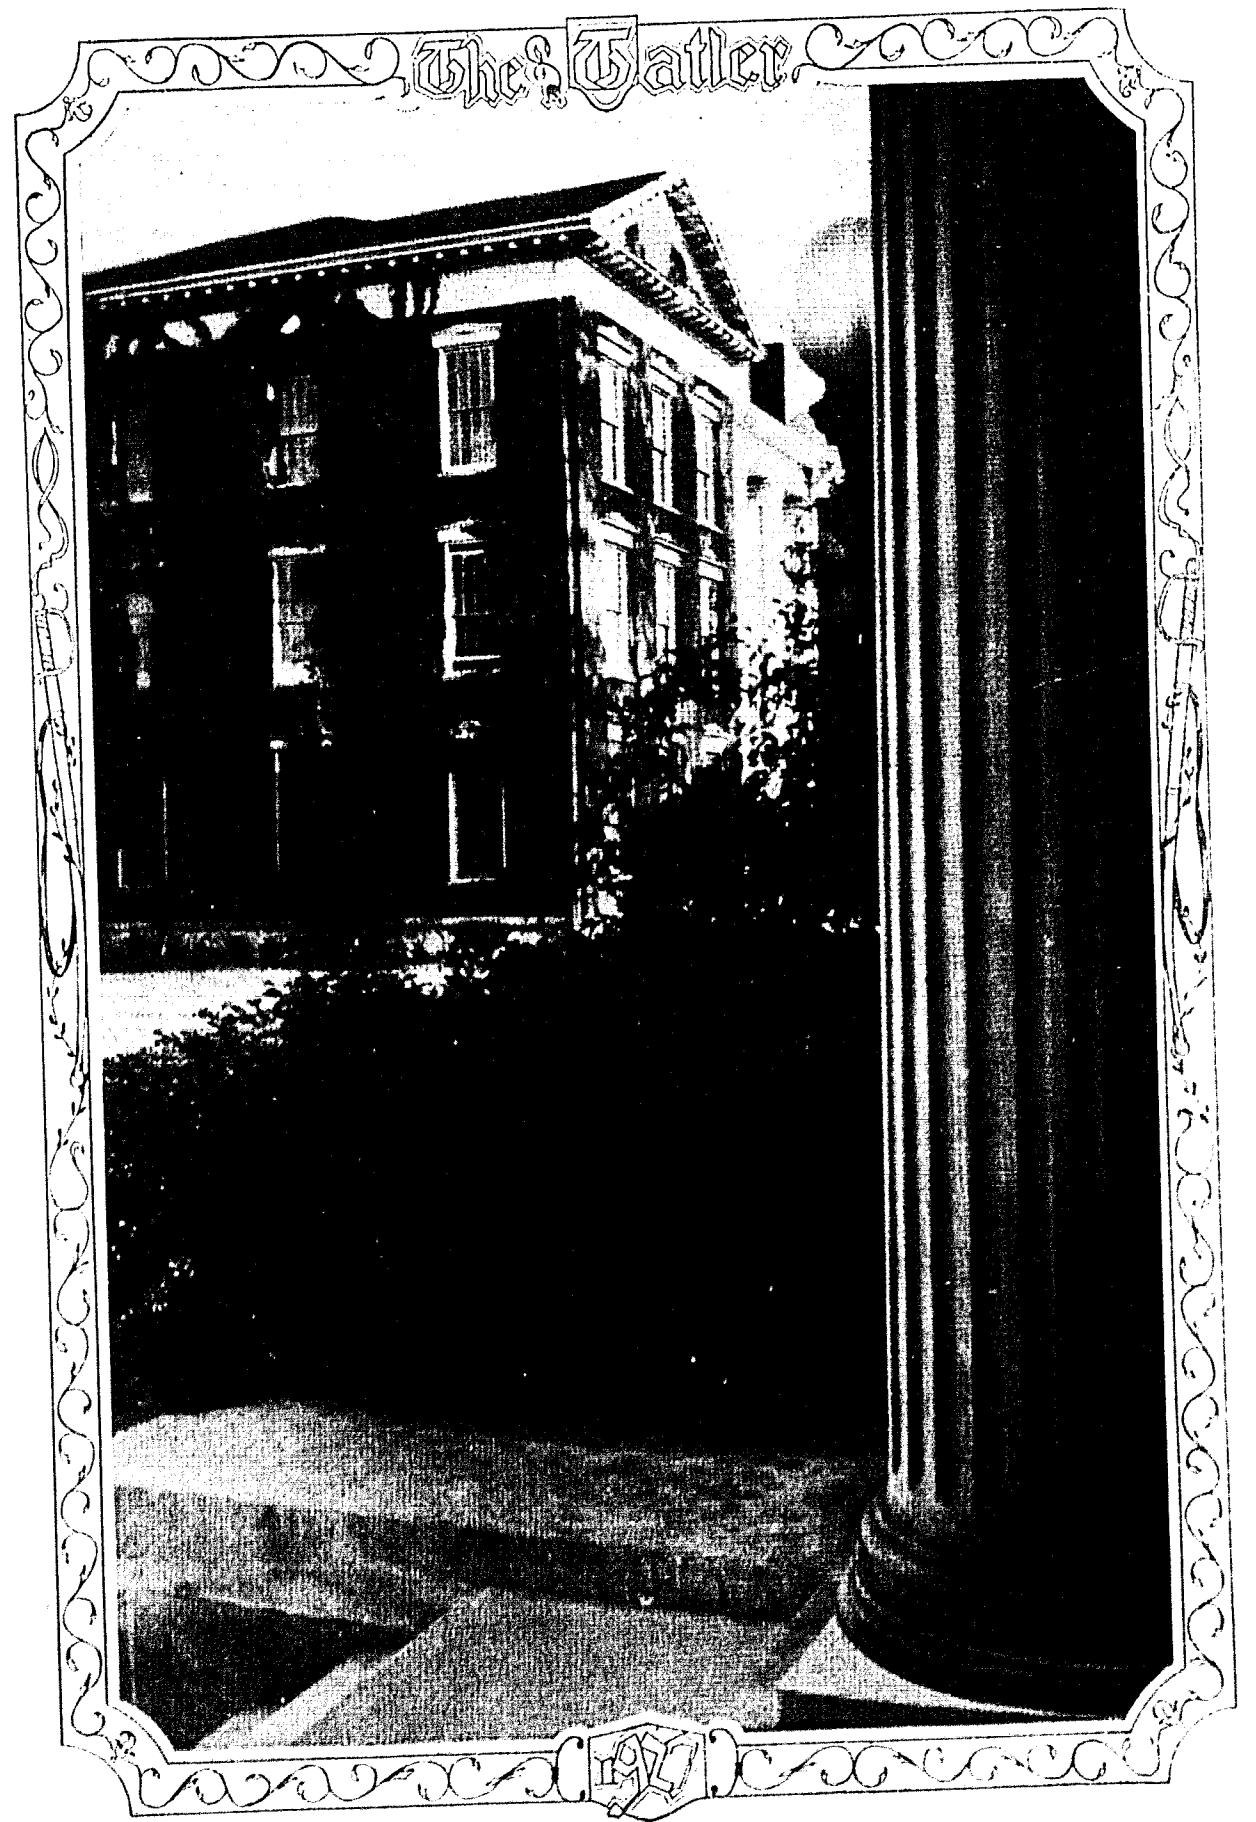

The Haller is a William Jewell institution, but William Jewell College is not confined to one community, one state, nor yet one nation. It is cosmopolitan in its composition and international in its influence.

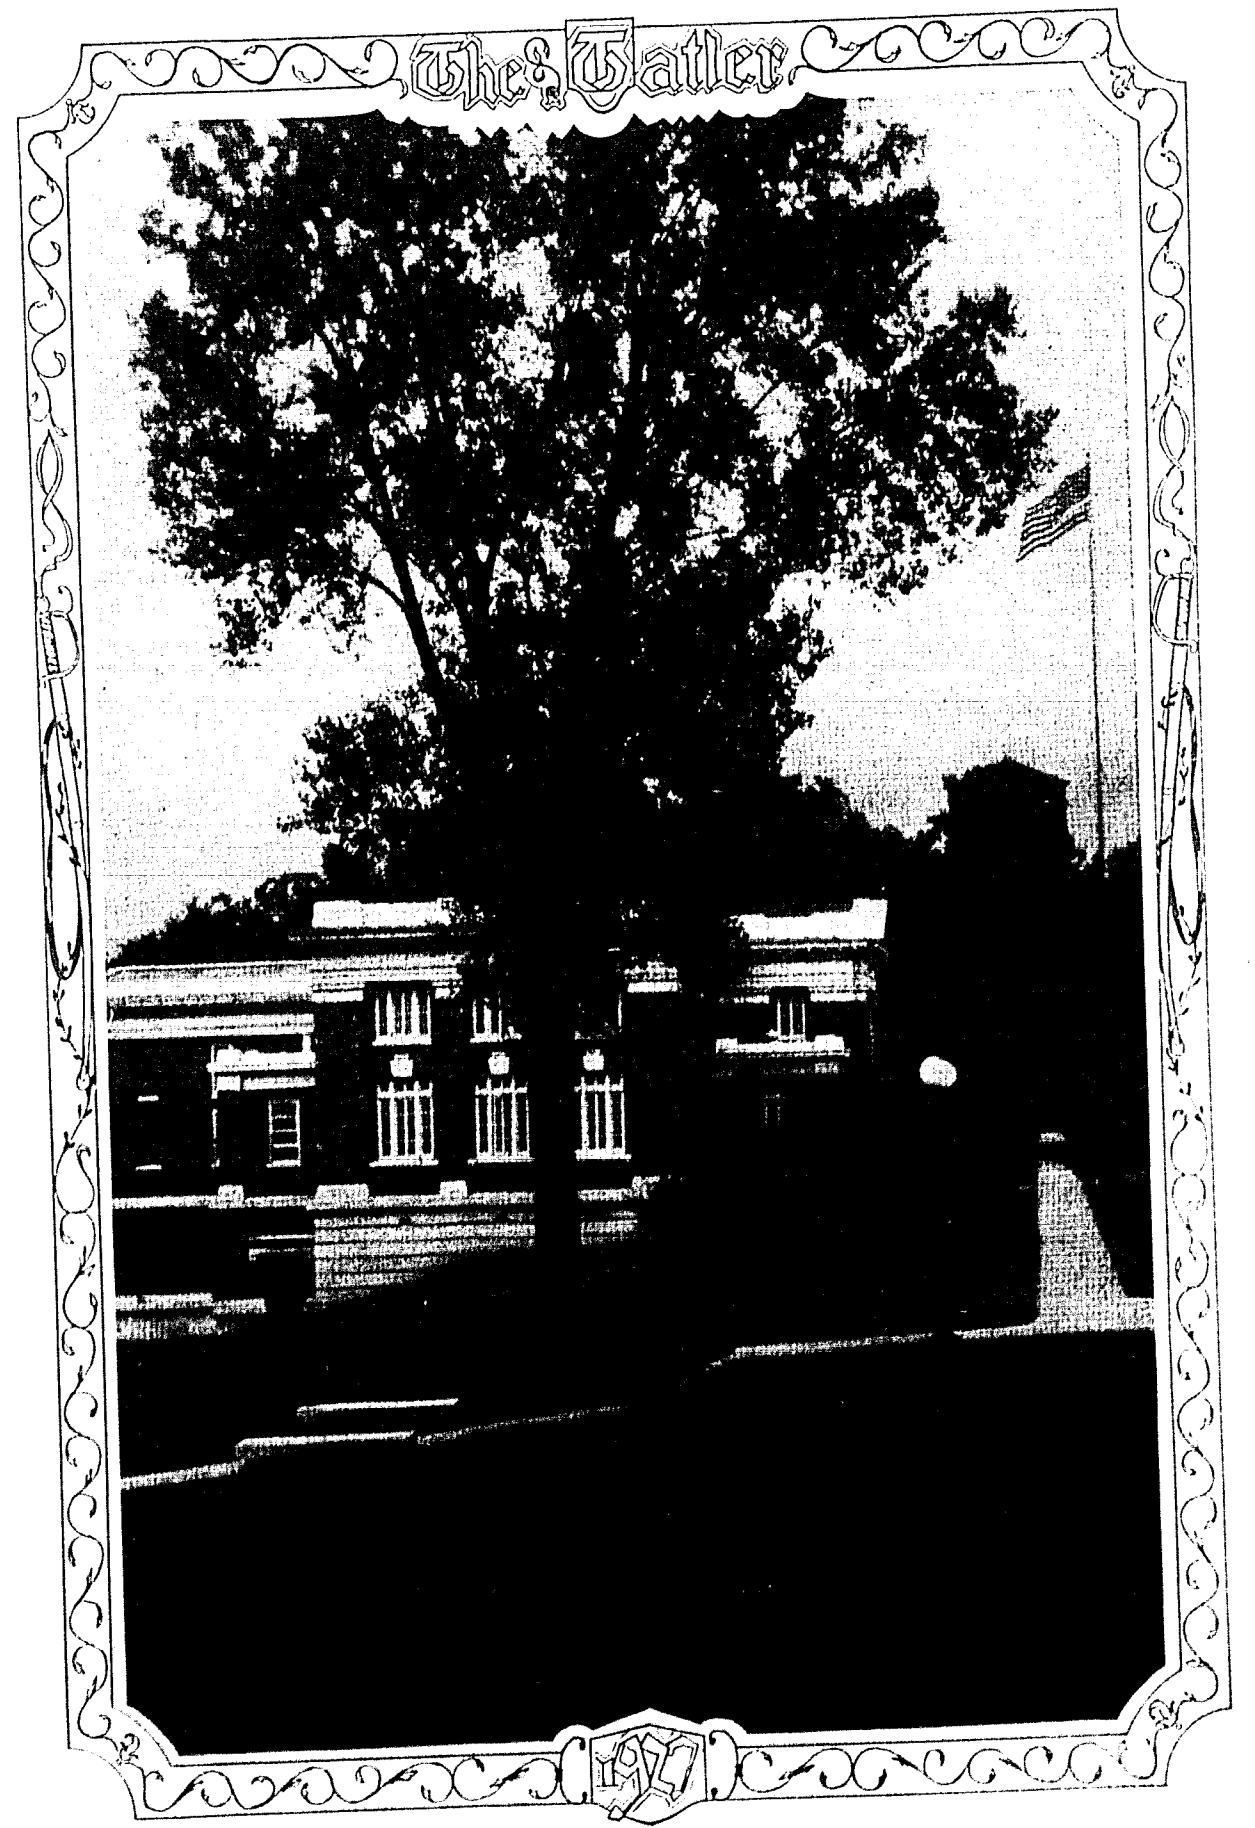

Its location in 1849 at Liberty, Missouri, is an achievement of General Alexander William Doniphan; since, it has become a seat of superior scholarship, disseminating truth, and the principles of civil and religious liberty.

General Alexander W. Doniphan

Alexander William Doniphan is of great significance to William Jewell College. His efforts toward securing the location of the Alma Mater at Liberty and the part he played in giving the institution the name it has borne for seventy-eight years, place him among the founders, educators, and philanthropists who are honored in William Jewell's Hall of Fame—the hearts of William Jewell men and women. His learning and character, ennobled by rare integrity, true modesty and deep tolerance, make him a personification of the ideals of a college “disseminating truth and the principles of civil and religious liberty”. His courage and wisdom as an officer in the war with Mexico won for him the highest admiration from the people of Missouri and the fame awarded a great soldier by the nation.

The interesting story of General Doniphan's connection with the location and naming of the College is well told in “Founding and Location of William Jewell College” by Dr. L. M. Lawson, at one time professor of Latin in the College. (Missouri Historical Society Collections, Vol. 4, No. 3, 1914.) To quote Dr. Lawson:

“When the Baptists of Missouri determined to establish a college and appointed the meeting of a convention at Boonville, on the 21st of August, 1849, to effect an organization and settle the place of its permanent abode, the friends of learning and education at Liberty committed to General Alexander W. Doniphan the task of arousing the people of the country to the importance of making an effort to secure the location of the school in their country town and obtaining the necessary subscriptions of money for that purpose. He responded to the call.

“General Doniphan had but recently returned from Mexico, crowned with great military distinction, and had been everywhere greeted with the applauses of his admiring countrymen. He was at the zenith of his fame as a soldier, a lawyer and a statesman. Seldom has it been the lot of a great leader to unite in the same bright combination so rare, so happy and so delicate an assemblage of eminent qualities and qualifications as met in this brilliant man. His intellect was of passing power and force, incisive, serene, capacious and catholic, rapidly assimilative, luxuriantly fruitful. His memory was astonishing, and at the docile service of a nimble and agile intellectuality. His discernment resembled inspiration. His imagination was warm and vivid, his judgment clear, his energy surpassing. His mind had been enlarged by an unusually wide experience. In the world of literature and the world of life he was equally at home.

“His face and figure were such as sculptors love to dwell upon. His person was tall and commanding; his stature was six feet and four inches; his features were of classic elegance, but eager, mobile, animated; his hair was of the richest auburn hue; his forehead was high and intellectual; his finely cut nose was a combination of Grecian and Roman significance; his lips indicated eloquence; his dark eyes were full of fire; grace and dignity blended themselves in his deportment; his mental character was so happily constituted that his powers so compatible with each other were tempered into an exquisite harmony. One faculty especially had been granted to him in the largest measure—the faculty of eloquent expression. There was a thrilling note of sincerity in his voice, vibrant with a vast store of feeling and compelling magnetism.

“These superb powers he devoted to the task of awakening his fellow-citizens to an interest in higher education, and inspiring an effort to secure the establishment of a college in the capital of their county. In making a series of brilliant addresses, he visited every part of the county, traversing every community and presented a masterly, convincing argument for the cause of the college, and with unflagging zeal and tireless energy, solicited the aid and support of the people in the great undertaking. . . . With so powerful an advocate, with so grand a cause, and with so receptive a community, failure was hardly possible. The great effort was crowned with success and with a formidable subscription the delegates from Clay County were sent to the convention at Boonville.

“At the appointed hour, the convention assembled in the Baptist meeting house. The building was densely crowded, the organization was effected without delay.

“When the credentials of delegates were presented and passed upon, it was evident that the subscription of no single county was sufficient to constitute a majority of the capital subscribed, and that the final result would depend upon concession, compromise, or change of sentiment or opinion of some delegation. The sum subscribed by Clay County was the largest plurality.

“ . . . Doniphan's quick perception saw that the time had come to take the hazard of decisive measures. He determined to hesitate no longer.

“He rose and began the presentation of his place and people with the remark that as no one else appeared to want the college, he wished to make it clear to the convention that Liberty would take it with grateful thanks and would exert its best efforts to deserve the boon and to foster, sustain, and upbuild the infant institution. Then followed a careful and discriminating eulogy of his constituency and the eligibility of Liberty as a proper place for planting a great seminary.

“The entrant having been broken by Doniphan, the nomination of other places followed, with tasteful and appropriate commendations by several speakers who presented their claims and their merits.

“Just when the balloting was about to begin, Dr. William Jewell, of Columbia, Boone County, proposed to the convention an additional subscription of ten thousand dollars, to be paid in lands situated in Mercer, Sullivan and Grundy Counties, in the State of Missouri, the subscriber to have the corresponding number of votes on the question of the location of the college and the right to bestow a name upon the new institution. This proposition was earnestly supported by the Booneville delegation and others, but was strongly opposed by General Doniphan and his allies. It was believed that Dr. Jewell was favorable to Booneville as the home of the college. General Doniphan's opposition was most vigorous. He demonstrated the injustice of permitting the votes which represented an arbitrary valuation of unimproved and uncultivated land to weigh against the votes of subscriptions which represented available funds. He kindled in the breasts of his allies the same ardor that burned in his own. The justice of his contention was recognized, his arguments availed with a majority of the convention, and the proposition of Dr. Jewell was rejected.

"Then came the balloting upon the choice among the places in nomination. An "entente cordiale" had long existed between the Counties of Howard and Clay. The territory of the latter was formerly a part of Howard County, and there were close family connections between them. Clay County had the largest subscription in the list and Howard County the smallest. Under the influence of Doniphan and the ties of friendship and consanguinity that bound the people together; Howard County made common cause with Clay, and the two joined made an absolute majority for Liberty, and the location was determined. In recognition of this liberality, and in evidence of the reciprocal good will and kindness toward each other, the President of the Board of Trustees of the College was for a long series of years chosen from among the Baptists of Howard County.

"The deliberations of the convention, the discussions and the balloting, had occupied the entire day. After the selection of Liberty, the meeting adjourned until the morrow at ten o'clock.

"After a night of repose, Doniphan arose with mental inspiration fit and ready for the labors of the new day. The work of the convention was to be appropriately closed by naming the college.

"Doniphan knew Dr. Jewell, he knew that his whole soul was stirred by an honorable desire for literary distinction, and that he aspired to enroll his name among those who have shaped the fortunes of great institutions, and guided the course of mighty destinies. He desired that his name should be entered in the great arena as a noble candidate contending for a noble prize. Doniphan determined to contribute to the gratification of this honorable ambition, and lay these lofty sentiments under contribution for the welfare and promotion of the new institution which had just been ushered into existence, and found a home on the Western confines of the State. Doniphan prepared a careful, appropriate and tasteful resolution, which recited the labors of Dr.

Doniphan

Jewell in the cause of liberal culture, his devotion to the interests of enlightened civilization, and proposed that the new seminary of learning be baptized with the name of "William Jewell College." This resolution, in an early hour of the day, Doniphan privately and confidentially carried to the "Rev. William C. Ligon, with instructions to offer it to the convention as soon as the session opened. No man was better fitted for the delicate task than Mr. Ligon. His speech was effective, tender and devoted, courteous, decorous and sympathetic, and profoundly expressed the sentiments of the convention and the large assemblage.

"The motion for the adoption of the resolution was seconded by General Doniphan in a manner of surpassing charm and excellence, and in a style wherein the graces of colloquy and the graces of rhetoric were harmoniously blended. At no period of his life was his genius seen to greater advantage. The resolution was unanimously adopted, and the name of William Jewell was indelibly stamped upon the educational destiny of the Baptists of Missouri."

A deeper appreciation of the significance of General Doniphan for William Jewell men and women will be obtained when one knows what manner of man he was and what he did. In order to increase that appreciation the following brief sketch of his life is given.

General Alexander William Doniphan was born in Mason County, near Maysville, Kentucky, July 9, 1808, and was the twelfth child and youngest son of Joseph Doniphan, of Revolutionary war fame, who died in 1813. He was educated at Augusta, Kentucky, graduating in his 19th year, from Bracken Methodist College in Augusta.

When near his twentieth birthday, young Doniphan began the study of law under that able jurist, Honorable Martin P. Marshall of Augusta, Kentucky. In the fall of 1829 he was admitted to practice in the courts of Ohio and Kentucky. At the age of twenty-two years he was recognized as a "good lawyer." During the winter of 1829 he traveled in the Western and Southern States, locating at Lexington, Mo., April 19, 1830. He was admitted to practice in Missouri at Fayette, in April, 1830.

Doniphan had invested his patrimony (and more) in acquiring an education, in fitting himself for his chosen profession of the law, and he was now entirely dependent on his own energy, perseverance and intellectual endowment. He succeeded well in Lexington, Mo., but determined to change his residence to Liberty, Clay County, Mo., which he did in 1833. At Liberty he remained for thirty years, devoting the vigor of his young manhood and the experience of his maturing years to the practice of law, in which he rapidly rose to eminence. Later he removed to St. Louis, but that city did not appeal to him and he then established his law office at Richmond, Ray County, Mo.

In 1836 Doniphan was elected to represent Clay County in the Ninth General Assembly.

Doniphan

Twice afterward, in 1840 and in 1854, he was chosen to the same position. He was a Whig in politics, and a gentleman in all things. In 1854 he was the Whig nominee for United States Senator, and although not elected he received the unbroken support of his Party. He was not a professional politician, but he was indeed a statesman in the noblest sense of the word.

On December 21, 1837, Alexander William Doniphan married Miss Jane Thornton, a daughter of Colonel John C. Thornton, a well known and respected pioneer of pioneers of Clay County. The Thornton blockhouse was said to have been the first fort of defense against the Indians in the Clay County territory.

Just after the marriage of Doniphan (who was a Brigadier-General of the Missouri State Militia) in 1838, Governor Boggs called out a strong militia force to quell the differences between the citizens and the Mormons at and adjacent to Far West, in Caldwell County. General Doniphan commanded a brigade under Major General Lucas, and his address and soldierly bearing succeeded in bringing about a settlement without bloodshed. As always, devoutly loving justice and tolerance, Doniphan subjected himself to possible court-martial rather than submit to the enforcement of a military order which meant the execution of men not found guilty either by civil or military tribunal.

Following the Mormon surrender, Joseph Smith (the Prophet) and six others were turned over to Doniphan, who received the following order:

"Brig. Gen. Doniphan: You will take Joseph Smith and the other prisoners to the public square at Far West and shoot them at nine o'clock tomorrow morning. (Signed) Samuel D. Lucas, Major General, Commanding."

Doniphan is quoted as having replied as follows:

"It is cold-blooded murder. I will not obey your order. My brigade will march for Liberty at eight o'clock tomorrow morning; and if you execute those men I will hold you personally responsible before an earthly tribune, so help me God. (Signed) Alexander W. Doniphan, Brig. Gen."

Later Doniphan refused to participate in a court-martial, and did tender his services as a civil defender of the Mormons, who were never convicted in court.

In May, 1846, Governor Edwards of Missouri issued a call for volunteers to join General Kearney in his expedition to Mexico.

Doniphan had heard from the lips of General Albert Sidney Johnston, at Fort Leavenworth, the story of human slavery in Mexico and the volume of insults to the American flag on the border—and his soul was deeply stirred.

Doniphan joined Company "C", commanded by his brother-in-law, O. P. Moss of Clay County, as a private.

Doniphan toured central Missouri, and organized several of the companies of the Regiment. On the 18th of June, 1846, eight companies which were to compose the 1st Regiment, elected A. W. Doniphan as their Colonel.

In taking charge of the Regiment, Doniphan abandoned a lucrative law practice, and a young family to lend his aid and his life to his country.

After brilliant service in Mexico, during which campaign on sundry occasions his small command routed and defeated Mexican forces immensely superior in numbers, Doniphan returned to Missouri.

His command marched from Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, to Chihuahua, Old Mexico, more than 6,000 miles, and on their return to Missouri were welcomed at St. Louis by delighted thousands. The address of welcome was made by Senator Thomas Hart Benton on July 4, 1847.

Xenophon led 10,000 trained soldiers in a thousand miles march of defeat. Doniphan led an untrained thousand men more than three thousand miles to world-famed victory, under conditions and circumstances unparalleled in history, the details of which are recounted in wonder by all unbiased historians.

Never was a soldier better loved by his men. Never was there a braver leader. He was known as "The Hero of Sacramento," (battle on February 28, 1847, see illustrations on pages 25 and 125), but he also won undying laurels at Santa Fe, Brazito, El Paso, and other fields of battle. He accomplished more, with less loss of men, and under more trying circumstances, than history records to the credit of any commander in history.

The conquest of Chihuahua was the most brilliant episode of the Doniphan's Expedition. On the 8th of February, 1847, Doniphan's men departed from El Paso, where they had awaited a reinforcement of one hundred and seventeen men and six pieces of cannon from Col. Pribe, and set out with great hopes for the city of Chihuahua. There the soldiers expected to gain a glorious victory or perish on the field of honor. Doniphan's responsibility was very great. With an army of less than one thousand men and very little artillery, he was on the march through bare, sandy wastes, against a strongly defended city which had been considered of such importance that General Wool, with three thousand five hundred men and heavy cannon, had been ordered to effect its subjugation. But nothing certain could be learned of General Wool's location or movements. The only alternatives were "Victory or Death."

On the 28th of February, after much hardship on the desert, the army arrived within sight of the Mexican encampment at Sacramento.

Doniphan

The enemy had entrenched on the brow of a rocky eminence rising upon a plateau eighteen miles from Chihuahua. In this apparently secure position the Mexicans had taken their stand at the pass that was the key to the capital. They were so sure of victory that they had prepared handcuffs with which to lead the American prisoners to Mexico City, as they did the Texans in 1841. The Mexicans, it became known after the battle, numbered four thousand two hundred and twenty men, thus outnumbering Doniphan's men more than four to one.

On arriving within one mile and a half of the enemy's fortifications, General Doniphan suddenly left the main road which passed within range of the batteries, deflected to the right, gained the plateau beyond, deployed his men into formation on the highland, causing the enemy to change his original position, and made the assault from the west.

It was a picture of beauty and grandeur as the two armies with banners fluttering, moved to the attack on the plain. A body of twelve hundred Mexican cavalry dashed down to commence the engagement. The fire of the American artillery routed them and they fell back behind the entrenchments. General Doniphan immediately ordered the buglers to sound the advance.

As the Americans neared the Mexican fortifications they were subjected to a heavy artillery fire, which they disregarded entirely and moved swiftly up the mountain. When the column had approached within about four hundred yards of the enemy's line the three cavalry companies and a section of howitzers were ordered to take the main central battery. The charge was made, and despite the deadly fire of the Mexicans, it was successful. All the companies now charged, poured into the entrenchments, and eagerly vied with each other in the noble struggle for victory, each company as well as each soldier eager to excel. The Mexican generals made several unsuccessful attempts to rally their retreating forces and to close up the breaches made in their lines. But they were dislodged and driven from the hill in confusion.

The defeat of the Mexican army now became general, and the fight continued until night put an end to the chase. The battle lasted three hours and a half. Thus was the army of Central Mexico defeated and disorganized by a column of Missouri volunteers. The Mexicans were dispersed among the ranches and villages, and their leaders, who wished to go to the help of Santa Anna against General Taylor, were never able to rally their troops and accomplish their purpose.

In this engagement General Doniphan was personally much exposed, and by reason of his great stature was a good mark for the fire of the enemy's guns. However, he was at all times in his proper place, whether to give his orders, encourage his men, or to use his sabre in thinning the enemy's ranks.

Doniphan

In the opinion of William E. Connelley, the battle of Sacramento was the most wonderful ever fought by American arms. He says, "Dewey's battle in Manila Bay may be set down as its only rival. The only land-battle at all approaching it was that of New Orleans; but in that battle the Americans fought at home, on their own soil, behind fortifications. The battle of Sacramento far outranks it. General Doniphan's men attacked a fortified position held by troops outnumbering them nearly five to one. They were in a strange land, thousands of miles from home. They were in rags, suffering from starvation. They were seemingly abandoned by their Government and left to their fate. In case of defeat there was no hope of succor, no help, . . . nothing but inevitable destruction And when the Americans were finally ready to begin to fight, they charged with the force of the thunderbolt. They were irresistible. They never halted. They poured over the fortifications of the enemy and routed his forces from the trenches. They overwhelmed the Mexicans by their audacity and furious courage."

Col. John T. Hughes, who was associated with Doniphan in the War, says in his book, "Doniphan's Expedition," "While commanding the army, General Doniphan rarely wore any military dress; so he could not be distinguished by a stranger from one of the men whom he commanded. He fared as the soldiers, and often prepared his own meals. Any private in his camp might approach him with the greatest freedom, and converse on whatever topics it pleased him; for he was always rejoiced to gain information from anyone, though a common soldier. Whoever had business, might approach his tent and wake him, when asleep, for he neither had a body guard, nor persons to transact his business for him."

Colonel D. C. Allen of Liberty, Mo., who knew so well and so esteemed "The General", (as he was called by all of his personal friends) described A. W. Doniphan as follows: "His personal appearance was truly imposing and magnificent. He was of the grandest type of manly beauty. A stranger would not have failed to instantly note his presence in any assemblage; in height, he was six feet and four inches. His frame was proportioned to his height, and was full without the appearance of obesity. His face approached the Grecian ideal closely, the essential variance being in the nose, which was aquiline without severity. His forehead was high, full and square; his eyes of the brightest hazel; and his lips symmetrical and smiling. When young, his complexion was extremely fair and delicate, and his hair sandy."

John T. Hughes accompanied Doniphan as his aide and secretary, and "Doniphan's Expedition to Mexico" by Hughes is one of the best narratives in the entire array of all the volumes of American history. Missouri's Xenophon led the gallant Nine Hundred and Twenty-four from Fort Leavenworth to Chihuahua, establishing liberty and freedom for a vast American empire now under the Stars and Stripes!

It is related by Mrs. Theodosia Thornton Lawson, his sister-in-law, that when the Doniphan Expedition arrived in New Orleans in 1847, at the end of the world-famed campaign, he and his men had not had any new clothing since leaving Fort Leavenworth the year before. The War Department officers had not yet arrived with the payroll and money. Doniphan went to a big clothing dealer, and guaranteed the account of his Regiment—and the bill was over Sixty Thousand Dollars for the re-outfitting of his command. To the credit of Missourians, not one man tried to avoid paying his bill, therefore, that extension of credit did not cost the General a single cent!

Colonel Doniphan, after the Mexican War, returned to his home in Liberty and resumed the practice of law. He remained in Liberty until 1863, when he removed to St. Louis, and resided there until 1868-1869. He avoided conversation or public statement which involved himself as the hero or leader, and it was only on rare occasions that he would mention himself in connection with leadership in the Mexican War. No Missourian ever lived who was during the last thirty years of his life more perfectly devoid of personal ambition. His friends, high in authority, desired to honor him by brevetting him at the hands of the President and Congress for his gallant actions and meritorious services, but he refused—an honor seldom ever refused by an American before or since. He hated show, cared nothing for personal glory, and his love for the satisfaction of silence kept his name from being inscribed large upon the pages of history. His like has never appeared upon the stage of human action in these United States.

According to his biographer he was tendered the Attorney Generalship of the United States by President James Buchanan. It is related that President Abraham Lincoln called him to Washington at the outset of the Civil War and offered him the Commandership of the Union Army and that although he refused the honor he was loyal to the Union throughout the war. He said that he did not care to return to the life of a soldier, and further that he did not wish to fight the men of his own Expedition, so many of whom were enlisted under the flag of the Confederacy.

In 1861 he was one of the five delegates appointed to represent Missouri in the celebrated "Peace Conference," and was one of the five from the border states who (by special invitation) held an interview with Abraham Lincoln, to counsel and advise, as to the best methods of preserving peace, maintaining the Union, and settling the difficulties that then environed the nation. He was the last of the famous five to die. It was while absent on this trip that he was chosen to represent his senatorial district in the State Convention.

Following the conference between Abraham Lincoln and General Alexander W. Doniphan at the White House, Mr. Lincoln said that Doniphan was the only great man and hero that he ever saw that lived up to his expectations.

One biographer says that when Doniphan made his first appearance before the United States Supreme Court in Washington City, after his world-famed expedition into Mexico, that all of the Supreme Judges arose and came down off the bench to greet him and congratulate him, which act is without parallel in the history of that court.

In 1868 Doniphan returned from St. Louis (where he had practiced law for six years) to Western Missouri and located at Richmond, where he remained until his death. He was a man of great physical strength and retained a firm, elastic step and easy, graceful carriage until his last illness.

General Alexander W. Doniphan died at Richmond, Missouri, at 9:40 p. m. August 8, 1887. He was conscious to the moment of dissolution, and passed away without a struggle. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Lawson, who arrived an hour or two before his death, he readily recognized. The funeral and burial occurred at Liberty, the remains being taken by special train.

General Doniphan's ideals as a soldier are best expressed by himself in an address delivered before the graduating class of the United States Military Academy, June 16, 1848. General Doniphan said, "Patient in suffering, whether from hunger, thirst, fatigue, scorching suns, piercing colds, drenching rains, or pestilential diseases; all must be borne, and not only borne without a murmur, but with such cheerfulness as to dispel all gloom from his companions and followers. He should be generous to the weak and humble, magnanimous to the fallen, obedient to superiors, forbearing to inferiors; exacting proper discipline without tyranny or oppression—alive to the best interests of his country, ever making his own interests secondary, and imbued with a philanthropy that neither the carnage of the battlefield, nor the savage warfare of enemies, shall steel to the cry of suffering humanity. Women and children, helpless infancy and more helpless age, can never appeal to an American officer in vain. Remember your country wars with nations, not with individuals—she never revenges national wrongs on private citizens."

That's beneath that old hat!
He trusts us and aids us,
We trouble him—true,
But he's loyal to his students—
Every one of them too.
He knows of more stories
Of this noble old "Hill"
And on certain occasions
Will joke with you till
You laugh in sheer agony—
Sides swaying like buoys.
"Daddy" Fruit, you're a marvel
At aiding life's joys.

Since Professor Harvey has been coach of debate at William Jewell, forensics have become a major activity. The record of victories only partly states the story of his excellent work, which has placed William Jewell in the ranks of colleges known nationally for their excellence in debate. Professor Harvey holds a diamond key in Pi Kappa Delta.

WALTER C. McPHERSON
Assistant Coach of Debate in
William Jewell College
during 1926-27

Professor McPherson's work in coaching has been confined principally to instruction of the girls' squad, which is the first in the history of the college. Having been a member of the William Jewell varsity squad during 1924-25 and 1925-26, McPherson also is a member of Pi Kappa Delta, holding the emerald or third degree in that order.

The 1926-27 Forensic Season

The season began with William Jewell having previously participated in 154 intercollegiate debates of which 47 have been defeats. This season saw the 186th debate with the total number of defeats reaching 57.

155. October 29 at Liberty. The University of Sydney, Sydney, Australia.

This was William Jewell's first international debate contest. The crowd was the largest to attend a debate at William Jewell since the war. The William Jewell debaters were three seniors, W. Prewitt Ewing, Albert L. Reeves, Jr., and G. Harold Roberts. Supt. J. L. Campbell was the chairman. The contest was the most interesting debate in ten years. The audience vote was for the William Jewell team. The 109th victory. The question concerned the entry of women into political and professional life.

QUESTION FOR REST OF SEASON

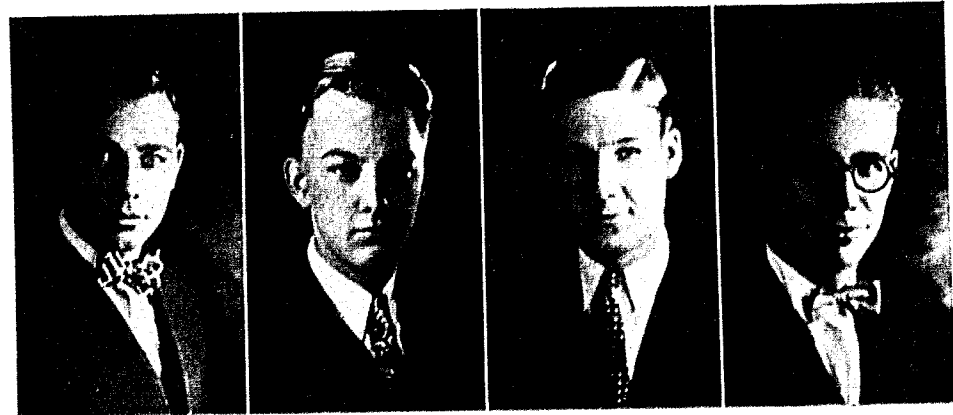

Resolved that Congress should enact legislation embodying the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill.

156. February 9 at Kansas City. Kansas City School of Law. 48th defeat. Reeves, Withers, and Howard, lost unanimously on the affirmative.

157. February 10 at Liberty. Kansas City School of Law. 49th defeat. Williams, Orr, and Ewing lost unanimously on the negative.

158. February 15 at Kansas City. Kansas City Teachers College. 50th defeat. Dorothy Planck, Bonnie Jones, and Dovie Kirkland lost two to one on the affirmative.

159. February 16 at Liberty. Kansas City Teachers College. 110th victory. Mary Lee Huff, Catherine Hunt, and Mary Margaret Jessee won three to nothing on the negative.

162. March 16 at Kansas City. Kansas City (Mo.) Junior College. 53rd defeat. Robertson, Hanson, and Russell lost two to one on the affirmative.
163. March 16 at Liberty. Kansas City (Mo.) Junior College. 111th victory. William Johnson, and Orr won two to one on the negative.
164. March 19 at Liberty. Drury College. 112th victory. Withers and Howard won the decision of a single expert judge.
165. March 21 at Parkville. Park College. Non-decision. Dorothy Planck, Bonnie Jones, Catherine Hunt upheld the affirmative.
166. March 21 at Liberty. Baylor University, Waco, Texas. 113th victory. Withers, and Howard won the decision of a single expert judge. This was an excellent contest and the Texas team was a brilliant one. William Jewell had the affirmative.
167. March 22 at Topeka. Washburn College. Non-decision. Catherine Hunt, Dorothy Planck, and Bonnie Jones upheld the affirmative.
168. March 22 at Topeka. Washburn College. 114th victory, and the fifth straight victory over Washburn in the Tri-State League. Ewing, Orr, and Reeves won on the negative 3 to 0 before business men's club of Topeka.
169. March 22 at Liberty. Nebraska Wesleyan University, Lincoln. 115th victory. Another debate in the Tri-State League. Withers, Howard, and Russell won 3 to 0 on the affirmative with the rebuttal of the William Jewell team reaching exceptional effectiveness.
170. March 23 at Liberty. Park College. Freshman debate. 116th victory. Kiger, Hanson, and Russell won 3 to 0 on the negative.

There is something in us that strives upward. Music

The Department of Music

The Department of Music exerts a far-reaching influence upon the students of William Jewell College. This influence is felt not only by the students who are enrolled in the regular courses offered by the department, but also by all the students in a more general way. While those who pursue the courses receive a direct educational and informational benefit, the entire body of students receives a cultural benefit from the department, by reason of the high type of music which it constantly gives them opportunity to hear.

The department has come into touch with the student body during the past year by means of programs presented in the regular chapel exercises from time to time, by complete concert programs given by the Glee Clubs and by other groups under the supervision of the department, and by means of regular organ recitals given on the first Sunday afternoon of each month at the Presbyterian Church by the head of the department, Professor Cooper, who is a member of the American Guild of Organists.

It is the purpose of the department to establish and present, in addition to the various concerts given throughout the year, a grand festival concert at the commencement season each year, in which the several musical organizations on the hill will take part, and for which an artist or artists of national reputation will be brought to Liberty.

Publications

The Student

The weekly newspaper of the College. "The William Jewell Student" is the only officially recognized student publication on the Hill. It is published in thirty-two issues, is a four-page, five column paper.

It is financed by three sources of revenue, an appropriation from the Board of Trustees of two hundred dollars, by subscriptions of two dollars each from the student activity fees paid by each Student, and by the advertising space sold. Financial reward to the staff for its work in publishing the Student is afforded only in proportion to the surplus their efforts make possible.

Instrumental in the collection of news is the class in English 18, under Professor Harvey, and members of the staff are selected by the editor from this class. Assignments are made by the editor and afford the practice work in the course.

Editors are elected by the student body at the close of school and at the end of the first half of each year, and they serve as associate editor for the half year before they assume their duties. The business manager is elected at the close of each school year, and serves for the entire coming session of school.

An extensive exchange service is maintained, both with high schools and colleges. Attention is given to society news, campus opinion, and feature and humorous articles in addition to the regular news of the college.

The 1927 Tatler

The Tatler is the annual publication of the students of William Jewell College and its purpose is to chronicle the many events of the school year in order that they may endure on the pages of this book and in the memory of the sons and daughters of "the Old Hill." The Tatler staff functions as the medium for the gathering of the news and college sentiment which are essential in the publication of an annual.

The art theme of the book is "Doniphan's Expedition," reviewing the exploits of the illustrious General Doniphan through the reproduction from certain unpublished drawings of important events which occurred during the expedition. The original drawings of the Battle of Sacramento were made by an artist on that battlefield and are preserved in the Library of Congress. In the attempt to portray Doniphan's military achievements, his interest and work for William Jewell College has been neglected only insofar as our inability prevents us from doing it justice.

The 1927 Tatler was produced at a cost of approximately $3200.

The entire production of the book was the result of student effort, since all the designing and compiling was done by students, and the book was set and printed by the William Jewell Press.

The budget includes:

Sale of books	$1650.00
Advertising	500.00
Classes	500.00
Organizations	500.00

Printing	$1800.00
(Binding included)
Engraving	1250.00

TWO SUCCESSIVE FIRST PLACES

The 1925 Tatler and the 1926 Tatler are given recognition in nation-wide contests

For the first time in the history of the school, a William Jewell publication was given national recognition when the 1925 Tatler was entered in the nation-wide contest conducted by the Central Inter-Scholastic Press Association, and won the highest award. In 1926 for the second year in succession; a William Jewell annual was given official recognition for its merit, when the 1926 Tatler won first prize in the same national contest. Both annuals were in class "B" (colleges with 300 to 700 enrollment).

On the basis of comparison of scores, the following improvement is noted: Total scores (out of a possible 1000) 1925 Tatler, 867; 1926 Tatler, 960.

Athletics

Athletics in William Jewell

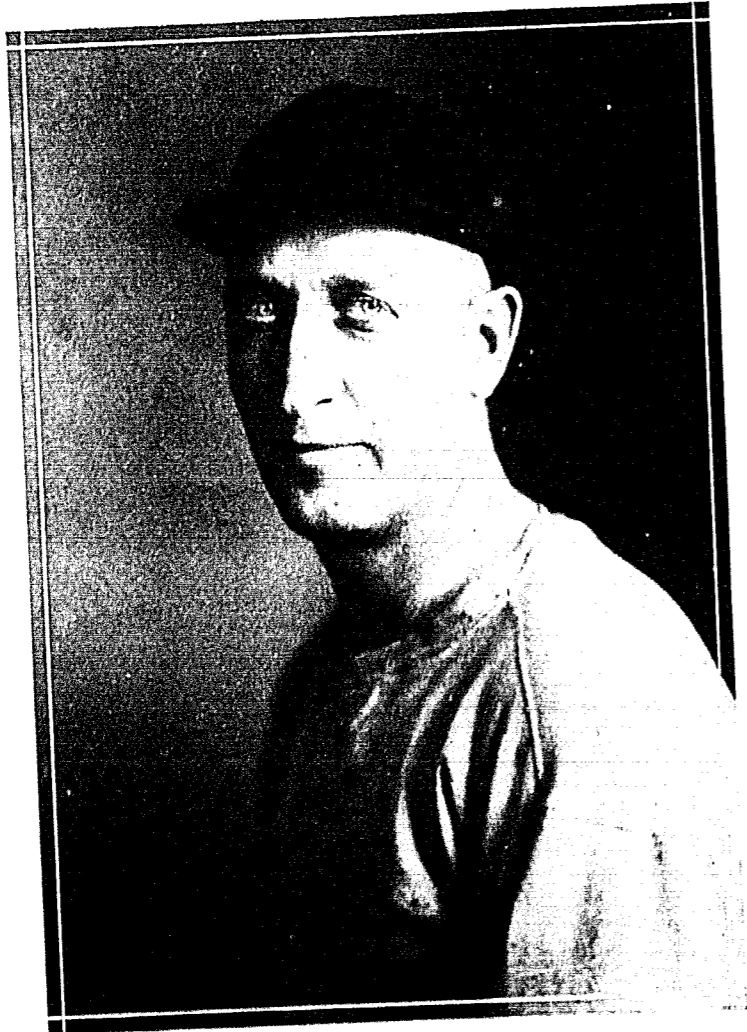

The Spirit of the Big Red Team—the Jewell Spirit—lives on “the Hill,” on Jewell Field and in the hearts of the men and women of William Jewell College. This Spirit is the very soul of William Jewell; and as Jewell teams and Jewell men go forth to win or lose there is ever awake in all of us, who either take part or watch intently, the spirit of pride, loyalty and love for our own colors.

Today, athletics are recognized as essential to College life. Competitive athletics have the greatest appeal to the youth of today, and through that appeal, we believe that our Athletic Department is helping to build character, manhood that remains unafraid, and clean, square sportsmanship in the students of our College.

The greatest period of successful athletics in the history of William Jewell College dates from the year 1912-1913, when R. E. (“Dad”) Bowles became the athletic director; since that time, William Jewell has won the lion’s share of honors in the Missouri College Union. Among the championships won are: Five in football, three in basket ball, five in track, five in baseball, and eight in tennis. We do not measure our respect for “Dad” by the number of trophies won or by the number of years that Jewell teams have gone forth under his direction, but by the sportsmanship shown and by the high standard of character he has maintained in his athletes.

Because of the rapid growth of the athletic department, the need was evident and a call was made for someone to share the growing responsibilities of the veteran coach. This need was ably met when the services of William N. (“Bill”) Collins, former University of Missouri star and later an outstanding coach in the M. D. C. U., were secured.

In the presenting of this athletic section of the Tatler, we want you to feel again the thrill of a Cardinal touchdown, the beauty of the Jewell yell as the Big Red Team enters upon the field. If we can bring back thoughts like these, then we will consider our part well done and our service to you and to William Jewell complete.

Those who witnessed the scene on Jewell Field following the shot of the gun that closed the Missouri Wesleyan game, and with it, the 1926 football season, know with what enthusiasm the Cardinal rooters saw their team complete its schedule. Was it a successful season? Well, defeating the conference champions of the previous year, a team that had successfully buffeted us for two successive years, is this success? It mattered but little that Jewell had lost three games immediately preceding the final conflict. Defeating Missouri Wesleyan made up for it all.

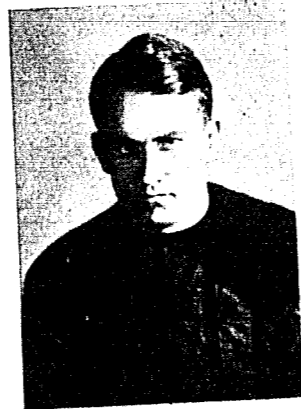

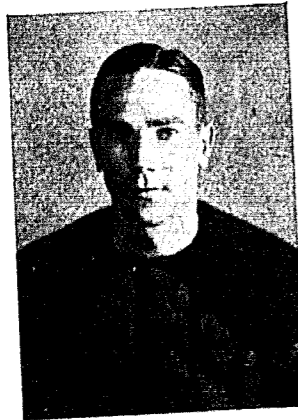

Tarkio 0 Jewell 10

The Big Red Team opened the season the same way it closed, with a victory. Tarkio's gridiron warriors were the victims of a 10-0 game. Stellar line-plunging by Owen and Turner, and a series of well placed punts by Clutter were main factors in the Cardinal scoring.

The Culver-Stockton game thrilled a small delegation of Jewell rooters that made the pilgrimage to Canton to witness the persecution of the Christians. Ramage gave them a taste of the lash in the first quarter when he picked up a fumble and dashed thirty yards for the first score. With the aid from the referee, Culver-Stockton succeeded in pushing the ball down the field and made their only score of the game, late in the second quarter. The fate of the fourth quarter was sealed by Captain Jordan, who picked up a fumble and raced seventy-five yards for a touchdown.

Westminster 19 Jewell 0

It was a very sad and different story that was told a week later. Yes, it was a hard luck story, indeed, with the Bluejays getting all the important breaks and the Cardinals getting none. Hunt intercepted a pass in the third quarter, netting 17 yards, but the Cardinal eleven was unable to put the pigskin in scoring distance. Jordan's pass to Williams was complete for 20 yards, rousing the Jewell rooters to their last hope for the game. White, the Westminster fullback, was easily the outstanding star. Owen and Williams shared major honors for Jewell.

Drury 0 Jewell 13

A week later, Jewell asserted her supremacy over another team in the Missouri College Union by defeating Drury 13-0 at Springfield. Led by the brilliant playing of "Spud" Owen, who played one of the best games of his career, and "Toad" Turner, spirited quarterback, the Big Red Team succeeded in penetrating the Panther line. Owen's 60 yard run was the most spectacular play of the game.

Missouri Valley 21 Jewell 0

Before the large Homecoming Day crowd, the Vikings proved too much for the Cardinals, winning 21 to 0, after outplaying the Redmen in all but the third quarter. Salyers, Viking halfback, was the star of the game and was responsible for 14 of the 21 points scored. Clutter, playing his best game of the season for Jewell, prevented at least two more touchdowns.

Baker, 6 Jewell, 0

The Big Red Team played its best defensive game of the year on Muehlebach Field, but it was after the Baker Wildcats had succeeded in crossing its goal line, early in the first quarter, that the Cardinals showed their best defensive work. Craig, All-State center for four seasons thrilled the crowd as he made one-handed tackles back of the line of scrimmage, throwing the Baker backfield men for repeated losses. The defensive work of Jordan and Williams was of first order. Williams stopped several threatening plays around end.

Central 17 Jewell 7

The Central Eagles succeeded in partially avenging some of their former defeats at the hands of the Big Red Team, as Captain Gray eluded the Cardinal defense and scored two touchdowns. One of the touchdowns scored by Gray was made after a 60-yard dash. Jewell's score was made by a pass, Owen to Roberts, from the 12-yard line.

In a game replete with thrills, a surging, back and forth game, the Big Red Team emerged the victors over Missouri Wesleyan, 14 to 13, in the annual Turkey Day combat. A crowd of 2500 saw the battle, and battle it was, with a threatening rain storm throwing a bit of fright into the second half but holding off and finally beating a full retreat. The work of Owen in this game was especially good. He showed up well on offense and defense. His runs around end and off-tackle plays were a big factor in the Jewell victory. Turner's ability in lugging the ball contributed to the Cardinal scoring. The consistent kicking of Clutter who returned the ball for gains on repeated punts was a feature of the game.

The season opened with the Jewell team showing promise of repeating the success attained two years ago. Three games were easy victories for the smooth working Jewell machine, led by Captain Gates. The first road trip, however, upset the prospects for the championship, when the Big Red Team suffered the jinx of three successive one-point defeats at Marshall, and at Fayette the following days. To further handicap the Jewell team, Gates and Owen were unable to play for several games because of injuries on the initial trip.

Jewell 44 Missouri Wesleyan 28
 In the opening game the Cardinals completely outclassed their opponents, the first half showing the score to be 23 to 11 in our favor. The second half was almost a repetition of the first with the final score, 44 to 28.

Jewell 17 Missouri Wesleyan 9
 The second game, Missouri Wesleyan again proved the victim of the Jewell onslaught. In a game that afforded little spectacular playing, the Jewell players showed splendid defensive work.

The jinx followed the Cardinals to Fayette where on the following night, the Central Eagles won the game by a margin of one point.

Jewell 20 Central 21

On the following night on the same court, another game was lost by a one-point margin.

Jewell 28 Culver-Stockton 52

For the first time this season the Jewell team was completely outclassed, by the Culver-Stockton Wildcats, who gained a one sided victory with the score ending, 52 to 28.

Jewell 31 Tarkio 24

Getting back to winning form, Tarkio was downed on the home court.

Showing an improved form when the teams met on the following night, Jewell held the lead throughout the game due to the consistent work of Hirni, Gates and Yates.

Jewell 33 Culver-Stockton 41

In a return game with Culver-Stockton, their superiority was again demonstrated and the best that Jewell could do was to tie the score at one time in the second half.

Jewell 34 Central 31

The two one-point defeats were partially avenged when Jewell defeated Central on the home court after a hard combat.

Jewell 25 Central 27

Retaliating for the defeat of the previous night, the Eagles emerged victorious in the last game.

The 1926 Track Season

Jewell 47 Baker University 70

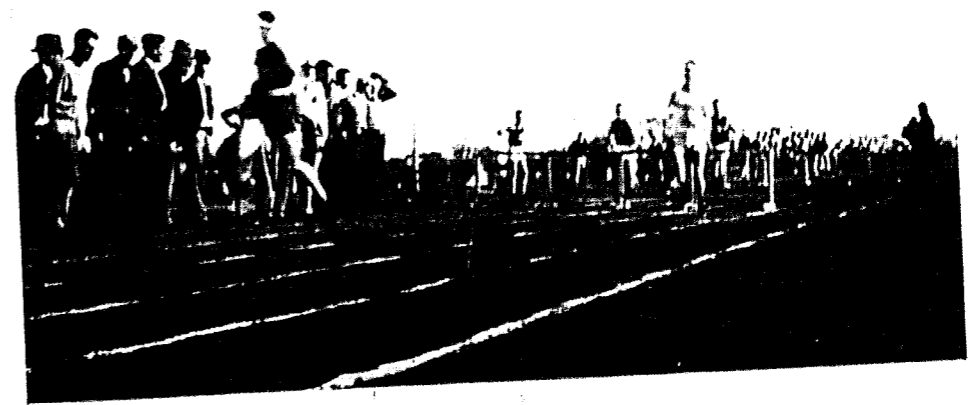

April 3. Baker University successfully defended the series of victories that it has gained over the Big Red Team in the annual dual meet by a score, 70 to 47. Captain Bob Hargis, with firsts in the 220-yard dash and the broad jump, lead the Jewell scoring. Jordan following close with a first in the discus and a second in the shot put.

Jewell 54 1-2 Westminster 62 1-2

Jewell's men journeyed to Westminster two weeks later where they were met and defeated by the Westminster Blue Jays, the half-mile relay deciding the meet in favor of the Fulton men, 62 1-2 to 54 1-2. Again Hargis was the high point man of the Jewell team, establishing a new Jewell record in the broad jump at 21 feet 6 1-2 inches, as he won firsts in the 100-yard and the 220-yard dashes and the broad jump.

Jewell 61 Missouri Wesleyan 61

It was in this meet that Jewell came from behind Missouri Wesleyan's lead and took the two relay events to place the Big Red Team in a tie at 61 to 61 after the score had been tied repeatedly throughout the meet. For the second time in consecutive years Hargis was robbed of a first place in the 100-yard dash when Coy leaped ahead at the tape to win. Toalson took first in the javelin, Jordan in the shot-put, Hargis in the 220-yard dash, Brooks in the high jump, Riddle in the mile and two-mile runs, and Loomis in the pole-vault.

Again the triangular meet with Park and Junior College was an easy victory for the Jewell track and field men, since ten firsts, nine seconds, and seven thirds were the toll taken by the Jewell men. Bob Hargis was the high point man, with three firsts to his credit. In this meet, the Hargis brothers showed their supremacy in the dashes and relays, finishing first and second in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Park showed its superior strength in the mile, two-mile, 440, 880, and in the mile relay. Junior College took firsts in the high jump, and the pole vault. This meet seemed to predict success to the Jewell team in the State Meet. Hargis' work even bettered his best performance of last year.

The 1926 track meet was held at Cameron under the hospitality of Missouri Wesleyan. Westminster showed its supremacy in the meet and with a total of 55 points was able to take the trophy to Fulton, easily outdistancing its closest rivals Central and William Jewell. Three new records were lowered in this meet--Toalson breaking the javelin record, and Loomis the pole vault. Following is a record of the meet:

Dear Mr. Mays:-
 Judging a beauty contest leaves me with the same guilty feeling that I have when, with cash in my pocket, I enjoy the delights of the luxurious cars in an automobile show.
 I marvel at my own egotism in attempting to pick only four from such a very lovely group. But I've done it, enjoyed it, and the result is going forward to you today.
 I have marked them in the order of my choice, probably erroneously, but honestly, and (in self defense) in the order that I should like to dance with them.
 Hoping that my effort may not be entirely antagonistic to those who know the winners personally, I am Yours

The International Relations Club

The International Relations Club was founded in William Jewell in 1923, by a group of students interested in the conduct of foreign affairs, and the foreign policy of the United States. With the coming of Dr. Harold H. Titus to the department of history, the club has been reorganized in 1927, and its activities extended. Its greatest value to the student body at large lies in its practice of bringing noted lecturers to speak on international affairs.

Confessions of a Popularity Fiend

Noted Actor and Director Forces Last Statement on the Press.

LIBERTY, MO., ETERNALLY—In the company of twenty-five newspaper men from surrounding cities of Smithville, Missouri City, Mosby, Crescent Lake, Winnwood, and Maple Park, the noted actor-director gave out a full confession of his character, his sins, and his shortcomings to the Disassociated Press. The confession in the main follows: "My father is the Judge. Just now he is occupied with several big bankruptcy cases, of which the Hotel President is the slightest. Naturally I must admit that I was one of those men who was born great. Realizing that I might in time become as insignificant as the Prince of Wales, Queen Marie, or some other characters who are also born great, I set out to achieve greatness. In two years at Junior College, I had risen to the heights of a most unpopular student. I was the whole debate team as well as the two coaches, I was the star and the scenery as well as the foot-lights of every dramatic production—and believe me, with a man of my versatility you don't even need lines. In addition I was made the rowing team at Junior College, being the 'Thick Skulls' champion. When finally after my two years of tremendous success in Kansas City, the President, the Dean and all five fraternities induced me to grace or disgrace the William Jewell Campus, I had greatness thrust upon me. The first of my unique distinctions was to get my room entirely rearranged and redecorated by the loving dormitory brothers. Professor Harvey gave me entire freedom of the debate room. Harold Roberts ceased to be "big stuff" when I was around. To further ingratiate himself with me, Professor Harvey arranged the New York trip in order that the Broadway boys might see another Missouri Product, as graceful in artistic bearing as Marion Talley (just between me and you, Marion is a lot older than she says because I happen to know—I knew her in Kansas City), as clever as O. O. McIntyre, and as capable on the stage as Jeanne Eagels. Of course I merely mention these minor people as other minor products of our sovereign state. This is my senior year. I have been privileged to select the entire Dramatic Club, I was the guiding genius and the star of "Mrs. Temple's Telegram." Sometimes I know just how John Gilbert feels. A fellow can naturally be one of the greatest dramatic heroes, but he can't have that supreme sense of creation until he gets to be a director. My duties keep me very busy but just as an accommodation to Professor Harvey, I defeated the crack Australian debate team—and in order that the boys might not feel the shame of their complete forensic annihilation, I kept one of them in the charmed and sacred atmosphere of Kappa Sigma. All great men, you will find, are generous, and one never gets too great to be a gentleman. This statement I have made to you today is probably the last before I become William Jewell's most famous Alumnus. You will be kind in publishing all of it on the front page."

A Famous Lecture

HON. HARRY AMUSEMENT PARK TO AMERICAN SCIENTIFIC SOC.

Gentlemen:

It is with some sort of pleasure that I take a little time off to speak to you on this occasion. My subject is not chosen from that field with which I am most familiar, and to those friends of mine that I see in this audience,—Dr. Papin, Dr. Millikan, Dr. Michaelson, and Dr. Bohr, I make an apology, since I cannot fulfil my promise to lecture to them on their most cherished subject. I speak on another which I feel may be of more interest to my other friends—Dr. Healey, Dr. Dewey, Dr. Thorndyke, and Judge Lindsey. My subject is "My Experiences With the Inferiority Complex."

In my high school days I found I had the most well developed complex at that time existent in the Western Hemisphere. It made me fear to even go out at night by myself. It made me afraid to graduate, it made me want to stay with Momma and Poppa while I went to college.

So it was not until my Sophomore year in college that I began my experiments with it. My first effort began when I was pledged Kappa Sigma. That group, after having tried to raise their scholastic standing with everything from hydraulic elevators to helium gas, pledged me, and I enter scarlet, green and white, all kinds being in Kappa Sigma. Immediately the complex began to leave. Everyone of the brothers told me I was good looking, especially in our Dodge, which Poppa lets me drive sometimes.

Then I was given the Physics assistantship. I am expecting, I might add, to be retained as head of the department, as soon as I go through the formality of the A. B. degree. Now I find the complex gone—I can give athletes grades in Physics and never tremble, I can raise my cute little nose in the air, without being afraid to be mistaken for a beagle-hound, I can whisper in my own, mellow sweet way.

In fact I have at last mastered the "Inferiority Complex." I must hurry on, so if you gentlemen will excuse me—I must—good-day etc.—et al.

The Faculty Beauty Contest

"And the Lions just laughed and laughed"

For the first time in the history of the College, a faculty beauty contest was conducted during the past year. The selection of these Apollos was made after keen competition by the single expert judge, Alice Jones Rhineland.

This picture of the winning nominees was taken as they tripped in a sylph-like manner down the straightaway before the crowded grandstands on High School Day.

(Who wonders why High School Day was a success?)

William Jewell College

Liberty, Missouri

William Jewell College is a Christian College, founded and supported by Missouri Baptists. It has breathed forth a Christian influence over the Middle West during its long history of three-quarters of a century. Men and more recently women too have gone out from this historic institution into every worthy calling. Our aim is not only for the best in scholarship, but for the best in Christian Character—every student an active worker in the church. William Jewell College is a college of traditions and ideals.

William Jewell College is a member of the North Central Association of Colleges and is one of the three Colleges in Missouri approved by the Association of American Universities. Work done in William Jewell is fully accredited by any standard university in America or Europe.

Regular courses leading to the A. B. degree are given. Accredited two year pre-professional courses for Medicine, Law, Engineering, Commerce, and Agriculture are offered. Also courses are given in Coaching for those desiring to become athletic directors and official coaches. The Education department prepares teachers for life certificates. Complete courses in instrumental and vocal music and musical theory are available in the Conservatory Department. Excellent courses for ministerial students and those preparing for special Christian work are offered.

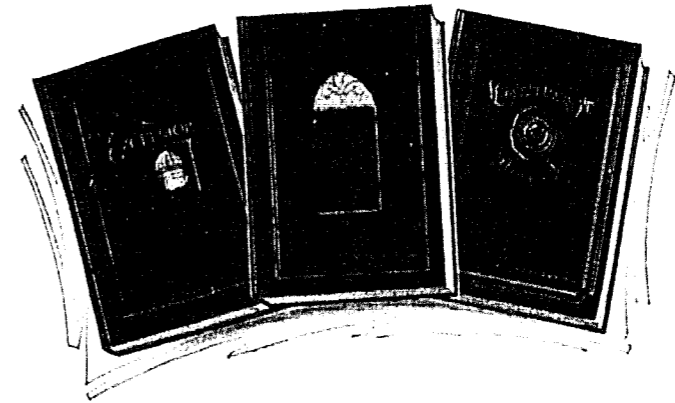

The equipment is excellent. The science laboratories are especially well equipped. A Carnegie Library of 35,000 volumes is situated on the campus. We have just completed two new buildings, a Chapel and a Girls' Dormitory. This additional equipment enables us to care for a larger student body.

William Jewell College is a growing college. Five years ago there were enrolled 270 students. This year we have enrolled 635 students. These with those in summer school make more than 659. We have just completed a successful campaign for endowment. This enables us now to offer the best in faculty and equipment for not more than 600 students. Our faculty consists of Ph. D. men who are specialists in their departments.

What the William Jewell Press Does— Has Done—Wants Done

Prints High School and College Annuals.

Specializes in all kinds of commercial printing.

Two books printed by The William Jewell Press received first national recognition in Annual Contest—By C. I. P. A., Madison, Wisconsin.

Prints Associational Minutes for the Baptist Associations of Missouri and surrounding states.

Does all College Printing; catalogues, bulletins, etc. Also The Student, weekly publication of the student body. College bulletin, 13,000 monthly. The Missouri Club Woman.

Teaches all phases of the printing trade.

Its training is a noticeable asset for those who intend to teach in high schools. Better positions and better salaries are offered for those who teach printing in conjunction with other courses.

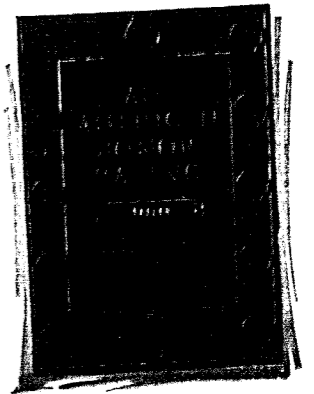

Students not only pay their way through school through the work for the William Jewell Press, but they learn a trade while attending school.

Wants $21,000.00 for new equipment, which will permit the employment of 40 students. We now have more business and more students wanting work than we have equipment to accommodate.

For the first time in the history of the school, a William Jewell publication was awarded national recognition, when the 1925 Tatler, entered in the national contest of the Central Inter-Scholastic Press Association, and won first in its class. The 1926 Tatler repeated. The entire printing of these prize books was handled by the William Jewell Press.

If you are interested in good printing, write Mr. Harvey J. Ray, Manager, William Jewell Press.

Pathetic Gems

FROM OUR CHILDISH GARDEN OF WORSES

Tousled head,
 Face forelorn—
 One suit—
 Past wrinkling,
 Ever worn.
 Voice, a growl
 Manner, gruff—
 One passing glimpse
 For all, enough.
 A sneer of weakness,
 A laugh of pain—
 Resembling boldness
 As clouds—the rain.
 Forever sneaking,
 Snake-like glide—
 Of William Jewell,—
 Our Joy and Pride.

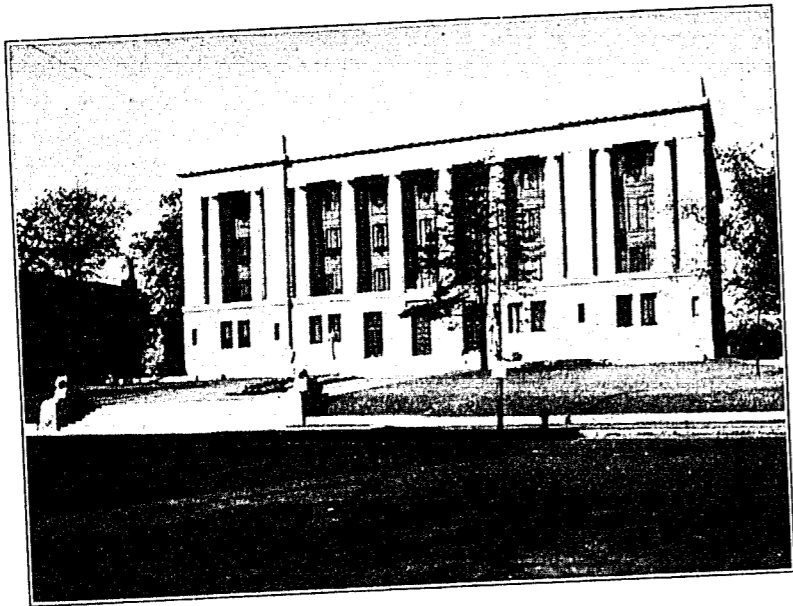

—Bat Eye

The moon is bright
 On the river tonight
 The breeze is blowing cool;
 A blonde-haired man
 In his motor car
 Is breaking a faculty rule.
 The hour is late;
 The time flies by;
 And soon he must rush away.
 He must leave the cover
 Of reed and rill
 In order that he may reach the "Hill"
 Before the break of day.
 Oh, what a change
 For such a man
 To lead our students on—
 But so it is, and will be so
 Forever and anon.

With hands upraised,
 He stands up there,
 And on his face,
 A vacant stare
 Strays out beyond
 That voice so dead,
 That issues from
 His close-cropped head.
 A puppy, he,
 At beck and call,
 He runs to do
 His "master's bawl."
 His shinning visage,
 We do pray,
 Shall never live
 Another day.
 In years to follow
 May we tell
 Of his narrowed soul
 Black-burnt—.

Who is this man
 With shoulders bent,
 Who, for his lodgings
 Pays no rent?—
 Who frightens freshmen
 Angers "sophs"
 And is in truth
 One of our "Profs" (?)
 Whose jaws doth wobble
 As he walks?—
 Who is this man
 Of shaky knees
 Who to the students
 Makes his pleas?
 Who is this man
 With air aloof?
 'Tis none other than
 "Carnegie Sleuth."
